STIMSON BALKS BRITISH BAIT TO GET U. S. IN OPEN

Keeps Naval Trumps Up His Sleeve.

The Day in London

Here are some of the high lights on the activities yesterday of the London naval conference from The Tribune's correspondents:

Mr. Henning tells how Secretary of State Stimson is playing his cards carefully, keeping silent and avoiding British bait to lure him into the open.

Mr. Steele reveals Great Britain and France have struck a snag on first day of active discussions.

Mr. Wales tells how delegates will keep opening proposals today to general outlines, ignoring hard facts and figures.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Today being a closed day, it was devoted largely to secret maneuvering among the delegations to strengthen the positions they will take at the first business session tomorrow of the five power naval conference. Interest centered on American Secretary of State Stimson's policy, which has been but dimly revealed up to date.

It is not difficult to perceive what every delegation but the American is aiming at. If Mr. Stimson knows where he is going, he is keeping it a profound secret. Amid the plots and counter plots of the most adroit diplomats of Europe and Asia, the Americans are afloat in the sea of world politics, in which they must sink or swim.

No Cards Laid on Table.

Thus far, no cards have been laid on the table by any of the five powers represented at the conference. The present situation calls to mind, in contrast, the performance of Charles Evans Hughes at the Washington conference in 1921, when he sacrificed the new American navy in the course of construction at the very moment the cards were dealt.

It was this diplomacy that gave Great Britain all she wanted at the beginning of the conference and deprived Mr. Hughes of power later on to force the limitation of auxiliaries as well as capital ships. The failure of this produced continued competition in naval building and created the problem which the London conference is called on to solve.

Stimson Feeling His Way.

Whatever commitments the Hoover administration has made to the British government in preliminary negotiations, it has not made the mistake of emulating Mr. Hughes' venture in shirt sleeve diplomacy. Mr. Stimson is patently feeling his way warily in the preliminary interchange of the conference.

In his speech at the first session of the conference yesterday he was even less definite than the heads of the other delegations in stating his national aims. The only concrete suggestion in his address was that the agreement sought at this conference should be for a short period, at the close of which the powers should again meet and revise the agreement.

Today Mr. Stimson continued his wary sounding out of the other delegations. He conferred with Prime Minister MacDonald, Reijuro Wakatsuki of the Japanese delegation, and others.

British Press for Warship Cuts.

The British are continuing to press for a program favorable to considerable cut in the question of reduction of battleship fleets before consideration of cruiser limitation. This is in line with the British objective to confine reduction mainly to capital ships, in which category the greatest economy can be effected, while retaining the existing British cruiser strength virtually intact.

This strategy is strangely reminiscent of the British policy at the Washington conference. The holding of that meeting was originally conceived by Lord Lee of Farnham, first lord of the British admiralty, for the purpose of halting American progress in battleship construction and in which Arthur Balfour lost all interest in the limitation of auxiliaries as soon as Mr. Hughes sacrificed the new American superdreadnaughts.

Stimson Balks at Proposal.

Mr. Stimson, it is understood, has refused to take up battleship reduction before cruiser limitation. Inasmuch, however, as the Hoover administration agreed in preliminary negotiations with the MacDonald government to extend the holiday for the

DRY UP NATION, IS PLEA VOICED BY WICKERSHAM

Public Support for Law Urged.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, appealed tonight to a nation-wide radio audience for public support of its recommendations to tighten prohibition enforcement.

If there had been any doubt about it, Mr. Wickersham made it evident that the commission's concern with respect to prohibition will have to do only with its enforcement and not its desirability.

"The eighteenth amendment is a part of the constitution and it is the duty of congress to enact adequate laws for the enforcement of its provisions," said Mr. Wickersham. "The detection and prosecuting agencies of the government should be properly organized and there should be tribunals properly constituted to deal promptly and efficiently with violations of the law. These would seem to be elementary principles not requiring argument."

Mellon Before Committee.

Earlier in the day Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran appeared before the house committee on expenditures in the executive departments in behalf of the Wickersham commission's bill for the transfer of the prohibition bureau from the treasury department to the department of justice.

Secretary Mellon and Dr. Doran were put on the grill by two persistent wets, Representative James T. Igoe [Dem., Ill.] and John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.], but succeeded in dodging questions as to the success or failure of prohibition.

Attorney General Mitchell will appear before the house committee within a few days, after which the bill as introduced by Representative William Williamson [Rep., S. D.], its chairman, will be favorably reported. It will receive early consideration in the house. In the meantime subcommittees of the house judiciary committee will go forward with the consideration of other recommendations of the commission.

Recommendations Reviewed.

Mr. Wickersham, in his radio address, which was under the joint auspices of the National League of Women Voters and the National Broadcasting company, reviewed the recent recommendations of the law enforcement commission relating to prohibition, including the proposal for transfer of the agencies for the detection and prosecution of violations of prohibition laws from the treasury to the department of justice.

"The commission is of the opinion that such a transfer would make for better enforcement of the law," said Mr. Wickersham. "It would leave the regulation of the lawful manufacture of liquor and alcohol in the treasury department, giving to the department of justice a check upon the granting and revocation of permits, which should contribute to the prevention of the unlawful diversion of alcohol or liquor for illicit purposes."

Mr. Wickersham defended the proposal for legislation to enable petty prohibition cases to be disposed of through commissioners of federal courts.

Jury Trial Right Retained.

"Objections have been raised in some quarters to the effect that the provisions recommended for the prosecution of petty misdemeanors upon information instead of indictment and by trial by the court without a jury, after hearing before a United States commissioner, robs the citizen of the right of trial by jury," said Mr. Wickersham. "The claim is without substance. The right of trial by jury, secured by the constitution, never did extend to petty misdemeanors. But, even in the case of such misdemeanors, the recommendation of the commission would secure to a defendant charged with one of these petty offenses the right of trial by jury, should he demand it in season. The adoption of our recommendation, we believe, would very greatly relieve the congestion in prohibition cases in the federal courts.

Mr. Wickersham enumerated other recommendations thus far made by

Warmer Still by Tomorrow, Is Prediction

It'll Soon Be Over

Temperatures in Chicago suburbs as reported at midnight were:

Homewood	—10	Niles Center	— 8
Willow Springs	— 8	Libertyville	—15
Morton Grove	— 5	Zion	—12
Oak Park	— 5	Waukegan	—11

After one final dip of 5 degrees below zero this morning, the temperature is scheduled for a steady climb which will bring an end to the third subzero wave of the winter by midafternoon. C. A. Donnel, government weather forecaster, last night predicted that clear skies and a warm sun will send the mercury up to 15 degrees above zero before tonight, with a possible rise to 20 or more by tomorrow afternoon.

The temperature should not fall below 10 degrees above zero tonight, Mr. Donnel said, and tomorrow night, according to all indications, will be only moderately cold.

5 Below Due This Morning.

After a drop to 8 degrees below zero at 8 a. m. yesterday, the temperature mounted steadily throughout the morning, reaching a maximum of 6 above at 2 p. m. Then the mercury started its final journey toward zero and at 1 o'clock this morning had reached —2, but the rate of fall was slow and Mr. Donnel expressed the belief that the thermometer would not register below —5 today.

The determining factor which indicated that the end of the frigid wave was in sight was a falling barometer in the northwest, where temperatures began to rise slowly last night.

Many Fires, 2 Deaths Here.

The cold wave here was accompanied by a number of fires and two more deaths, atttributed to the cold. George Steiner, 22 years old, 207 North Crawford avenue, collapsed and died while walking in front of 955 Washington boulevard. Mrs. Catherine Miller, 49 years old, was found frozen in the back yard of her home at 1017 South Harvey avenue, Oak Park, after being missing overnight. The body was found by her husband, Fred Miller, a plumber.

Besides the numerous small blazes, two big fires drove more than 70 families into the street. Fifty-two families were routed from their homes in the Frontenac apartments at 3943-55 Clarendon avenue, by a fire which started from an overheated furnace in the basement and swept through thirty apartments in the building.

Twenty Families Routed.

A second apartment house fire drove twenty colored families from their flats in the building at 3958-64 Langley avenue.

The two story factory of the Airline Manufacturing company, rug and carpet manufacturers, at 6054 Wentworth avenue, was wrecked last night by a fire which started in a boiler room and swept through the building before it was discovered. W. F. Van Lanyi, the manager, estimated the loss at $50,000.

Ray Sneeden, John Shekl, and S. C. Jennings of the Highland Park fire department suffered frozen faces when the department made a four mile run to extinguish a fire in the home of Frank Recktenwald at County Line and Ridge roads.

The protracted period of frigid weather extended the ice field off the lake shore out beyond the range of vision and ice six inches thick choked the mouth of the Chicago river, harbor boats being used to break a channel to the open water.

PUBLIC SALARY DEBT IS PLACED AT $11,276,157

Officials Hunt Cash Without Success.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

"So far as operating revenues are concerned, both the city and county are broke. The picture painted by Silas H. Strawn is too conservative. I never knew of an American municipality in such desperate condition."

This comment came from one of Chicago's leading bankers yesterday, following a conference of several bankers with the Strawn citizens' committee. He said that the banks cannot buy any more tax anticipation warrants.

Public Employés Unpaid.

A survey yesterday of the public schools, city corporate fund, and county finances showed that they are more unfortunate than just having an empty pocket—simply being "broke." In addition to the community's floating debt of about $185,000,000—as estimated by Mayor Thompson—this trio of local governments has been unable to pay its employés for a month to six weeks; and no money is in sight with which to pay in the future.

The city, county, and school board owe their 40,182 employés a total of $11,276,157. That is the combined estimate of wages and salaries which will be due employés at the end of this month. The city and school board total of employés, now in this predicament, is 35,520.

Salary Debts Summarized.

City police	6,715	$ 1,395,432
City firemen	2,689	598,216
Other city help	8,506	2,156,928
School teachers	13,228	3,640,608
Other school help	4,300	1,333,000
County employes	3,862	1,133,506
Nurses, county	800	1,019,527
Totals	40,182	$11,276,157

How long school, city, and county employés can work without pay remains to be seen. The county has failed twice to sell $7,000,000 of tax anticipation warrants. It failed to get any bidders for $500,000 for forest preserve bonds.

The city has been trying, without success, to sell $625,000 in tax warrants for the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium.

School Board Passes Budget.

The school board passed its $161,000,000 budget finally yesterday afternoon, but President Caldwell said he has no hope of selling any school tax warrants. Neither the city corporate fund, the county, or school board has any cash in the treasury.

Although all were out trying to gather some cash yesterday, no progress was reported by the city, county or school board. Nor was the Strawn committee successful after four days of persistent effort.

Mayor Talks to Supporters.

The greatest display of activity was put on by Mayor Thompson and his friends who advocated boosting the corporate budget $4,625,000 above the $55,272,205 recommended by the council finance committee. The mayor gathered around him in his office nearly all of the aldermen who supported his budget boosting program. Then to each he gave a copy of "the minutes" of the meeting he had last Friday with 125 to 150 community newspaper editors.

The mayor requested that the aldermen get "the facts," contained in those "minutes," printed in neighborhood newspapers. Among the aldermen present were Coughlin, Feigenbutz, Cronson, Anderson, Jackson, Nelson, Konkowski, Roczyzalski, Sloan, Pacelli, Hoellen, Sintak, Taylor, Nusser, and Ringa.

Thompson Makes Speech.

Mayor Thompson made a speech. So did Corporation Counsel Ettelson and Ald. Nelson. Others present were George F. Harding, county treasurer, and Richard W. Wolfe, city commissioner of public works. Then in and out of the meeting were Assistant Corporation Counsel Leonard Ettelson, Robert M. Perbohner of the board of local improvements and Thomas V. Sullivan, tax attorney for the board of education.

The mayor did not have any plan to pay the approximately 18,000 city employés under his jurisdiction the $4,150,000 due them in salaries. In fact, he had no plan for raising money immediately. His central thought was to add $300,000,000 to the loop property valuations, which he claimed has been removed by the reassessment, although the amount in fact is $119,000,000. That plan would

ROB LAKE FOREST HOME OF LAWYER; BIND TWO MAIDS

Posing as interior decorators, four polite robbers invaded the home of Stuart J. Templeton, wealthy attorney, at 1388 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest, yesterday afternoon and escaped with more than $5,000 in jewelry, after binding and gagging two maids who were in the house. The Templetons' 2 year old daughter, who was in the care of the maids, was placed in bed by the bandits.

Mrs. Templeton was visiting her mother, Mrs. W. E. Casselberry, at 1386 Green Bay road, when three men knocked at the rear door of the Templeton house. They told Selma Wirtala, 18 years old, a maid, that they were interior decorators, who were to make estimates on the cost of decorating a new home which Mr. Templeton is to build.

The fourth bandit appeared from the background, wearing a mask and carrying a revolver. He thrust the weapon against the maid's back. While one of the men guarded Birdie Horan, 22 years old, a second maid, in the kitchen, the other three forced Miss Wirtala to lead them to the second floor and show them where Mrs. Templeton kept her jewelry.

The robbers then bound the maid's hands and feet and strapped her to a chair, with adhesive tape covering her mouth to prevent her from giving an alarm. One of them picked up the baby and placed her in her crib. Then, after binding Miss Horan, the bandits left by the rear door and drove away in an automobile. Mrs. Templeton freed the maids when she returned a half hour later.

Oil Magnate's Rum Freed of Duty, Charge

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Failure to collect $16,000 in penalties alleged to be due the United States government from Herbert L. Pratt, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of New York, for liquor smuggled into this country has been charged to Philip Elting, collector of the port of New York; Col. Arthur F. Foran, collector of customs; Henry C. Stuart, assistant collector; George Brewer, assistant collector, and George O'Keefe, special agent here of the treasury department.

An affidavit has been filed with President Hoover accusing the men of abuse of their official authority in granting immunity from payment of penalties due the United States government, conspiracy to defraud the United States of revenue, neglect of duty, undue discrimination, and gross incompetency.

Seized on Steamship.

The liquor was seized on the steamship Excello on May 20 last.

The charges were transmitted to the President on Jan. 9 by G. Rowland Munroe, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, on behalf of Ernest S. Braidwood of Somerville, N. J., whose name figured today as one of the alleged participants in the mysterious raid late Monday night on Col. Foran's hunting lodge at Mount Airy, Hunterdon county, N. J.

Drey Leaguer Acts.

The Rev. James K. Shields, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, also filed with the President charges against Col. Foran, accusing him of being a "personal wet" and of having served liquor at his hunting lodge. Depite this charge, Mr. Shields and Munroe denied that the Anti-Saloon league had instigated the raid on the camp, although both admitted their eagerness to block the reappointment of Col. Foran, whose term expires Jan. 31.

Vigorous denials of the accusations came immediately from Collector Elting, Col. Foran, Mr. Stuart, and Mr. O'Keefe.

Mystery Gunman Shoots Youth as He Plays Pool

Robert White, 19 years old, 1952 Congress street, said by the police to be a minor west side hoodlum, was shot in the left lung and critically wounded last night in the poolroom of George Drulin at 1734 Madison street. White was playing pool when a gunman stepped in the door and fired five times at him. One bullet struck the youth in the back. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital and the police started a search for Albert (Peanuts) Marks, 7007 Laflin street, whom White's brother, Grady, accused of the shooting.

WORKERS AT MERCY OF LOAN SHARKS IN CITY, COUNTY CRISIS

Inability of the city and county to meet pay rolls has placed their employés at the mercy of the loan sharks and has sent many of them to legitimate loan banks to appeal for funds to meet living expenses while they work without pay, an inquiry revealed yesterday.

Employés of the county reported also that loan sharks had approached them with offers to lend money for interest which ranged from 3½ to 10 per cent a month. The high rate of interest was asked because wages of city and county employés cannot be garnisheed.

Robert M. Sweitzer, county clerk, declared that he would refuse to approve any loan shark salary assignments made by employés. The agents for the loan companies were said to be doing a flourishing business among employés.

A reporter who visited one of the legitimate loan banks in the loop found three policemen waiting for interviews with officials of the bank on obtaining loans.

"I didn't have carfare to get down here and I had to wear my uniform to get a free ride," one policeman said. "I ran out of coal in the middle of this zero spell and I've got to have money. I owe the butcher, the grocer, the coal man and a lot of others for living expenses and my credit with them is stretched about as far as it will go."

TOURIST SHIP COLLIDES WITH ROCK; 400 SAVED

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 23 (Thursday).—(AP)—The German liner Monte Cervantes, carrying tourists from Buenos Aires, has collided with a rock in the Straits of Magellan, at the extreme tip of the South American mainland.

Private advices at 3:30 a. m. today said the ship's passengers, numbering more than 400, had been taken ashore in the ship's boats. No loss of life was reported.

Famous London Tower Threatened by Flames

LONDON, Jan. 23 (Thursday).—(AP)—Outbreak of fire in the famous tower of London early today caused much excitement and drew a big force of firemen and engines, but the garrison had quenched the flames. Officials said that neither the crown jewels nor other valuable collections were endangered.

not bring in any money, even if it were carried out, for several months.

The mayor also wanted the aldermen to spread "the information" that the city's difficulties are solely due to the reassessment, and that because of that reassessment other local governments are suffering from lack of ready cash.

However, it was given out that the city is paying library employés, is finding cash for 2,637 water bureau employés who receive about $725,000 a month, and is supplying about $25,000 a month to employés paid out of the vehicle license fees.

Ettelson Gives an Opinion.

Corporation Counsel Ettelson, in a legal opinion to the health department, took a fling at the aldermen who voted to keep the corporate expenses within the estimated revenue. Mr. Ettelson advised the health commissioner, the superintendent of streets, and the commissioner of gas and electricity that they cannot reinstate the employés whom they laid off when the aldermanic budget was first passed.

"The responsibility for this deplorable and dangerous situation," reads the Ettelson opinion, "rests upon those aldermen who failed to act in this matter as you requested" [that is, add $4,625,000 to the budget].

The school board in passing its budget and tax levy took the preliminary steps to have $66,878,161 in taxes spread for the benefit of the schools. Of this total, $46,901,175 is for the educational fund, $17,370,946 for the building of new schools, $1,389,675 for text books, $694,837 for playgrounds, and $521,128 for pensions.

Last November the board asked a special session of the state legislature. The reply of Gov. Emmerson, dated Jan. 11, in which he said, "the request will receive due consideration," was presented to the board yesterday. A special session of the general assembly is the hope of the school board.

County Out Hunting Money.

The county board had Commissioner Harry Newby, chairman of its finance committee, and J. Louis Jacobs, expert adviser, out looking for money. They obtained no promises.

Charles V. Barrett of the board of review announced that the board will take up at once Mayor Thompson's request that $300,000,000 be added to loop valuations. He said the board hopes to dispose of the matter soon. The hearing on the 1,700 complaints made by Attorney Sullivan for the school board against loop property owners was continued by the reviewers.

CHICAGO AHEAD OF LONDON, SAYS BRITISH MAGNATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 22. — Chicago was compared with London to the disadvantage of the latter today when Sir Felix Pole, chairman of the Associated Electrical Industries and former general manager of the Great Western railway, addressed a luncheon of the American Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Cecil.

America has always been ahead of England in electrical development, Sir Felix said. He blamed this partly on the lack of large schemes for providing economical manufacture and distribution of current and partly on the lack of standardization of equipment in the service provided.

Chicago, Sir Felix pointed out, is served by three electrical undertakings, while London, with not much more than double the population and with less usage of electricity, is served by 101. Sir Felix went on to instance Chicago's amazing progress since the war, giving figures to show the amount of electricity consumed there had multiplied six times between 1922 and 1929.

Girl, 19, Is Identified as Lure for Bandit Gang

Mrs. Margaret De Barge Gray, 19 years old, 215 West 119th street, Whiting, was identified last night as the lure for a gang of bandits who have committed 50 south side robberies and whose activities led to the shooting on Tuesday night of Leo Sableski, 8134 Burnham avenue, by Detective Sergeant William Doyle. With Szableski, the police captured Joseph Durham, 8533 Muskegon avenue, the girl's sweetheart. His confession resulted in her arrest yesterday and her subsequent identification as the girl who lured Tony Halicki of East Chicago to a rendezvous with the gang where he was robbed of his automobile on Jan. 8.

INSTITUTIONS TRY TO KEEP GOING WITHOUT FUNDS

County and City Hospital Workers Unpaid.

Although public charitable institutions throughout the city and county confront a serious financial shortage, a preliminary survey yesterday showed that the officials are trying every expedient to maintain service.

"The county hospital will attempt to keep open," declared Warden Michael Zimmer. "We haven't as yet turned away any worthy applicant or turned out any patients into the cold. But 800 nurses and 595 attendants, janitors and orderlies have received no pay for a month and we have been purchasing supplies on credit. How long we can continue to function under such circumstances is problematical."

Records in the controller's office showed that the hospital nursing fund is now $1,019,657 in arrears. Graduate nurses received their last pay on Dec. 3, and the women attendants and men orderlies were paid last on Dec. 20. As a result, many workers who are supporting families are practicing the most rigid economy.

295 Workers Not Paid.

At the Oak Forest infirmary, where hundreds of the aged and poor are cared for, 295 attendants have received no pay since Dec. 20. A pay roll of $16,807 is due today, but, like other county departments, the infirmary must get along without funds. Superintendent Frank Venecek expressed doubt concerning how long this would be possible.

Ninety-five workers in the juvenile home and 135 in the juvenile court probation office, have gone without pay for more than a month. In the bureau of public welfare, 124 employés will wait in vain for a $11,199 pay roll today. Similarly, the Cook County School for Boys is being forced to operate without funds.

The county's outdoor relief fund is $94,000 in arrears; the children's home placing fund is short $55,879, and the mother's pension fund is nearly $100,000 short. The county's industrial schools should receive $29,892 today, but the money will not be forthcoming.

Without Pay for a Month.

In the schools for the sub-normal, anemic, deaf, blind, crippled, epileptic, tubercular and delinquent children, 303 teachers have gone without pay for a month with no prospect of receiving money in the near future. Thirty truant officers also have awaited their wages in vain.

Dr. Gottfried Koehler, head of the city's contagious diseases hospital, where 382 patients are being treated at present, said that 100 beds would probably be eliminated as a result of the cut in appropriations for the hospital. None of the attendants have been paid for January work.

An extremely serious situation has arisen in the city's infant welfare work, Dr. Koehler said. The staff, which formerly made 100,000 calls yearly in poor homes, giving advice on the rearing of children, has been discharged because of lack of money.

There are 1,030 patients in the tuberculosis sanitarium being cared for by 960 attendants. None of the attendants have been paid for January, and there is no money to continue the supervisory service which has been maintained previously over 45,000 tuberculosis victims in homes and clinics.

EVANSTON SCHOOLS SEEK MONEY TO KEEP FROM CLOSING

The board of education of the Evanston school district No. 75 yesterday sought a market for $750,000 worth of 1929 tax anticipation warrants, in an effort to raise funds immediately to keep the schools open until the end of the year. A plethora of tax anticipation warrants held already by Evanston and Chicago banks has made it difficult to dispose of the warrants here, and aid from outside banks will be asked, A. D. Sanders, chairman of the board's finance committee, said.

The board has on hand now only enough money to keep the schools in operation until about Feb. 1, and although Mr. Sanders said that the warrants probably would be disposed of eventually, the immediate need is for ready cash to tide the board over until it finds a buyer for them.

District 76 has already disposed of its 1929 warrants, and will issue warrants against the 1930 taxes to obtain funds next spring, Mr. Sanders said.

JUDGE TO FORCE STATE TO TRY JAMES O'BRIEN

James N. [High Pockets] O'Brien, head of the one time slot machine syndicate, will probably have to face a jury in Judge John P. McGoorty's court today, even though the state's attorney's office did not follow the most proper method of getting a bribery indictment against him. Judge McGoorty, after listening to arguments on the legality of the method used by the state, indicated that he will refuse to quash the indictment, but will make the state go through the motions at least of a trial.

Attorneys Michael Ahern and Timothy Fell, representing O'Brien, moved to quash the indictment because no evidence was introduced before the grand jury to substantiate the bribery charge. They produced the four witnesses for the state, whose names appeared on the indictment and on whose testimony the true bill was obviously voted. All the witnesses said they had given no testimony against O'Brien, did not know him then or now.

Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers finally said that the indictment was procured on testimony of David C. Rockola, called the "crown prince" of the slot machine syndicate who confessed, but later repudiated his statements. Rockola did not appear in person before the grand jury, it was admitted, but his testimony before a prior grand jury was read by a court stenographer.

RUSSIA MOVES UP TROOPS IN NEW CHINA RAIL CRISIS

Moscow Issues Demands to Nanking, Report.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 22. — Chinese papers today published numerous unconfirmed dispatches from Harbin, Mukden, and Peiping indicating a new crisis has developed in north Manchuria over settlement of the Chinese Eastern railway controversy.

This latest crisis has resulted in what appears to be a fresh Russian ultimatum demanding China carry out the complete terms of the so-called preliminary agreement signed at Habarovsk.

Russia Makes Four Demands.

The newspaper Sin Wan Pao, in a Harbin dispatch, stated that Russia has presented, through the soviet consul at Harbin, four demands, as follows:

First—That no change will be granted in the Habarovsk agreement, which did not require ratification by the National government.

Second—That the Chinese-soviet formal conference at Moscow must be held not later than the middle of February.

Third—That in the event Mukden is unable or unwilling to carry out the agreement the soviet government will delay withdrawal of troops from Manchouli.

Fourth—That Mukden make an immediate reply to the foregoing demands.

Ask Envoy's Arrest.

The foreign ministry at Nanking has thus far failed to comment on the reported demands, but Chinese papers and an organization known as the People's Anti-Russian association, with headquarters at Nanking, have demanded abrogation of the Chinese-soviet Harbarovsk agreement. The latter body also demands that China arrest and try on a treason charge the Chinese delegate, Tsai Yu-shan, who signed the agreement.

It is also stated that restoration of traffic between Europe and Asia has been postponed because of the new row. Other dispatches from Mukden allege that the soviets have halted removal of their far eastern army, and are again transporting war materials, including tanks, airplanes, and heavy artillery, to the Chinese border.

The newspaper Shun Pao, in a Peiping dispatch, stated today that the new president of the Chinese Eastern railway, Mo Te-hui, has refused to accept the appointment as Chinese delegate to Moscow, and has wired Nanking suggesting appointment of a new delegate.

ARCHITECT COSTS IN SCHOOL OFFICE FOUND TO BE HIGH

Investigation of the cost of school buildings by a committee representing the Western Society of Engineers and the American Institute of Architects, Chicago chapter, led to a few preliminary recommendations yesterday. The committee said it was not yet ready to report on school building costs, but it did say:

"A casual study, however, of a list of employés of the architectural bureau of the board of education and the pay roll would lead us to believe that the cost of operation of the bureau is disproportionate to the volume of buildings now being designed and constructed."

The group suggested a study of the cost of operating the bureau as compared with bureaus in other cities and architectural offices in private practice and the cost of public school buildings in other cities as well as school buildings constructed by private interests.

The committee stated its belief that "no adminsitrative board of unwieldy numbers, limited terms of office, and varied opinions, can ever hope to equal the business efficiency of a highly trained energetic and conscientious executive who is given a comparatively free hand to work with promptness and trained judgment."

3 POLISH TOWNS SCENES OF RED RIOTS; 1 KILLED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Jan. 22.—Communists started disturbances in various parts of Poland today. One serious clash occurred in Lubycza, near Lwow, when Ukrainian communists stoned the police, who charged the crowd. One communist was killed and a score injured, mostly policemen. Twelve agitators were arrested.

At Grudziadz 700 unemployed, following communist agitators, attacked the city hall, but police prevented its destruction and dispersed the mob.

Germans Blow Up Rhine Forts as French Depart

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 22.—One dynamite explosion after another sounded in the Rhine valley near Kehl today as old imperial forts were blown up. These explosions were music to the ears of Rhinelanders, because they meant France had agreed to take steps for the final evacuation.

Until a few days ago the forts were held by the French, but as soon as an agreement had been reached at The Hague reparations conference orders were issued to the French to withdraw, and to the Germans to raze the forts.

MOBILIZE TROOPS IN HONDURAS TO CURB GUATEMALA

Incident Perils Boundary Dispute Conference.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Jan. 22. —(AP)—The foreign minister tonight announced that mobilization of Honduras troops had been ordered to dislodge Guatemalan troops who were alleged to have occupied Honduras territory.

The foreign minister, in a statement, disclosed that military movements on the Guatemalan border had threatened the life of the joint boundary dispute conference which now is seeking solution of the problem. The status quo ante was restored, however, and the conference met on Monday.

Honduras Garrison Flees.

The statement said:

"A detachment of Guatemalan forces occupied Lancetillal, indisputably in the jurisdiction of Honduras, and the Honduras military garrison consisting of four soldiers and a telegraph operator were compelled to evacuate before the numerical superiority of the invaders.

"Upon learning of such unexpected action, President Vincent Mejia Colindres ordered Gen. Rodas Alvarado to mobilize the troops of his command and proceed toward the point of invasion to dislodge immediately the Guatemalan troops.

U. S. Legation Informed.

"The president at the same time informed the American legation of the defense measures taken and stated that until Guatemalan troops evacuated Honduras territory the Honduras delegates to the boundary dispute conference would refrain from acting as delegates.

"The American legation communicated the above to the United States government. On Sunday the American minister to Guatemala informed the foreign office that the Guatemala troops had evacuated Honduras territory. A Honduras battalion of troops was sent to the border and almost made contact with the invaders. In order to prevent in the future such disagreeable events, Gen. Rodas Alvarado and his troops received orders to remain at El Paraiso, near the border.

Bolivians Deny Paraguay Charges.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 22.—Paraguay's declaration that Bolivia is preparing a general offensive on the Paraguayan frontier, of which Bolivia claims to possess ample proofs, was received with incredulity here. The declaration was flatly denied in Bolivian quarters, which pooh-poohed the assertion as a Paraguayan nightmare.

9 CHILDREN AND DRIVER DIE WHEN TRAIN HITS BUS

'Wanton Carelessness' of Dead Man Blamed.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Unsuspecting the deadly danger of an onrushing New York Central mail train, nine children and the driver of a school bus in which they were riding were killed today near Berea, O., 15 miles south of here, as they rode across a railroad track in its path. One other child was injured seriously but is expected to recover.

The heavy locomotive ripped through the light bus, scattering bodies and wreckage for 500 feet down the track.

Those killed were John Taylor, 36, the bus driver, and the following school children:

William Davidson, 10, and his brother, Vernon, 7; Rita Zelinski, 9, her sister, Dorothy, 11, and her brother, Vincent, 6; William Pastorik, 10; Evelyn Kaltenback, 7; Jacob Walter, 11, and his sister, Juanita, 9.

In a hospital at Berea tonight was Ethel Davidson, sister of William and Vernon. She had a broken leg, cuts and bruises.

A Four Track Crossing.

The crossing, although guarded only by an ordinary "railroad crossing" sign, is not obstructed in its visibility, except when more than one train approaches. There are four main tracks and two switches across the highway at that point. The road was not slippery and weather conditions were good.

Taylor, the bus driver, approached the crossing, stopped and waited for a passenger train to pass. Then he drove ahead, taking himself and the children to death beneath the wheels of the mail train.

John Hand, engineer of the mail train, said he was not on the right side of the cab to see the bus, and that the fireman was shoveling coal as the train approached the crossing. Relieved from the throttle when the train arrived later at Toledo, Hand was near a nervous collapse from the shock.

Speeding Toward Chicago.

The train was traveling about 45 miles an hour, bound for Chicago. It hit the bus squarely in the middle and was 500 feet down the track before Hand could stop it.

Passengers and train crew at once jumped out and rendered aid to the injured and dying. Trucks and automobiles finally arrived and took three of the injured to a hospital, where two of them soon died. Then the bodies at the crossing were gathered together and identified by friends, parents and teachers.

The young victims were pupils from the first to the sixth grade in the Brookpark village school, a Cleveland suburb. Thirteen students at Berea High school had left the bus just a few moments before the crash.

Mother Sees 2 Sons Die.

One of them, Mrs. Rosie Davidson, who lost two sons in the accident and whose daughter was taken to the hospital, saw the crash from her home a quarter mile away.

Coroner A. J. Pearse of Cuyahoga county called an inquest late today at which 15 witnesses testified. Pearse said that he would not give a formal verdict until he had questioned the engineer and fireman of the train tomorrow. He was emphatic tonight, however, in declaring that upon the basis of evidence already submitted he believed that "wanton carelessness" on the part of Taylor, the driver, caused the tragedy.

"I think it is an unquestioned case of carelessness and negligence," Pearse said. "There is an unobstructed view of the railroad at that point for perhaps three miles. I feel certain that the driver saw the slow train pass on the track farthest from him and failed completely to see the speeding mail train, which was on the next track nearer him."

It was the heaviest death toll of a crossing accident in Ohio since the tragedy at Bellevue, exactly a year ago today, in which 21 persons were killed when a bus was hit by a trolley car. The Berea accident was the fourth bus tragedy in Ohio within three weeks and ran the toll of these accidents to 20 dead and more than 30 injured for this brief period.

LAMP PURCHASE STARTS FAMILY FEUD; 2 SHOT

Whether Leo Leibovitz, 28 years old, 1245 South Turner avenue, had received the same lamp he had paid for was a moot question last night which involved the members of the Leibovitz family in a pitched battle with the Brownsteins. And when it was over, one Leibovitz and one Brownstein had been shot, and the question was still undecided, although Leo still had the lamp.

Leo bought the lamp yesterday at the Brownstein lamp store at 3437 Roosevelt road, operated by Herman Brownstein, 3307 Douglas boulevard, and his brother, Joseph, 1518 South Spaulding avenue. Leo paid Herman $11. But later in the day Herman and Joseph called at Leo's home and demanded $4 more, claiming that a $15 lamp had been delivered. Leo refused to pay.

Last night the brothers Brownstein entered the restaurant of Leo's father, Zelig Leibovitz, 53 years old, at 3406 Roosevelt road, and according to Leo, both had guns. In the argument over the lamp, Herman, according to Leo's story, tapped Zelig on the head with the butt of his revolver, accidentally discharging it and shooting himself in the right hand. Leo rushed to his father's defense and Herman fired, the bullet clipping Zelig in the right shoulder. Zelig's two daughters joined in the affray and the Brownsteins were being severely pummeled by the Leibovitz family when the Fillmore police arrived.

DAIRY INTERESTS ACT TO INCREASE SALES OF BUTTER

If the present surplus of butter remains on the market for another 90 days farmers of the middle west will receive much lower returns from sale of dairy products in 1930 than during the last year, M. D. Munn, president of the National Dairy council, told dairymen from 15 states meeting in Chicago yesterday.

A campaign to encourage rural populations to consume more butter instead of substitutes was launched. Advertising and educational publicity will be utilized, with state colleges, county agents, departments of agriculture, farmers' cooperatives, and butter manufacturers assisting, according to the plans approved.

GETS INSURANCE TO GUARANTEE ALIMONY TO WIFE

Alimony insurance was approved yesterday by Superior Judge Sabath. The insurance, the first of its kind in the history of Cook county jurisprudence, was obtained by Frank E. Mueller, vice president of the Roberts-Schaefer company, mining engineers, to guarantee annual alimony payments of $6,000 to Mrs. Mary F. Mueller, 40 East Oak street, for five years.

The Muellers were married on Aug. 15, 1905, and separated on Oct. 4, 1925. They have a son, Frank E. Mueller Jr., a student at the University of Illinois. Mrs. Mueller filed a bill for separate maintenance in 1927, charging desertion. This was answered by a cross-bill for divorce on charges of cruelty brought by the husband. The cases were contested for two years.

Judge Sabath's attempts at reconciliation failed. Mueller asked through his attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr., that his wife change her bill to a suit for divorce and offered to obtain insurance to guarantee payments. The plan was approved by Attorney Preston Boyden, representing Mrs. Mueller, and the decree was entered yesterday. Under the agreement Mrs. Mueller will receive $5,000 outright and $500 a month. The insurance was written by the Columbia Casualty company. Attorneys Boyden and Cantwell are to act as trustees of the stock offered as collateral.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANNES, France, Jan. 22.—Free to return to United States, from which he fled three years ago, but physically unable to leave his house, James F. O'Neill, one of the most prominent men in the petroleum industry before his precipitate departure for Europe following exposure of the Teapot Dome scandal, lies in his palatial villa here, shattered in health and under the constant care of a nurse. A ruling just made permits the oil man to return home.

He has been ill for over a year and is at present on his back fighting his way to convalescence after a serious relapse.

Since his arrival on the Riviera, more than two years ago, Mr. O'Neill has been persistently dogged by ill-health. He today expressed his keenest desire to go home again. But, he said, his doctors have stated it is impossible for him to think of risking the trip until midsummer.

SICKNESS ADDS TO HARDSHIPS OF MAROONED FOLK

More Than 2,000 Families Flood Sufferers.

Vincennes, Ind., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Subzero weather and sickness have increased the hardships of marooned families in the flooded districts of downstate Indiana. H. B. Williamson, national representative of the Red Cross here, said conditions in the area of 200,000 acres flooded by water from the Wabash and White rivers are comparable to those during the 1928 Mississippi flood.

Surveys show that in three Indiana and three Illinois counties 2,265 families are flood sufferers. Of this number some 1,025 are homeless and 1,180 are said to be in need of assistance.

Some Have Pneumonia.

There are a number of pneumonia, smallpox and influenza cases among the flood refugees cooped up in the second stories of buildings in the Decker Chapel area, leaders of relief expeditions reported.

Just before dusk tonight a Red Cross airplane from Indianapolis dropped medical supplies and food for the residents of this area. The plane was piloted by Lieuts. Lawrence Genaro and Walter Peck. Ice is too thick for boats to attempt further relief work, they reported.

Nine men, each drawing a hand sled loaded with food and fuel, left Patoka today for Gordon Hills, seven miles west, where twelve families have been isolated for days.

Doctor Finds Many Ill.

Dr. E. F. Small of Decker reached Orrville, at the junction of the Wabash and White rivers, today and found that scores of persons were ill. There are at least twenty cases of influenza and pneumonia in the district, he said.

Claypool Hills is running very low on food. The only store in the community parceled out the last of its bacon, flour, and bread Tuesday.

A huge ice gorge has formed in the Wabash at Riverton and has backed up water to such an extent that levees guarding a number of towns are threatened. If the jam should break suddenly Vincennes would be directly in the path of the flood released.

Many Hundreds Homeless.

Hundreds of families, many of which are badly in need of assistance, have been made homeless by the floods, and many thousands of acres of rich farm land have been flooded. Red Cross surveys show the following conditions in Indiana counties:

Knox county—365 families affected, 175 homeless, 250 need assistance; 25,000 acres flooded.

Gibson county—250 families affected, 100 out of homes, 150 need assistance; 10,000 acres flooded.

Posey county—100 families affected, 25 homeless, 50 need assistance; 2,000 acres flooded.

Illinois Counties Suffer.

Surveys in Illinois counties show:

Lawrence county—100 families affected, 75 need assistance; 10,000 acres flooded.

Wabash county—250 families affected, 100 out of homes, 150 need assistance; 3,000 acres flooded.

White county—450 families affected, 350 out of homes, 150 need assistance; 5,000 acres flooded.

Battle to Reach Marooned Folk.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 22.—(AP)—In the face of near zero weather rescue parties tonight battled to reach several hundred persons marooned by flood and ice in the St. Francis and Big Lake overflows in southeastern Missouri and northeastern Arkansas.

Reports from Blytheville indicated the plight of the farmers marooned in the lowlands was becoming more serious with the rapid drop in temperature. One report said a group of about 20 families, hedged in on a knoll in the Little river district, had only a meager supply of food and fuel.

SAYS DANCING, NOT RUM, ROOT OF MORAL COLLAPSE IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The royal commission on liquor licensing continues steadily to plow through vast heaps of reports and suggestions from persons from all classes and from all sections of England.

Dancing rather than drink nowadays contributes toward domestic infidelity, according to a Welsh police magistrate. The police magistrate of Hull declares that drinking by women on licensed premises is more in evidence today than ever before. The old time stigma attaching to a woman's entering a public house has largely disappeared.

Bradford's chief constable does not believe that restricted hours of sale are responsible for the decrease in drinking. Several police chiefs favor abolition of afternoon closing, which, they assert, merely drives drinkers from the public houses to clubs.

His Detective Style Is Way Beyond 'Em.

Charles Frederickson, 21 years old, studied to be a detective in a correspondence school, but he had his first practical lesson in criminal detection yesterday in Judge Herbert G. Immenhausen's court. It cost him the loss of his brand new gun and a year's parole.

Frederickson arrived in Chicago on Tuesday with two gold sealed diplomas tucked in his pocket, a bright badge pinned beneath his coat lapel, and a gun strapped to his hip. The diplomas attested that he was a graduate of the Mozley Detective school of Los Angeles and the letters "S. M. O." beneath the spreading eagle on his badge stamped him as a "self-made officer."

He Meets Real Coppers.

Yesterday Frederickson was going out in search of a job in the city he had picked as offering the largest field for promotion, but a suspicious usher spied the bulge of the gun at his hip as he sat in the Roosevelt theater on Tuesday night and summoned Police Sergt. Andrew Carroll and his squad.

"It's all right, sarge," Frederickson told Sergt. Carroll. "I'm a detective like you. I've been one for five years ever since I did some jobs for the marshal in Coldwater, Minn. —that's my home town—and I got a lot of scientific training from a couple of correspondence schools."

Frederickson said yesterday that it was professional jealousy that caused Sergt. Carroll to lock him up at the detective bureau. Then he imparted some of his scientific methods.

Charles Reveals His Methods.

"I've done a lot of work in shadowing, roping and observation," he said. "In shadowing you follow the crook down the street under cover. It's best to walk on the opposite side of the street and when the crook stops you slip into a doorway or an alley and pull your coat collar up. I usually blow my nose to throw them off the track.

"Roping, that's where you get on good terms with the crook and get his confidence. Then when you got the goods you turn on him. It takes a pretty smart man to do roping. I've done a lot of it.

"You can't learn 'observation.' It's a gift, but it takes a lot of training to get good at it. Observation is where you tell a crook by just looking at him."

MANIAC FIGHTS POLICE IN FLAT; SHOT TO DEATH

A five room apartment on the second floor of a flat building at 1512 North Kedvale avenue was the scene last night of a wild revolver battle in which Pacifico Ciammetti, 35 years old, was shot and killed by police. Ciammetti was demented, the police said.

He rented a room in the apartment a week ago from Mrs. Louise Riggert. She said he was sullen and moody and she feared him. Last night, she said, he appeared in the doorway of his room, unclothed and with a revolver in his hand. She screamed and ran to a neighbor's flat to telephone.

Shoots at Policeman.

The first policeman to reach the scene was Adolph Harris. A shot greeted him as he appeared at the foot of the stairs leading to the second floor. A few moments later Sergt. Ray Gilso and his squad, composed of Patrick Tuohy, Al Glass, Eugene McNally and George Giner, reinforced Harris.

Shooting as they went, the policemen rushed the stairs and charged into the flat. Ciammetti retreated into the bedroom and closed the door. He fired twice through the panels. The detectives took up a position in the parlor of the flat where they could direct their fire at the door.

Toss Tear Bombs in Room.

While this duel was in progress inside the flat, more squads of police arrived and surrounded the building. The window of the room in which the maniac was barricaded was broken and tear bombs tossed in. Ciammetti fired out the window at his attackers. In all the exchange of shots he wounded no one.

Finally, McNally crept along the hall to the bedroom door, pushed the door open with a stick and fired inside. Ciammetti made a rush and bullets from five guns riddled his body. He staggered back into the room and died a moment later.

During the shooting, Mrs. Riggert's husband, William, who was brought home from a hospital Tuesday, lay in bed in another bedroom. Several bullets whistled near him during the battle. He and his wife knew nothing of Ciammetti except that he said he had worked at a radio factory and had formerly lived at 2521 North Austin avenue.

ROBBER REFUSES SMALL CHANGE.

A robber held up a National Tea store at 1240 North Crawford avenue late yesterday and forced the manager, Miss Inglebroth Greenback, 24 years old, 1904 North Kostner avenue, to surrender $30. Miss Greenback said the man refused to take a small quantity of change.

MINNEAPOLIS CHICAGO ST. PAUL

Call In Experts; Resume Dickering Tomorrow.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Although it has been announced that this would be an off day for the five power naval conference, active diplomacy behind the scenes began, and there was hardly an hour when one or another of the members of the delegations were not conferring. They were trying to iron out various differences and difficulties in preparation for the formal beginning of the work tomorrow, when the plenary sesion of the conference meets behind closed doors in the royal levee room of St. James' palace.

The delegates will assembly around a long table in a room hung with the portraits of Great Britain's sea fighters, who will look down on this effort of their successors to save Great Britain's mastery of the waves from submersion under the rising tide of western power.

MacDonald Tells Cabinet Plans.

The day began with a meeting of the British cabinet at 10 a. m., at which Prime Minister MacDonald laid before his colleagues, his plans for the exposition of Great Britain's position tomorrow.

When this was ended, the French delegation arrived at 10 Downing street, and for more than an hour they conferred with the British delegates. It was announced that the purpose of this meeting was to review points which were raised in the recent French memorandum and the British reply to it, and to try to harmonize the points of difference.

It was found during this conference that some points needed further elucidation, necessitating consultation with experts, and it was decided to resume the meeting at 10 a. m. on Friday.

Stimson Is Called in.

It is evident, however, that Mr. MacDonald was not satisfied, for immediately after the French left, a hurry up call was sent to the Ritz hotel for American Secretary of State Stimson. He drove to Downing street and remained there more half an hour.

At 4 p. m. Mr. MacDonald, accompanied by some of the members of his delegation, saw Dino Grandi and the other Italian delegates at the house of commons. It is believed they discussed the Italian demand for parity with France in the Mediterranean.

This question has caused the British prime minister much worry, because the French are determined to reject that demand unless its acceptance is coupled with some sort of a pact guaranteeing peace in the Mediterranean.

Britain to Steer Clear.

Great Britain, in this matter, is just as determined as the United States to keep out of entanglements in continental quarrels. No British government dares pledge Great Britain's navy and army in a problematical quarrel not of her own making.

It is interesting in this connection to learn that Premier Tardieu of France and Foreign Minister Briand are reported to be divided on this subject. M. Briand, it is said, is insistent upon a Mediterranean pact, and is anxious to involve the United States in it. M. Tardieu, who is more of a realist, opposes this attempt, which he believes will do more harm than good, and is likely only to offend both the United States and Great Britain.

At 6 o'clock this evening, Mr. MacDonald broadcasted a message to the United States, and at 6:30 he received Reijuro Wakatsuki of Japan and his associates. Meantime, other meetings were proceeding. M. Tardieu and Sig. Grandi met, and the Japanese also saw the Americans. The subjects of all these meetings were carefully guarded.

How Long Shall Pact Last?

It is learned that at Keith Merrill's dinner party last night, where Mr. MacDonald, Arthur Henderson, Secretary Stimson, Dwight Morrow, M. Tardieu, and M. Briand were guests, the chief subject of discussion was the length of life of any agreement which might be reached at the conference.

The British insist upon a short term of duration, suggesting an expiration and review of the agreement in 1936. The French want a period about twice that long. The American position has not yet been clarified, but it is suggested that they, too, favor a shorter period.

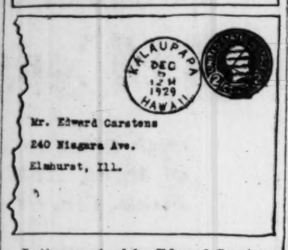
From Hawaiian Leper Colony



Letter received by Edward Carstens, 240 Niagara avenue, Elmhurst.

Kalaupapa (Kalawao), on the island of Molokai, of the Hawaii group (Sandwich island), is the leper colony, the "land whence there is no return." The group is located in the North Pacific ocean between 20 and 25 north latitude and 155 and 160 west longitude, just south of the tropic of Capricorn. The Hawaiian islands form the American outpost of defense for the Pacific coast and are an important link in our communication with the Philippines. The islands were discovered by Capt. James Cook in 1778 and were named in honor of the earl of Sandwich. Annexation to the United States was officially proclaimed in 1898 after a hundred or more years of tempestuous misrule and revolution following the invasion of western civilization.

Under the supervision of the United States government much progress has been made in controlling the dread disease of leprosy. Chaulmoogra oil from which a specific cure has been evolved by Dr. A. L. Dean, president of the University of Hawaii, is now produced on Molokai island.

Father Damien, a Belgian priest, devoted his life to this colony and finally contracted the disease. His work was taken up by an American, Brother Dutton, who at 87 is still active in the colony after 43 years' service.

Parrot Fever Germs Found in Body of Ailing Woman

Dr. Lloyd Arnold of the state board of health announced yesterday that he had isolated the organism causing psittacosis, or parrot's fever, in tests from Mrs. Vearle Whitson of Westmont, who had been a suspected victim of the disease. The organism was found in the body of a parrot owned by Mrs. Whitson and the examination has shown that the woman was infected with the disease. The diagnosis resulted in a quarantine order for the woman's home. After two weeks of illness Mrs. Whitson has been improving daily and physicians predicted that she will regain her health.

STIMSON BALKS BRITISH PLAN TO GET U. S. IN OPEN

construction of capital ships five years and to further consider a reduction in the number and size of these vessels of war, Mr. Stimson's refusal is less significant than it otherwise would be.

At least one important member of the American delegation is known to hold the opinion that it was a tactical error on the part of the administration to make any concessions to the British on capital ships in advance of an agreement on cruisers.

Method May Be Obstacle.

Whether there will be a fight over the method of limitation of all categories of ships depends upon the attitude of the French and Italians, who hold to the theory of global restrictions, in which the maximum tonnage is fixed for the nation's entire navy, within which the country is at liberty to build whatever number of ships and in whatever tonnage category is desired. The American and British hold to the plan of restriction by categories, in which the maximum total tonnage of ships, in each of the classes, is fixed.

The French, however, have receded in their position to the extent of agreeing to accept limitation by categories, with an arrangement by which a certain amount of tonnage may be transferred from one category to another at will. This plan will allow a nation to scrap battleships, for example, and put that tonnage into cruisers, or vice versa.

U. S. Admiral Advises 10 Per Cent.

Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, naval adviser to the American delegation, has suggested that such a transfer be limited to 10 per cent, and allowable only on a year's notice.

The French have assented to this plan in principle, but have proposed that cruisers and destroyers be lumped together. This suggestion, however, is not acceptable to the American naval authorities.

As one concession directed by President Hoover, in an effort to break the disarmament deadlock, Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, last spring accepted the French plan as modified by Rear Admiral Jones, as a basis for discussion. This is to be the attitude of the American delegation when this question arises in the conference. The British are taking the same stand as the Americans on this proposition.

U. S. and Japan Coöperate.

Indications are not wanting that the Americans and Japanese will go into the conference disposed to coöperate on the preliminaries. Following Mr. Stimson's talk with Mr. Wakatsuki today, Ambassador Dawes, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, Senators Joseph T. Robinson and David Reed, all of the American delegation, called on the Japanese delegation and spent an hour in friendly discussion.

Mr. Stimson retired to his country house at Stanmore tonight for a much needed rest. Before going, he received a message from President Hoover praising his speech at the opening session of the conference.

"Your speech was most effective and came through on the radio with perfect clarity," the President said.

U. S. MARINES WANT PARITY! GIRLS GET BIGGER ALLOWANCES

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—In all the present welter of high diplomacy, pageantry, and banqueting here a new and unexpected problem of parity today cropped up in the American delegation to the naval conference.

Ten stalwart marines, who came over with the delegation, have been allowed room and breakfast and also 14 shillings and 8 pence [about $3.50] a day for other meals. The marines look enviously on the girl stenographers, who, besides their rooms, have $8 a day for expenses.

Unofficially they think the situation offers opportunity for application of the principle of parity, but Mr. Stimson is busy, the marines are busy, and no one seems to know whether anything can be done about it.

FRENCH BELIEVE U. S. NOW

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 22.—The French, two days after the opening of the naval conference in London, now seem inclined to believe what the American envoys have told them all along, that President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald are not leagued in some secret and sinister pact.

When Great Britain's Labor premier returned from Washington and broadcast an optimistic version of his conversations with President Hoover the French decided that the Anglo-Saxon banshee was loose again and that their goose was cooked.

Careful perusal of the utterances of Mr. Stimson and Mr. MacDonald has led them to think that there are, perhaps, a few differences left to be ironed out between the United States and Great Britain.

"Is It Discretion?" French Ask.

Jacques Bainville, the keenest observer on this side of the channel, writes in La Liberte tonight:

"Is it through discretion that Premier MacDonald makes no reference to the accord he brought back from Washington, or is it because this accord was not as precise as he thought? If so, 'tres-bien,' because the discussions will cover a wide scope."

Quai d'Orsay thinks the recent French memorandum is responsible for the action taken by America and Great Britain at London thus far and they are happy about it. They recall that from the first day at the Washington conference they were dominated by "the Anglo-Saxon frameup."

France Lays Claim to Fastest Warship in World

L'ORIENT, France, Jan. 22.—(AP)—While there is talk in London of scrapping warships, France came forward today with a claim to possessing "the fastest war craft in the world." The destroyer Valmy made 39.85 knots in speed tests in the Atlantic just off this port today.

POWERS TO SHUN HARD FACTS IN FIRST PROPOSALS

Agree to Keep Talks Today to General Outlines.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The exposé of the requirements for national defense, as they will be outlined by the five delegations at tomorrow's meeting of the five power naval conference in St. James's palace, will be kept nebulous and general. None of the speakers will mention figures, nor make any concrete proposals, and none will go into detail regarding specific viewpoints. This was agreed on this evening following a series of meetings among the representatives of the five powers.

Prime Minister MacDonald personally urged his American, French, Italian, and Japanese colleagues to refrain from plunging into the heart of the discussions with statistics and lists of tonnage and categories. He stressed the importance of attacking the problem slowly and by piecemeal.

Tardieu Revises Speech.

As a result, Premier Tardieu of France has revised the statement he had prepared, showing France's essential necessities. Instead, he will give an objective outline of France's needs, based on the geographical position of her north African colonies, her distant possessions, her commerce, and her communication routes, all of which require protection.

The British prime minister has indicated to the French premier that it probably will be a fortnight before the conference gets down to talking turkey and putting sea strength estimates into terms and figures.

Premier Tardieu and Foreign Minister Briand had a two hour conversation with the Japanese this evening, explaining the details of the recent French memorandum.

Japanese Approve Memorandum.

It is understood that this memorandum, as interpreted by the French, met with the Tokio delegates' complete approval. French sources hint that the Japanese intend to stand pat on their demand for an increased ratio in cruisers and smaller craft, and that Reijuro Wakatsuki has expressed solidarity with the Paris representatives' stand, insisting on the maintenance of submarines as economical defense weapons.

Most of the delegates took things easily tonight after the whirl of the last few days. They dined in their hotel rooms, or sought quiet restaurants for informal early meals, before retiring early.

BROKER'S WIDOW SUES DEATH CAR DRIVER FOR $40,000

Clark Ross, 909 Argyle street, driver of the automobile which struck and fatally injured Irvin O. Kosche, a broker, $100 Sheridan road, on New Year's day, was named defendant in three suits totaling $40,000, filed in the Superior court yesterday as an aftermath of the accident. Kosche was struck while he was crossing Sheridan road at Wilson avenue with his wife, Mrs. Beulah Kosche, and a stepson, Emmerson Ofte, 13 years old.

Attorney George L. Schein filed the suits on behalf of Mrs. Kosche. The first is for $10,000 for the broker's death. The others, for $20,000 and $10,000, are for injuries suffered by Mrs. Kosche and her son, who are in the Lake View hospital. Ross was held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by a coroner's jury.

One death yesterday raised the 1930 Cook county motor toll to 38. The victim:

Joseph Bolhamczuk, 56 years old, 1217 Wade street. Crushed to death when a coal truck pinned him against a building at 3912 Sheridan road. Stanley Goralczyk, 740 Wood street, driver of the truck, told the police that he had picked up the man to help him unload the coal. He had stepped behind the truck to open a coal chute when the truck slipped back and crushed him.

HOLDUP VICTIM DIES.

Anton Wojcik, 41 years old, died last night at his home, 4614 South Honore street, of a fractured skull suffered in a fall on Tuesday. The police believed his death might have been caused partly by a beating at the hands of four men who held him up in front of his home a week ago.

O'BRIEN WIDOW TO TELL JURORS HER STORY TODAY

Stege Testifies on Her Effort to Shield Dorr.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Genevieve O'Brien will tell the "story of her life" from the witness stand today as her supreme effort to escape conviction for the murder of her husband, William J. O'Brien.

Late yesterday she heard the statement she made to the police on the night of Nov. 20, more than 16 hours after the shooting of her husband in their flat at 7328 South Maplewood avenue, read to a jury in the court of Judge Harry B. Miller, where she is on trial.

The state will conclude its evidence this morning shortly after court convenes, according to the prosecutors, Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and Walker Butler. The case may go to the jury tomorrow night, five days after impaneling of the jury began, according to the defense attorneys, Charles S. Dougherty and Sam A. Hoffman.

Crowds Overflow Court.

A packed courtroom which could not accommodate hundreds who waited in lines in the corridors outside listened to Assistant State's Attorney Butler read Mrs. O'Brien's statements concerning the murder, of which Howard Dorr, Mrs. O'Brien's reputed lover, was convicted on Saturday. The 23 year old defendant listened, too. She sat with mouth slightly open, occasionally moistening her lips or wiping perspiration from her face with a ball of a handkerchief. She was dressed in a dark dress with a white round collar. She wore no powder or rouge.

When Prosecutor Butler came to the passage in her statement in which she told of Dorr's having said to her the week before the murder that he could not have her carrying on as she had been "if he had to get rid of both of them, if he had to kill both of them, meaning his wife, Rose—" she turned her head away from the jury. But she only met the curious stares of women who sat in rows of extra seats provided for the overflow crowd, and so turned away again toward the jurors.

Tells of Taking Poison.

She said later in the statement that Dorr told her that after she took poison. She took the poison when her husband and she had an altercation "and he said my father was a laborer and shook a wicked broom, and all kinds of things that hurt," her statement said.

The essence of the state's case, according to the prosecutors, is contained in the following passage in her statement, which Mr. Butler read in a loud voice:

". . . And then I heard that awful noise and I opened my bedroom door, and Bill came running out, and Bill turned to me and said he didn't know what that was—it almost blinded him. And I said, 'It must have been an electric light bulb bursting,' never thinking he would go back into his bedroom; but he did go back, and that's when the second shot was fired."

Later, according to the statement, she was asked, "Well, what did you think when you heard that first shot?" She replied, "I figured Mr. Dorr must be in there."

Stege Allowed to Testify.

The state won a point when Chief of Detectives John Stege was allowed to testify, after the matter was argued in the absence of the jury, concerning a conversation with Dorr and Mrs. O'Brien regarding the gun with which Dorr shot O'Brien. He was describing the reenactment of the shooting at the Maplewood avenue flat on Nov. 21.

"Dorr told me he got the gun off the shelf in O'Brien's bedroom closet. As he said that, Genevieve, who was standing with us in O'Brien's bedroom, interposed: 'No, Howard, you didn't get the gun off the shelf in his closet; you got it out of the paper sack on the shelf of my bedroom closet.'"

Stege told how, when Mrs. O'Brien was questioned in the detective bureau on the afternoon of Nov. 20, she insisted she had shot her husband. Late that afternoon, when he and other officials took her to the flat to let her show them how she shot her husband, she could not shoot the gun, he said.

"I asked her to take the position from which she fired the first shot and she stood almost in the center of the bedroom," Stege said. "She put her finger around the trigger guard of the pistol and couldn't move it. Finally she got her finger in here and snapped it," he said, illustrating with the pistol which Assistant State's Attorney Butler handed him.

Finds Powder Marks.

Discovering powder marks rather high on the door jamb of the clothes closet in O'Brien's room, he had her stand in the closet and hold the revolver even with the marks. It was on a level with her ear, he said.

He spoke of other things which, despite the story Genevieve told to shield Dorr, revealed that she had not fired the shots. That night at the detective bureau, her father, Thomas Keegan, and her younger brothers, Eugene and Ray Keegan, visited her.

As Stege told of that visit Mrs. O'Brien's chin quivered, her shoulders shook, and her attorney, Mr. Dougherty, objected. He was overruled. Continuing, Stege said that then, with her father sitting near, Mrs. O'Brien made her statement, repeating it later that night before a court reporter.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne made the opening statement early yesterday. It was brief, charging Mrs. O'Brien with being a co-conspirator in plotting the death of her husband. He did not ask the death penalty.

O'Brien's Father Testifies.

He was folowed by the state's first witness, Don O'Brien, father of William J. O'Brien, who testified concerning his son's dying statement in which he named Howard Dorr as the one who shot him. Part of his son's statement to him, "Gen and Dorr framed me," was not repeated by Mr. O'Brien. It had been repeated by him in the absence of the jury in Dorr's trial and ruled out by Judge Miller as prejudical.

Mr. O'Brien pointed out on the chart of his son's flat where he and police officers found a pool of blood on the stair landing and a trail of blood leading to the hallway connecting William O'Brien's bedroom with his wife's room.

Mrs. O'Brien's father attended the morning session, but was forced to leave at noon. He was ill in a hospital up to the time of the trial. If he is able, he will testify in behalf of his daughter today. Her brothers were in the courtroom yesterday.

In cross-examining Lieut. Walter G. Storms, a principal state's witness, Attorney Dougherty asked if he had said in direct examination that the defendant fainted when Storms was questioning her after the shooting.

"Well, not right away," replied Lieut. Storms.

"I don't mean that the mere sight of you caused her to faint," said Attorney Dougherty. "But did she faint when you told her she could go back to the flat and show you how she shot her husband?"

"Well, she sort of fell away," said the lieutenant.

CONGRESSMAN KUNZ INVITED TO EARLY TRIAL

A letter was sent to Congressman Stanley H. Kunz in Washington yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin notifying the congressman that the conspiracy indictment voted against him several weeks ago has been returned in court. The letter also asked the congressman to appear for an early trial, adding that if he does not it will be necessary to force his return.

Prosecutor Lavin said that the congressman has certain rights while congress is in session, but that when an indictment is voted for "treason, felony, or breach of the peace" he can be brought to trial the same as any other citizen. The prosecutor added that he will give Congressman Kunz a reasonable time to appear for trial before taking further action.

Kunz and his son, Stanley H. Kunz Jr., were indicted on a charge of taking $400 from a candidate for a job in the police department. The money was to be used to get favorable civil service action, it was alleged. The indictment against Bishop Archibald Carey, member of the civil service commission, is to be assigned to a trial judge today.

Victim Says Thugs Made Him Drink Poison; Dies

Molesiovas Zaleska, 33 years old, 821 West 34th street, a laborer, died yesterday in the German Deaconess hospital of poison which he drank a week ago. Zaleska told the police that two men who held him up forced him to drink the poison when they found he had no money.

HARRISON PARKER IS ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF FRAUD

Harrison M. Parker, head of the late Coöperative Society of America by which he hoped to establish a national chain of coöperative stores, was locked up for two hours at the detective bureau last night on a charge of embezzlement. Later he was released on $3,000 bonds.

Parker was arrested at the Chicago club, of which he is a member, by Sergts. Fred Joyner and Arthur Seyferlich on a warrant obtained by George W. Sheehan, 105 Adams street, who said he is a selling agent of the North American Trust company.

Sheehan charged that he gave Parker $2,960 last April to purchase property leases for him and that Parker had neither made the purchases nor returned the money. Parker, however, asserted that he had dismissed Sheehan from the trust company and that the latter had caused his arrest in retaliation. Sheehan, in turn, denied that Parker had ever been his employer or had discharged him.

Parker said he is a stockholder in the trust company, but holds no office.

Common Sense

It has always been our belief that a buyer does not always get the return he thinks he is getting from the dealer who makes him the largest allowance on his used car.

Such practice creates a fictitious value on the new car.

Many years of observation prove that there is only one way for the private owner to approach this problem in order to make the wisest business transaction and get the greatest value for his cash in a new car.

First, temporarily forget that you have a car to trade in.

Next, look at the new cars, compare them, study their design, the size of their motors, their strength, their dependability, their comfort and all other advantages. Ask owners who have been driving them. Then drive them yourself!

Make sure which new car best meets your requirements.

Having made this selection, without letting trade-in-allowance interfere with your judgment, then compare the difference in the cash outlay between the car you want and the used car allowance.

HUSTON, G. O. P. CHAIRMAN, SUED OVER LAND DEAL

An Echo of Florida Boom's Collapse.

BY TOM PETTEY.

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee and former assistant secretary of commerce, this afternoon became a co-defendant in a $900,000 suit filed in federal court here charging fraud.

Echoes of the Florida land boom and of a Utopian dream city to be called Venice, to be populated by Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, came from the suit, which has been brewing for several months and which named the brotherhood, Mr. Huston, and George T. Webb, described as manager and director of the brotherhood.

The plaintiff is the E. H. Price Company, Inc., of Sarasota, Fla., realty brokers. Vincent T. Sollmar, a New York lawyer, filed the papers, which charge breach of contract and fraudulent misrepresentation against the brotherhood and Huston. Webb is accused of embezzlement of approximately $57,000 which, the suit charges, he received from the brotherhood to turn over to the Price company, but which he kept for his own use.

Sue for Brokers' Commission.

The matter of $900,000 the Price company is suing for is, according to the brokers, their stipulated five per cent commission on an $18,000,000 land deal. The Florida deal was put through by them as agent for the brotherhood, they assert, during 1925, 1926, and 1927.

The brotherhood failed to pay any part of the commission, according to the Price company, and now "Huston and the brotherhood deny all personal liability to the plaintiff and the holders of the first mortgages."

A statement prepared by Mr. Huston in Washington and given out here after the filing of the suit said:

"It relates to the purchase of Florida land by the brotherhood, made long prior to any connection I had with the brotherhood, which began in the summer of 1927. I undertook, as a public service, to assist that organization in untangling its financial affairs and for that purpose became an officer of the brotherhood management corporation, and I never acted in an individual capacity.

Calls Suit Unjustified.

"The particular transactions were between the E. H. Price company and some of the brotherhood corporations and I was never given authority at any time by the brotherhood prior to the termination of my connection with it to even treat with them looking to a settlement. My attorneys advise me that the suit against me cannot be justified in any manner."

The Price company, however, charges Huston came on the scene in 1927 when he and Alvany Johnson, "grand chief executive officer of the brotherhood," came to Florida for a conference with the brokers. Huston, the brokers charge, agreed to "assume all the debts of the brotherhood and to continue with the land development."

Later, however, when the Florida land boom had entirely subsided, the suit charges, Huston "failed to keep his promises and at the present time Huston and the brotherhood have withdrawn from the scheme."

CANAL 'WHOOPEE' RECORDS UNDER U. S. SCRUTINY

Permission to examine the famous sanitary district "whoopee" records of the Central Auto Service company, 1452 North Clark street, said to contain evidence of public money being spent for entertainment of sanitary district officials at exorbitant prices, was granted government income tax officials in Federal Judge Woodward's court yesterday.

On motion of Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, the court ordered the records turned over to C. W. Herrick, chief internal revenue agent, who is investigating the income tax returns made by the company during 1926-1928.

During the sanitary district scandal a year ago the state's attorney's office made futile efforts to examine these records.

Spirits—Two Kinds—Bring Suit

Cop Asks Divorce

Spirits, both supernatural and liquid, were set forth as grounds for divorce by Policeman John Belsky of the Irving Park station before Superior Judge Sabath yesterday in his suit against Mrs. Anna Belsky, 3701 West 22d street. Mrs. Belsky also has a suit for divorce pending charging her husband with improper relations with Mrs. May Sebestl, 4642 South Campbell avenue.

Belsky said trouble started when his wife became interested in the supernatural.

"She threw salt on me every time I left or entered the home to ward off evil spirits," he testified. "Every week she burned sulphur in the house to drive off spirits that she claimed had come in through cracks in the building. She told me that the spirits told her that I was running around with a woman named May. After a search of her friends she learned that Mrs. Sebestl had that first name."

Attorney Victor Frolich, representing Belsky, said the wife ran a still.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Nation-Wide Appeal Made Over Radio.

the commission, including a codification of all prohibition laws and a provision to make effective so-called padlocking sections of the prohibition law. He described what the commission has done in studying the prohibition problem.

Officers Interviewed.

"The principal officers of the government engaged in the enforcement of this law have been interviewed by some or all of the commissioners," said Mr. Wickersham. "Reports have been received from United States attorneys; interviews have been had with prohibition administrators; volumes of correspondence and much controversial literature has been examined; the various statutes enacted for the purpose of carrying out the requirements of the 18th amendment have been analyzed, and investigations have been and now are being carried on by our own staff."

Mr. Wickershaw concluded his address with his appeal for public support of the commission's prohibition enforcement recommendations.

"These provisions, in our opinion, should be adopted, if there is a sincere desire to improve the methods of enforcing the law," said Mr. Wickersham. "They have met with opposition in some quarters.

"Probably no change affecting so contentious a subject as prohibition could be recommended without arousing opposition somewhere. But we believe there is a great body of calm, balanced sentiment in the country, which believes in obedience to the law, which responds to an appeal to support the institutions of the country and which will support conservative measures for improving the machinery of law enforcement.

"This sentiment, however, inarticulate under ordinary conditions, at times exercises a strong pressure upon political opinion, and when aroused, is as resistless as the flooding tides of the ocean. It is that body of public opinion to which we shall look for support of the recommendations we have made and those we shall make in the future."

Mr. Wickersham reviewed the commission's activities with respect to other phases of law enforcement.

Other Work to Do.

"Despite much clamor and many lurid statements," said Mr. Wickersham, "the enforcement of prohibition is only a part, and not the most important part, of our task. Complaints of the inadequacy of the American system of criminal prosecution and judicial procedure were acute before the eighteenth amendment was adopted."

The fact is, Mr. Wickersham said, that "we have more crime in the United States than there is any excuse for in a self-governing nation, and it has become very evident of late that our machinery for securing obedience to law is inadequate.

"President Hoover, on coming into office, recognized this situation, and considering it of paramount importance, not only to the immediate welfare of the nation, but for its future, determined upon having an exhaustive consideration of the whole question undertaken with a view to finding adequate remedies."

Mr. Wickersham described the appointment of the commission by the President, and said that while it has dealt with some questions of immediate emergency, "its real and fundamental purpose is to bring forth, if it is possible, deep seated and positive reforms, which will decrease criminality in the United States and secure greater respect for law."

Mellon Evades Question.

At the hearing before the house committee on the bill to transfer the prohibition bureau from the treasury department to the department of justice, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon read a prepared statement announcing that he favored the measure on the ground that the bureau now is in an "illogical" place. Dr. Doran said he agreed with Mr. Mellon.

Hardly had the secretary of the treasury finished reading his statement before the wet brigade, led by Representatives Igoe and Schafer, opened a barrage of questions. Mr. Igoe sought in vain to secure Mr. Mellon's personal view on prohibition.

"Mr. Mellon, do you believe the prohibition bureau under your direction was efficient?" Mr. Igoe asked.

Not Germane, He Says.

The secretary shifted in his chair and explained that he didn't think that was germane to the proposed administrative change, finally answering in the affirmative.

"Then do you think prohibition has had a fair test during the last ten years?" Mr. Igoe demanded.

"Again I say that this question has no bearing on the legislation at hand," Secretary Mellon countered, adding that "of course, we made every effort to carry out our responsibilities."

The Illinois representative tried a third time to obtain a direct answer with the question: "From your observation, Mr. Mellon, do you believe the prohibition law can be enforced?"

Parries Third Time.

For the third time the secretary dodged. He said that "this is a very controversial question and this is no place to express a personal opinion."

Representative Schafer, declaring that he knew of hundreds of cases, especially in the Chicago district, thrown out of court because dry agents violated the search and seizure section of the Volstead law, asked Mr. Mellon why the government did not bring these agents before the bar of justice or at least discharge them.

"You are assuming that they are not punished," replied the secretary, slowly. "But that is a matter entirely in the hands of the attorney general."

"What I want to know is why your department doesn't take any action against them," retorted Mr. Schafer.

At that juncture Chairman Williamson interceded, forbidding Schafer to press a question already answered, and, before he could frame a new one, dismissed the secretary from the witness chair and called Dr. Doran. Schafer immediately resumed his attack on the new witness.

DRYS' PLEDGE OF EMPTY PRISONS CAST IN TEETH

Six More Bastiles Voted Amid Wet Gibes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Ten years ago orators for the Anti-Saloon league and other dry organizations promised empty jails and prisons with the advent of national prohibition. Today those promises were resurrected and huried back at them by wet congressmen.

The house had under consideration five bills recommended by the administration to relieve overcrowded federal prisons. All of the measures were passed and sent to the senate, where administration leaders expect to rush them to final passage.

One authorizes $6,500,000 for construction of two penitentiaries and three federal jails, one in Chicago.

Another provides for a new hospital for defective delinquents and a third for more prison shops and mills. The other two are reorganization measures to centralize prison authority in the department of justice.

6,909 Dry Law Convicts.

Figures brought out at the committee hearings showed that 6,909 of the 21,000 federal convicts now confined in federal, state, and county institutions were sentenced for violation of the prohibition law. According to Attorney General Mitchell, all the prisons are "intolerably overcrowded."

"I clearly recollect, before prohibition, that the professional drys appeared on the floor of this house proclaiming that when we had prohibition, we wouldn't need any penal institutions," Representative Adolph J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.], told the house. "There was no prison problem in those days. At that time the inmates of prisons were thieves and thugs, not citizens who refuse to be proscribed on what they shall drink. Look at the prisons now, full and running over, not only in spite of, but because of the prohibition law. They are filled with good, law abiding citizens. We have to have two new prisons to hold them. Continue the prohibition law a few more years and we'll need two dozen more prisons."

La Guardia Jumps In.

Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.], declared that "sooner or later," instead of pouring out more money for more prisons, congress will start investigating the causes of prison congestion. The first, he said, is the prohibition law.

Aiming at Senator W. E. Borah [Rep., Ida.] and Representative John G. Cooper [Rep., O.], two ardent drys who have done considerable talking recently, Representative John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.] offered an amendment to locate one of the new prisons in Idaho and the other in Ohio. In that way, he explained, the "officials in those states who are being sent to prison for violating the prohibition law could be near their homes and loved ones."

The drys made no reply as the wets challenged them to explain the prison situation.

Finally, La Guardia ended the barrage of wet sarcasm with the statement:

MOORE IS FIRST AMBASSADOR OF U. S. TO POLAND

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—President Hoover today signed a joint resolution raising the American legation in Poland to the rank of an embassy and nominated Alexander P. Moore of Pennsylvania as the first ambassador to Warsaw. He will succeed John B. Stetson Jr., who recently retired to private life.

The nomination of Edward E. Brodie of Oregon to be minister to Finland was also sent to the senate today by the President. Both Ambassador Moore and Mr. Brodie are newspaper men.

The senate confirmed the nominations of four ministers. They were Gilbert Baker Stockton, of Florida, to Austria; John Motley Morehead, of New York, to Sweden; Ralph H. Booth, of Michigan, to Denmark, and Henry Wharton Shoemaker, of Pennsylvania, to Bulgaria.

2 DRYS KILLED ON LEGAL RAID, SURVIVORS SAY

West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Conflicting testimony as to the legality of the raid on the residence of George W. Moore last Saturday when two federal dry agents were killed, was given before a coroner's jury here today.

The defense sought to show that the search was illegal on the ground that a daytime warrant was used after nightfall.

James S. Kugler and W. M. McNulty, surviving members of the quartet of agents who tried to search the Moore place, testified that the raid was made during daytime. They said they drove to the residence without lights, that no street lamps were lit, and that the only light in the residence was in the kitchen.

On the other hand, Mrs. Moore and her daughter, Ollie, 14, took the stand to assert that the family was together in a lighted front room of the house. And to testimony from the agents that James K. Moncure, one of the slain men, had knocked at the front door and had shown the warrant to Moore, the wife and daughter countered that the first warning of the search came when Mrs. Moore saw a man in the kitchen with a drawn pistol.

U. S. RUM CHASER RAMS CANADIAN BOAT OFF MEXICO

Captain of Beached Craft Denies Liquor Aboard.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Owners of the Vancouver deep sea motor boat Taiheiyo were informed today the boat was pursued and rammed by the U. S. coast guard vessel Bonham on Jan. 17 near the Guadelupe islands, off the coast of Mexico and 150 miles south of the United States-Mexico line.

The Taiheiyo now is beached on one of the Guadelupe islands, her master, Capt. J. Butler, reported.

Protest has been sent to Ottawa concerning the incident. Capt. Butler reported his vessel was in ballast bound for home after a four months' absence when she was pursued and run down by the Bonham. He states there was no liquor aboard, nor had the boat carried any on the trip.

Another small craft, it was reported, saved the rammed boat from sinking by putting lines on her and towing her to a beach. The Taiheiyo is a 65 foot vessel built in Vancouver last summer and sent south to engage in Mexican coastwise operation.

Paris Protests U. S. Methods.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 22.—Following pressing demands by the ministry of merchant marine at the request of the French line, the foreign ministry has addressed an official protest to the treasury department at Washington against methods employed by American dry agents in searching the French liner De Grasse, at New York recently, it was learned today.

This incident aroused a storm of protest in Paris today, when the ministry of telephones and telegraph made public a letter from the radio operator on the De Grasse, complaining that he and the other members of the crew were awakened in the middle of the night and treated in an insulting and threatening manner by dry agents, who were searching for liquor in the crew's quarters. He said that they sought to intimidate the men by flourishing revolvers.

U. S. Receives No Protest.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Assistant Secretary Lowman said today that no protests had been received by the treasury department from the French government regarding the search of French liners in New York harbor by prohibition agents, adding that earlier word to that effect was due to misunderstanding.

Lowman said no objections of any sort had been received since those of several months ago from the French government against government agents slapping the hip pockets of persons landing from French liners. That practice was ordered discontinued.

He added that prohibition agents had no authority to board liners to search for liquor.

35 OF 60 CALLED FOR LIQUOR JURY PROVE ENEMIES OF DRY LAW

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Thirty-five talesmen of a panel of sixty were excused today from sitting on the jury in the case of William Powers, charged with operating a forty gallon still in upper Manhattan.

The talesmen were excused by Judge William Bonday in the United States District court because of their prejudice against the dry statutes.

One of the talesmen, asked whether he would convict a person shown to be guilty of violating the Jones law or Volstead act, said:

"No; I like a drink too much myself."

Another said he would not find a defendant guilty in such a case, as there was "no moral turpitude involved." A third stated he was unalterably opposed to the Volstead act and the Jones law.

Ten said they belonged to organizations opposed to present day aridity and others registered sentiments of various shades and degrees, but all in opposition to dry laws.

Finally a jury was selected and Powers placed on trial.

WET INJUNCTION RULED ILLEGAL BY U. S. JURIST

Means Jail Without Trial, He Says.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 23.—(AP)—After he had declared a part of the national prohibition act unconstitutional, Federal Judge J. W. Woodrough here today asked that the section in question be tested by the Supreme court of the United States.

Declaring that every man has an inalienable right to trial by jury, the Omaha federal arbiter today declared unconstitutional that part of the prohibition act which permits personal injunctions against habitual offenders of the law.

In taking his stand here today Judge Woodrough expressed an opinion directly contrary to one handed down by Federal Judge T. C. Munger of Lincoln, Neb., who held that personal injunctions are constitutional.

Ready to Defend Ruling.

Judge Woodrough indicated that he would welcome an opportunity to defend his ruling before the United States Supreme court. He stated that the statute must eventually be tested before the higher tribunal.

In announcing his opinion, Judge Woodrough said that the section of the law which permits personal injunctions has been a "dead letter" for 10 years because it shocks common sense and common understanding of the constitution.

The declaration as to the personal injunction phase of the law is unconstitutional was made in a nine page opinion handed down in the case of Frank Cunningham of Scotts Bluff, Neb., against whom the United States had brought personal injunction proceedings on the strength of the fact that he had been arrested several times as a bootlegger.

Defends Trial by Jury.

"There runs through the act the idea that the man himself, the human being, is a nuisance, and so beyond the pale of the right of trial by jury," Judge Woodrough stated.

Judge Woodrough dismissed the case against Cunningham. Had the judge granted the government's request that he enjoin the defendant from bootlegging, upon subsequent arrest Cunningham could then have been jailed for contempt of court for violating a federal injunction.

ASK AID TO GET BYRD EXPEDITION OUT OF ANTARCTIC

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—A report originating with an amateur radio operator in Washingtonville, O., that the City of New York, flagship of the Byrd antarctic expedition had reached the antarctic ice barrier on which is Little America, Rear Admiral Byrd's base, was declared tonight to be in error by Capt. H. H. Bailey, manager of the expedition and personal representative of Rear Admiral Byrd in New York.

"On the contrary," said Capt. Bailey, "the City of New York has reached onl ythe edge of the ice pack in Ross sea, a very different matter. And owing to the uprecedented condition of the ice pack, the New York and the Eleanor Bolling may not succeed in negotiating the southward passage to Admiral Byrd's base—at least not without the aid of larger vessels.

"To avoid spending another year in the antarctic, Admiral Byrd and his companions must leave before Feb. 20. We are, therefore, asking the state department to solicit the coöperation of the Norwegian government in making available to Admiral Byrd the aid of the powerful whaling vessels now fishing north of the ice pack. Five such vessels are now within striking distance of Little America."

DRY LAW JEERED IN NEW BUILDING OF ROCKEFELLER

Tarrytown, N. Y., Jan. 22.—[Special.] — Prohibition was jeered and booed today in the auditorium of the new $2,000,000 coöperative apartment house built here by John D. Rockefeller Jr., one of the nation's staunchest dry advocates. It was at a dinner given by Mr. Rockefeller to members of the Tarrytown Chamber of Commerce to open the apartment house which was erected to relieve housing congestion.

Mr. Rockefeller was not present. Charles I. Millard of the budget committee of the Westchester county board of supervisors was one of the principal speakers. After reviewing thirty years of progress in Westchester, Mr. Millard said: "Then came prohibition." Jeers and boos greeted him from all sides. Mr. Millard immediately changed the subject.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

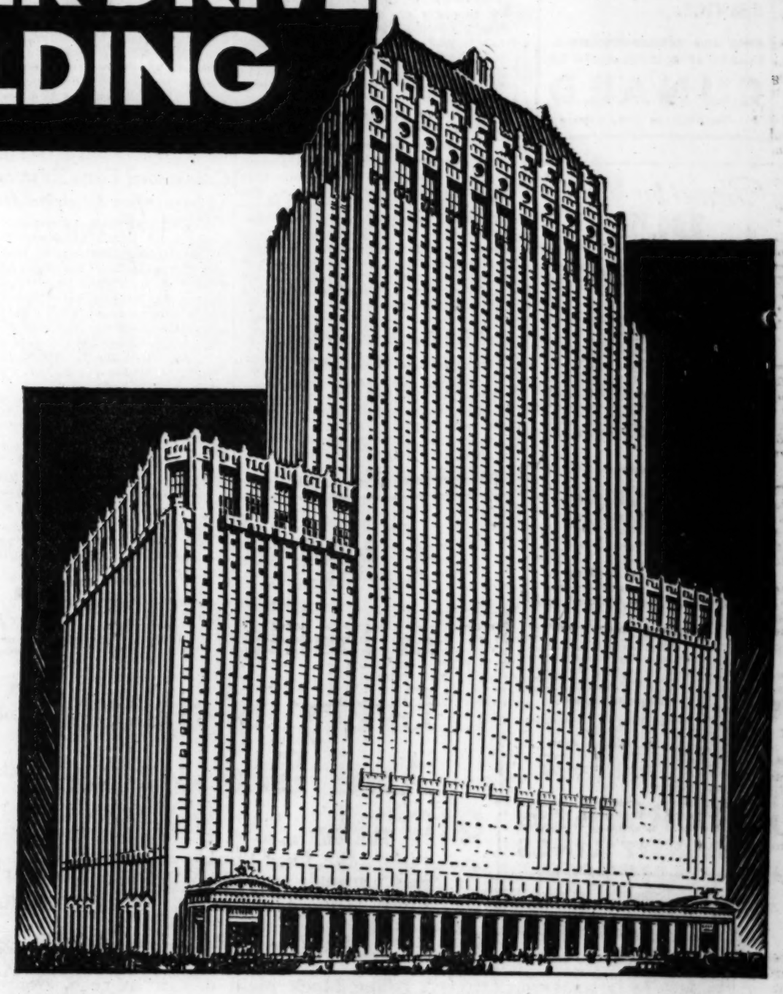
20 NORTH WACKER DRIVE BUILDING



The Building Everybody Knows

On the fingers of one hand, you can count the number of office buildings . . . not alone in Chicago but everywhere . . . that have attained, so early in their existence, the national and international prominence enjoyed by the 20 North Wacker Drive Building.

Commercial and industrial institutions of standing have been quick to recognize the added prestige to be gained from an association with this address. As a result, you find here not only the type of building, but also the class of tenant with which it is an asset to be identified.

But prestige is only one of the factors that account for the preference accorded this business location. The 20 North Wacker Drive Building is in the heart of Chicago's activities—accessible to all parts of the city. Two minutes away is the Northwestern Railway . . . and but a little farther the Union Station. Elevated and surface cars come almost to the building's doors. Moreover, this building is located on two boulevards, one of them the widest in the city.

Offices here are the ultimate in modern convenience. Abundant light and air, and cleanliness unequalled in the Loop, are permanently assured by the building's location . . . it stands alone occupying an entire block. The main office building is completely soundproofed and entirely apart from the premises of the Chicago Civic Opera Company which are entered through separate entrances and elevators. Offices are being subdivided to meet the specific requirements of tenants. Among those who have already leased space are:

BRITISH PROTEST TO RUSSIA AFTER ATTACK BY REDS

Labor to Hold Moscow Responsible.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The Labor government intends to back up the joint declaration which holds the soviet government responsible for the actions of the third communist internationale, Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson announced in the house of commons today that the government has already protested to the soviet ambassador against communist propaganda in England.

The first offender named is a communist paper, recently started in England and known as the Daily Worker. It is supported by funds from Moscow, since the British communist movement is too weak to support the journal, observers here say.

Labor Rule Denounced.

A dispatch from headquarters of the comintern in Russia which was recently printed in this paper denounced the "Labor government for anti-soviet intrigues, colonial brutalities, and preparations for another imperialist war."

In answer to a question as to whether the soviet government placed the same interpretations as the British government on a mutual agreement not to carry on propaganda in each other's country, Mr. Henderson said that it was still too early to answer that question definitely, but the government has already pointed out to the soviet ambassador the passage quoted in the Daily Worker, as one calculated to impede the relations of the two nations.

Alleges Moscow at Fault.

Mr. Henderson has stated several times in the house of commons that Great Britain does not make any distinction between the soviet government and the comintern, but that Moscow has shown a consistent tendency to hide propaganda activities behind the cloak of the communist organization, which, it insists, is entirely separate and not controllable by the soviet government.

CATCHES PYTHON

PHILIP CHANCELLOR.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 22.—(AP)—A thirty foot snake, known to scientists as the reticulated python, today was the prized captive of Phillip Chancellor, former $18 a week newspaper reporter, who several months ago inherited an estate of $6,000,000 and immediately set out on an expedition to Borneo and the south seas in search of rare serpents.

Chancellor, who is 22 years old and reputed to have an income of $1,000 a day, informed his father, Dr. Phillips Chancellor of Montecito, Cal., by cable of his capture of the python, said to be one of the largest in captivity. The message was dated Sydney, Australia, and informed his father he would sail from that port Jan. 26.

SPLIT APPEARS AS DEMOCRATS MAP STATE RACE

Cook County—Downstate in Battle on Lewis.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The Democracy of Illinois, represented by its state central committee, crashed yesterday on an old, familiar, well charted rock, the divergent interests of the downstate organization and the success of the Cook county unit.

After listening to the two hours of oratory and hearing reports of what occurred in a subcommittee meeting later, neutral observers concluded that Cook county was determined to run James Hamilton Lewis for United States senator largely because of the help his candidacy will give their county and sanitary district tickets, and that the downstate was fully as anxious to run Bruce Campbell of East St. Louis because of the aid he would lend to tickets in many downstate counties.

Predict Victory for Lewis.

The extent of the split will be revealed only with later developments but hitherto successful prophets said that former Senator Lewis will become an avowed candidate soon and that the filing of his petition will completely silence the Campbellites if they have not already given up their battle because of its hopelessness in the face of the determination displayed by the Chicago leaders.

"Well that ends it and we might as well go home," was the attitude of the downstate folks when in the executive session of what was intended to be a harmony subcommittee the local representatives said firmly that regardless of protest Lewis will be supported by the Cook county organization.

This left open the question whether some things said during the public debate were really intended or merely were intended to emphasize arguments. Some of the speakers said if the Lewis plan were carried out a number of near candidates in downstate counties would refuse to run and that there would be no campaign in some sections for the party's state ticket. But the Chicagoans, and a few downstaters, insisted such remarks were due to the heat of the occasion and that all differences will be reconciled soon.

Downstate Gets Other Places.

The situation was left in the hands of the harmony subcommittee with power to act. It already has expressed a willingness to let the downstate name all the statewide candidates except for the senatorship—the candidates for two places as congressmen-at-large, for the state treasurership and for the office of superintendent of public instruction. The name of Mrs. Eva Batterton of Springfield, former county superintendent of schools for Menard county, was mentioned for the last named place.

The Chicagoans appointed by the chair to the subcommittee were Edmond J. Mulcahy, County Clerk Sweitzer, County Chairman Cermak, and State Representative M. L. Igoe. The downstaters were Maurice Joyce of East St. Louis, Floyd E. Thompson, Arthur Roe of Vandalia, John W. Yantis of Shelbyville, and Harry Holland of Marion. When this body, two hours later, could report nothing but "progress," it was given full power to act on the entire state slate.

Plans Stump Tour.

Senator Deneen returned to Chicago yesterday and within a short time was in conference with his local associates in reference to his group's county and Sanitary district slate. No announcements were to be made, but it is expected the slate will be whipped into shape within two or three days.

Questioned about the opening of his own campaign for renomination, Senator Deneen said that he may not be able to take the stump until after Feb. 15, the date now set tentatively for the conclusion of the senate's labors on the tariff.

HOW TO ELECT DRY SENATOR IN WET MASS. IS PROBLEM

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—How to elect a dry Republican senator in wet Massachusetts was the problem put up to President Hoover today by Louis K. Liggett, national committeeman from the New England state. Following his interview with the President late this afternoon Mr. Liggett told newspaper men that while nomination of a dry Republican to succeed Senator Frederick H. Gillett [Rep., Mass.], who retires at the end of his present term, would not be difficult, the election of a dry in the face of the wet sentiment shown in Massachusetts was a real problem.

It was inferred that the dryness of the Republican administration in power, as exemplified by the present campaign for more effective dry laws, was proving embarrassing to the Massachusetts Republicans in their selection of a candidate in 1930.

SMITH COLLEGE GIRL KIDNAPED, THEN RELEASED

Student Talks Captors Into Freeing Her.

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Virtually snatched from the campus, a Smith college girl whose name was being carefully shielded today, was kidnaped last night and held captive nearly two hours by two men and a woman.

William Allan Neilson, president of the college, announced the kidnaping today, "to allay rumors which I understand are in circulation."

The girl was stopped on a street near the campus and asked the direction to the president's house. As she was replying she was pulled into an automobile, blindfolded, and driven to a house which she thought to be a considerable distance from the town. There she was held prisoner in a room while her three captors ate in another part of the house.

Later, she argued at length with them, warning them, she said, that they could not kidnap a college girl without an immediate alarm being sounded. In this way, she said, she dissuaded them from holding her and one of the men drove her back to the vicinity of the college. She immediately reported the matter to college authorities, but no report was made to the local police.

Two Smith students disappeared during the last five years. The body of one, Frances St. John Smith, was recovered from the Connecticut river and the other, Alice Corbett, never was heard from.

The Northampton police, up to late today, said they had received no report of the latest kidnaping and therefore had taken no action. The state police were said to be conducting an investigation of their own.

The girl told college officials she was unable to describe her captors.

BURNS FATAL TO WOMAN.

Mrs. Grace Joseph, 43 years old, of Des Moines died at the Illinois sanitarium at 1656 North La Salle street yesterday of burns which she received on Jan. 14 when she set fire to her clothing in an attempt to commit suicide. Mrs. Joseph was being treated at the sanitarium for a nervous disorder.

COL. RANDOLPH BECOMES HEAD OF TRADE GROUP

Pledges Business Aid in Civic Affairs.

An appeal to the Chicago Association of Commerce to make its influence felt in civic government was made yesterday by Charles Ward Seabury, retiring president, on relinquishing his office to the new president, Col. Robert Isham Randolph.

"The association of commerce will soon be called upon to aid in solving Chicago's problems in civic government," Mr. Seabury told 500 members of the association meeting in the La Salle hotel. "While we are primarily a commercial organization, we should be actively concerned in seeing that the proper men run for office, in helping them get elected and in supporting them after they are in office."

Pledges Best Efforts.

President Randolph, in referring to Mr. Seabury's remarks, asserted that while the association was organized principally to promote trade, it should be concerned with government when it affected business.

"In no sense are we a civic or reform agency," Col. Randolph said. "We will, however, use our best efforts to help straighten out municipal affairs and solve the transportation problem in time to welcome guests to the World's Fair in 1933.

"'Chicago—the great central market'—will be our slogan during the coming year," Col. Randolph continued. "We will press forward for more foreign trade. Business men here do not realize that Chicago has a prominent place in that regard. Last year we had in excess of $900,000,000 in foreign trade."

Randolph Announces Projects.

Col. Randolph announced the following projects as part of the association's program for the coming year: A campaign for early completion of the lakes to the gulf waterway; a city-wide movement for the early erection of a civic convention hall; continued efforts through legitimate action in railroad freight rate cases to regain for Chicago the trade on the Pacific coast lost following the completion of the Panama canal; an educational campaign through extended publicity channels to counteract some of the unfavorable notions concerning Chicago; a good will trip by Chicago manufacturers into the principal cities of the southwest in March, and two trade expositions.

"One of these trade expositions will be 'Chicago—World City Week,'" President Randolph said. "It will be held early in February, attracting buyers to the great central market from all over the United States and Canada. The other will be the Chicago industries show to be staged at Soldiers' field late in the summer to demonstrate the scope of Chicago's manufacturing effort."

ACQUIT UNION DIRECTORATE ON RACKET CHARGE

Joseph Etkin, business agent of the Jewish Chicken Killers' union, and four members of the board of directors of the union were acquitted by a jury yesterday in Judge E. I. Frankhauser's Criminal court of charges of conspiracy. They had been charged by the state's attorney's office with being labor racketeers.

It was charged by the prosecutors that Etkin was responsible for the fire which, in September, 1928, destroyed the poultry store of Mrs. Heney Berkowitz, 4906 North Drake avenue. Henech Schechter, J. J. Maltzer, I. M. Glicksberg, and Simon Zaretsky, the members of the board of directors, were charged with having sanctioned Etkin's alleged act of arson. Each of the men denied the charge when called to the witness stand by Attorneys Michael Romano and Louis Blumenthal.

STUDENT DENIES WIFE TOILED TO EDUCATE HIM

Homer J. Eastman, medical student at the University of Minnesota, yesterday denied charges made against him by his wife, Mrs. Alta E. Eastman, on Tuesday before Superior Judge Sabath in her suit for separate maintenance. Mrs. Eastman declared that she had sacrificed herself for nine years to send her husband through high school and college only to be rewarded by unfaithfulness as he neared graduation.

"During all the years I was going to school I worked," Eastman declared. "We both maintained ourselves. During just one semester, when I was in poor health, my wife helped me. I presume it cost $15 a week to keep me at that time, so that if I owe her anything it must be about $400, and not $8,000, as she claims."

"She's a Septic!"

Many women want to be, deserve to be, and could be far more popular than is their lot. Doctors know why. So do nurses. They call such cases septics

To remedy obnoxious body odors and bad breath, you must recognize their cause. The trouble is deep-seated. Frankly in the colon. Semi-constipation makes millions of systems septic. There may be a daily movement, but all the waste is not eliminated. The matter that remains poisons the blood, and permeates the perspiration. It taints the breath. Nature is signaling her need of a tiny Calcium Wafer.

Calcium wafers work wonders in one's appearance, too. With the inner system sweet and clean, the complexion clears most marvelously. Eyes brighten. Teeth whiten. The tongue is no longer coated, even on arising. And you never need take another harsh cathartic.

Perhaps you are a septic, and don't know it. Try a tiny wafer of calcium, and see! It may make all the difference in the world. Leave harsh, habit-forming cathartics alone. You never need them if you take an occasional calcium wafer.

TRY THIS THOROUGH TEST

A five day test should prove to you very conclusively the system's need for Stuart's Calcium Wafers, and the benefit from these little wafers. Your druggist has them for 10c. Or the family size 60c. Start this test today!

SCHOLARS GIVE TIPS TO HISTORY CONTEST AUTHOR

Debate if Genesis Is a Good Model.

Hints to those ambitious to rival the 500 word history of this country that former President Calvin Coolidge has undertaken to pen for the Mount Rushmore memorial were proffered last night by two scholars at the University of Chicago. The suggestions came from Dr. Albert Eustace Haydon, a professor of the history of religion, and Dean Shailer Mathews of the university divinity school.

Since THE TRIBUNE is offering $2,100 in prizes for the ten best histories written within the limits set for Mr. Coolidge, TRIBUNE readers are welcome to take the suggestions for whatever they prove to be worth in individual cases. Undoubtedly there is value in the opinions of the two scholars.

As food for thought for those who enter the competition THE TRIBUNE, in an editorial entitled "The Postcard History," cited the biblical story of the creation in the book of Genesis as a notable example of condensed narrative. While conceding the excellence of biblical narrative, both Dr. Haydon and Dean Mathews expressed doubt that the passages referred to would prove a good model, either for Mr. Coolidge or for the contestants.

Each of the two authorities went into details in support of their contentions and showed how the thing might be done.

"Follow Genesis as a model—well, hardly," commented Dr. Haydon. "Genesis is a myth. But I believe I could write a 500 word fairy tale that would illustrate the history of America. Now, for instance—," and he flourished his pencil a few moments, then wrote:

"A boy ran away from home, accepted help from his father for a while, started whimpering, and had a row with his relatives. Now he has folded his arms and says he can stand off half the world."

Must Know Facts.

"But," the author then hazarded, as he scanned his work, "that would hardly be satisfactory. A history in 500 words could be composed only by some one thoroughly at home in factual background and capable of doing it in five volumes. Even then his interpretation would only be a thread running through the material."

Dean Mathews, who is the author of a history of the French revolution, declared that history written in the style of the Bible "could never be satisfactorily packed in a capsule of 500 words."

"A better method than following Genesis," he said, "would be to divide the 150 years of our history into several great epochs, and characterize each epoch in a few epigrammatic sentences."

Need Not Be Bound.

No one who disagrees with the opinions of the history scholars, however, need be bound by their differences. It is quite probable that the literary beauty of the book of Genesis will appeal to many as a model. Students of journalism have for decades listened to panegyrics of instructors discussing its masterful composition. And ambitious young reporters panting for longer space for their stories have been crushed over and over with the curt information that the story of creation was written in ten words.

Style is less a consideration in the competition than clarity, accuracy and brevity. You may follow your own inclinations as to form, but you may not exceed the 500 word limit. Entries may be mailed to the history editor of THE TRIBUNE.

Nova Scotia Conservatives Win Election; Keep Power

HALIFAX, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The majority of three held in the Nova Scotia house of assembly at its last session by the Conservative government of Premier E. N. Rhodes was restored yesterday when Dr. George H. Murphy decisively defeated Robert E. Finn, Liberal, in the Halifax by-election. The standing in the house is again 23 to 20.

STATE LIBERATES GEO. MALONEY IN DOUBLE KILLING

George Maloney, alleged gangster, who was charged with the double murder of Hugh (Stubby) McGovern and William (Gunner) McPadden, rival gangsters, walked from the courtroom of Judge John P. McGoorty yesterday a free man. He did so because the state's attorney's office, through Assistant State's Attorney Stephen A. Thieda, entered an order of nolle prosse in each case.

GEORGE MALONEY.

Maloney was convicted of one of the murders, which occurred in the Granada café on Dec. 31, 1928, but Judge McGoorty gave a new trial because of the lack of sufficient evidence. At the time the judge criticized the state's attorney's office and the police department for failure to obtain sufficient evidence. He particularly pointed to the fact that no effort had been made to trace the revolver, which it was contended belonged to Maloney.

The prosecutor yesterday said that his office was unable to obtain any additional evidence at this date.

How long will this energy last-

under the strain of a COUGH

ON his toes—rarin' to go—pep—pushi flexed up energy and endurance. And yet, a 15-minute cough spasm will bring him down weak—exhausted—safe.

Medical science says that a spasmodic cough is more weakening than almost any form of bodily exertion. It wracks the nerves, strains the ligaments and tears at the delicate membranes of the throat. In fact, it affects almost every vital organ. Few people realize the serious effects an ordinary cough may bring. When your body is weakened and your energy and resistance is reduced, that's the time when dangerous germs make most headway.

Pertussin checks coughs quickly because it gets at the immediate cause. It relieves the cough by (1) clearing the throat of dangerous mucus; (2) soothing the irritated throat tissues; and (3) quieting the cough in a natural way without the aid of harmful drugs.

Pertussin is absolutely safe because it is a purely herbal preparation and is pleasant to take. It does not upset the stomach nor disturb digestion. Doctors in the past 25 years, have prescribed it for coughs more often than any other advertised cough remedy. Keep a bottle handy at all times. Safe for children. Ask your druggist or doctor about it.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

The bewitching charm of soft, flattering curves . . . the lure of a graceful, modern figure . . . don't spoil it by permitting your eyes to be bigger than your stomach. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately. Over-indulgence is not commended—when tempted to over-indulge, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that modern, enchantingly-rounded figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative, safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Dredge Company Case Is Delayed 2 Months.

A delay in the prosecution of twenty-four smoke abatement suits against building owners was revealed yesterday by records in the city smoke abatement bureau. Notice of the twenty-four violations and requests for court action have been sent to City Prosecutor Peska, but the cases have not been heard in the Municipal court.

Eight of the suits have been ordered by Frank A. Chambers, chief smoke inspector, since the first of the year, trial. The oldest untried suit, requested by Chambers since Nov. 19, 1929, three days after the last smoke case trial. The oldest untried suit, requested on Nov. 19, is against the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company, a contractor for the present city administration.

Hampers Work, Says Chambers.

"Any delay in the prosecution of these suits hinders the work of this department," said Mr. Chambers. "The longer a case lags in the courts, the harder it is for this department to convince violators that we are earnestly trying to elliminate smoke. Violations are repeated unless action is taken to convince the offender that smoke will not be tolerated."

Prosecutor Peska said he was aware of the delays and termed them "unavoidable." Suits started by different city departments have become so numerous, he said, that the eight hours a week allotted to them in the Municipal court is insufficient to handle all cases speedily. A change in the method of handling the suits was blamed for a part of the delay.

Tells of Changes.

"Formerly, an arrest notice was served on the violator, which brought him into court within three or four days," said Prosecutor Peska. "Now the cases are sent to the clerk of the court and a summons is served by the bailiff's office. I have to set the date for the hearing far enough in the future to make sure that the summons will have been served and that the case will not be placed on the calender in advance of suits instituted before it."

Three of the smoke cases will be called on Monday and five on the following Monday, according to Peska. Evidence has been prepared by the smoke bureau and the maximum fine of $100 for each violator will be asked.

The eight suits filed by Chambers since the first of the year were brought against the following:

Carl A. Erickson, 853 North Clark street.
Carl A. Erickson, 1004 North Clark street.
Albaugh Dover Manufacturing company, 2100 Marshall boulevard.
A. Rothstein, 4318-20 Armitage avenue.
Norman F. Richter, 2934 Palmer street.
Mrs. A. K. Lespinasse, 655-57 Sheridan road.
Mrs. Eliza Treleaven, 40 North Lincoln street.
David and Mary Herzon, 1511 South Avers avenue.

Chambers' fight to elminate smoke in the railroad yards at the southern edge of the loop was advanced yesterday. The New York Central announced that three oil-electric locomotives have been ordered. The smokeless engines will be used in the La Salle street terminal and for switching in the district immediately south of the loop. The railroad is considering also, according to reports, the installation of smoke abatement equipment in its yards at 63d street and Indiana avenue.

A large increase in the installation of mechanical stokers in 1929 over 1928 was noted by Chambers. Eighty-two of the stokers were installed in buildings in 1928 and 460 in 1929. The smoke bureau has given warning that it will not approve plans for heating plants in apartment buildings of more than six flats unless mechanical stokers are provided.

GINGER ALE THIRST HERE RISES 1,500% UNDER PROHIBITION

Ginger ale consumption in Chicago has increased 1,500 per cent during the ten years of prohibition, while the use of carbonated beverages in general has jumped 200 per cent here. As a result Chicago bottlers are now filling 300,000,000 bottles annually with carbonated drinks.

These figures will be laid before the Chicago beverage manufacturers today at the annual convention of the Illinois Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages at the Morrison hotel by Edward Maucci, recording secretary. The growth in the ginger ale thirst is one of the problems to be discussed by the association.

From a relatively rare beverage before the days when it was necessary to mix drinks, ginger ale has grown to the most popular of all soft drinks and comprises 20 per cent of the entire output of soda waters, according to Mr. Maucci. The average per capita consumption in Chicago last year was 20 bottles.

SENATORS PROD TARIFF LEAGUE OFFICER IN VAIN

Principle, Not Candidate, Supported, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—For two solid hours today the senate's lobby investigating committee gouged away at W. Warren Barbour, former president and now treasurer of the American Tariff league, for an admission on which to hang a charge of violation of the federal corrupt practices act against the league.

At the end of the prodding, in spite of evidence of a proposed hookup between the league and the Republican national committee in the 1928 presidential campaign, Barbour still insisted stoutly that the $43,000 spent by the league in a "protective tariff educational campaign" was spent in the advocacy of a principle rather than in behalf of the Hoover candidacy.

Hookup Plan Abandoned.

It was the possibility that its efforts might be construed as partisan which led the league, Barbour explained time and time again, to abandon the contemplated hookup under which it, with the approval of Dr. Hubert Work, then chairman of the Republican national committee, was to conduct the tariff phases of the 1928 campaign.

"It just happens that the Republican party has indorsed the protective principle," asserted Barbour. "It would have been the same if the Democratic party had been for adequate protection. We would have conducted the same kind of a campaign."

Grundy Dictated Policies.

Barbour's best defense against the combined attacks of Senators T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], T. J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], and J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] was his poor memory.

Virtually the only important admission pried out of Barbour, who constantly advised the senators to "ask Dr. Faubel, the secretary," was that Senator Joseph R. Grundy [Rep., Pa.], vice president of the league until his appointment to the senate last December, "ran the organization" and in a general way dictated many of its policies.

WOMAN FREED; NO CATTLE DRIVEN ABOUT EVANSTON

When Mrs. Mary Verhoeven, 700 Locust avenue, Winnetka, parked her automobile in front of the Varsity theater at 1710 Sherman avenue, Evanston, a week ago, she let herself in for a lot of trouble. When she left the theater she was handed a summons by a policeman to appear in court to answer a charge of violating a city ordinance which prohibits driving cattle through the city streets and tethering horses to gates and carries a fine for the failure to cut poison ivy.

Mrs. Verhoeven was defended by her husband, John A. Verhoeven, an attorney, when she was arraigned before Justice of the Peace James M. Corcoran yesterday. Justice Corcoran discharged her. Verhoeven pointed out that she had neither driven cattle nor tied horses to gates and although she had failed to cut poison ivy. The justice discovered that Mrs. Verhoeven was to have been charged with violating a parking ordinance.

VICE CRUSADERS IN MANILA WIN CHEER AND JEERS

W.C.T.U. Chieftain Finds It No Happy Job.

BY FORD WILKINS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, Jan. 22.—The Philippine islands are no happy hunting ground for vice crusaders. A group of embattled clubwomen led by a special representative of the W. C. T. U. from the United States, are beginning to find this out.

But at least they have started something. With a concerted attack on Manila's underworld, slave traffic, saloons, cabarets and its varied assortment of oriental forms of nocturnal amusement they have stirred the city to its foundations. They even appealed to Gov. Gen. Dwight F. Davis to "do something" about the "terrible" conditions they found.

No Men Allowed.

It started when Miss Madeline Southard, W. C. T. U. representative and evangelist, invited Manila's clubwomen to a meeting where she promised some sensational revelations. No men were allowed.

At the meeting the tragic death of a navy nurse, whose body was found in a Cull-Cull roadhouse some months ago, was resurrected. The authorities had rendered a verdict of suicide. Miss Southard tried to prove that suicide was an impossible theory.

Then details of a public scandal, involving a city councilor and a school teacher, were recited. This matter was recently aired in the press, and the councilor had been publicly reprimanded.

City Council Angered.

A Manila newspaper printed a stenographic report of what went on in the meeting. Manila indulged itself in a frenzy of talk, some favorable to the women's activities, a larger portion condemning it as an unnecessary parading of filth. This opprobium was applied by the municipal board of the city.

In the stenographic report of the proceedings at the meeting, Miss Southard appeared as saying something derogatory to the character of one of Manila's leading cabarets, Santa Ana, known as the largest cabaret in the world.

Retraction Is Demanded.

John Canson, proprietor, who also owns a resort in Reno, Nev., went to a lawyer and demanded a retraction.

This matter is still pending settlement.

The net result so far has been lots of talk and agitation for a segregated vice district, which is not what the W. C. T. U. leader wanted at all. Many nasty things have been said, a good many feelings have been hurt, and there is much indignation. It is generally admitted, however, that it "might have been a good thing after all" to have some of Manila's dark corners exposed to the light of publicity.

BLAINE ASSERTS U. S. OCCUPATION OF HAITI IS "CARPETBAGGING"

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Passage in the senate of a resolution authorizing $50,000 to defray the expenses of an investigation of conditions in Haiti was blocked late today by Senator Blaine [Rep., Wis.], who launched a savage attack on American occupation in the Negro republic.

The resolution, favorably reported earlier in the day by the senate foreign relations committee and brought to the floor by Senator Borah [Rep., Idaho], was in itself regarded as a slap at President Hoover.

The senators apparently agree that the President has ample power to name a commission and desire to force him to assume the responsibility.

"He [the President] may have the right to name a commission, but it doesn't follow that congress must appropriate every time he wants to appoint one," declared Blaine.

Denouncing the occupation forces as "a lot of carpetbaggers," Blaine pointed to the good roads system begun by the marines and carried to completion by the American administered public works department of the Haitian government as an example of misappropriation of the native government funds.

"It wouldn't take an investigation," said Blaine, "to show that these carpetbaggers are spending the taxes wrung from peasants to build roads so Americans can speed through the country in high powered cars. The Haitian either walks or rides his little burro."

Steals 3 Fur Coats from Church as Women Meet

While women members of the First Congregational church of Evanston were attending a meeting in the church at 1417 Hinman avenue last night, a Negro approached Charles Decker, the janitor, and told him he had been sent there to get a package. Decker told him to look for it and a few minutes later the Negro left carrying a parcel wrapped in burlap. After the meeting, Mrs. R. A. Dawson, 2125½ Ridge avenue, Mrs. Florence Clark, 617 Grove avenue, and Miss Miriam Heermans, 2514 Marcy avenue, discovered that their fur coats, valued at a total of $450, had been stolen from the cloakroom.

CANNED FOODS HAILED AS BOND OF HAPPY HOMES

Convention Is Told How They Aid Cupid.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Canned products as first aids to Cupid and preservers of happy home life yesterday inspired the enthusiastic endorsement of C. E. Hume of San Francisco, newly elected president of the National Canners' association, now in convention at the Stevens hotel. Mr. Hume recommended a salaam to the ubiquitous can opener as a bar to the divorce court and a boon to the housewives of this busy and impatient generation.

"All the sermons by preachers and judges," opined President Hume, "are doing less to keep harmony in our homes than canned foods. A Chicago judge recently blamed the use of canned food for a considerable amount of present day divorce. His point was that the can opener has relieved too many women of the responsibilities of the kitchen and given them time for frivolous pursuits. He also argued that use of the can opener led to poor cooking or no cooking at all.

Aid to Cupid.

"As a matter of fact, were it not for the time saved by canned products that modern young woman would not enter into matrimony at all. She would stick to her desk or her counter rather than spend her hours toiling over a hot stove as her grandmother did. Disappearance of canned food would make it impossible to keep up home life where both a man and his wife are employed."

Adding up the time saved on each of the eight billion cans of food used last year in America, at from fifteen to thirty minutes each, Mr. Hume estimates that the total in 1929 was somewhere between 219,000 and 438,000 years.

"Beans for breakfast" as a slogan and Saturday a universal weekly "bean day" were the suggestions of K. P. Kimball of Lansing, Mich., who addressed the canners of that commodity. A bean a day is as salubrious a morsel as the proverbial apple, he averred.

More Iron Than Raisin.

"You are asked in raisin advertisements," he pointed out, "whether you have had your iron today. But do you know that the simple little bean contains more iron than the raisin, also more calcium, phosphates, and proteins to build bone and muscle in growing children? Yet you let the breakfast food men take these points away from you."

Extensive experiments in the effectiveness of preserving fruits and vegetables by freezing were discussed by H. C. Dihl of the department of agriculture at Washington. Over a period of years the progress made to date would appear to indicate, he said, in summing up his discussion, that while excellent results have been obtained with some fruits, the status of the processes with regard to vegetables and to other fruits leaves the future of the departure generally in the experimental stage.

Tests Prove Successful.

It has been found that strawberries, raspberries, loganberries, and sour cherries can be frozen and canned with safety and that they may be marketed with certainty that they will reach the consumer in as good or better condition than if they had been cooked and canned. The same is not true, to date, with sweet cherries, blackberries, black raspberries, and other similar products; apricots and peaches have been found dubious subjects for this treatment, and vegetables are definitely not recommended when canned after freezing. Further experiment may change these decisions, it was added.

DANIEL BEEBY NAMED TO NEW SCHOOL PLACE

Daniel J. Beeby, principal of the Hirsch Junior High school, was appointed district superintendent by the board of education yesterday to fill the vacancy left by the retirement of Miss Ella C. Sullivan. The transfer was recommended by Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan and will become effective on Feb. 3.

The board also approved the appointment of two new senior high school principals, five junior high school principals, and the promotion of twenty-three teachers to principalships to fill vacancies left by transfers and retirements. Fifteen elementary school principals were transferred to other schools. All the changes will be in effect on Feb. 3.

I. W. A. C. Suing Its Ex-Manager; Charge Fraud

The Illinois Woman's Athletic club, 115 East Pearson street, yesterday filed a bill for an accounting against D. R. Cotton, former business manager of the club. The suit charged that Cotton defrauded the club of $45,000 by doubling the commission paid to R. F. Brooks & Co. on a first mortgage loan of $1,175,000, through a secret agreement. The commission paid was approximately $91,000, according to the bill.

President of the Cadillac Motor Car Company concerning
The New Sixteen-Cylinder Cadillac

CADILLAC MOTOR CAR COMPANY
DETROIT, MICHIGAN
CADILLAC AND LA SALLE MOTOR CARS
Office of the President

January 20, 1930

Mr. R. G. Tiffany,
Cadillac Motor Car Company,
Chicago Branch,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Mr. Tiffany:

The new sixteen-cylinder Cadillac which was shown for the first time at the 30th National Automobile Show (New York) will be exhibited at the Coliseum and at the General Motors exhibit in the Stevens Hotel, Chicago, January 25th to February 1st.

The new car is called the "Cadillac V-16" because no name other than Cadillac would be fitting or adequate.

Please inform all Cadillac and La Salle owners that the "Cadillac V-16" will be an addition to Cadillac and La Salle eight-cylinder lines, which Cadillac will continue to produce with the same care and precision which has always characterized Cadillac manufacture.

The sixteen-cylinder Cadillac has been in process of development by Cadillac engineers and designers for more than three years. It has been subjected to actual tests for hundreds of thousands of miles under all available road and climatic conditions. So there is not the slightest doubt as to its extraordinary capacities, its almost magic ease and efficiency.

It has long been the desire of Cadillac and General Motors to build a few cars each year highly individualized and of supreme possibilities.

Cadillac and La Salle V-type eight-cylinder cars have achieved such a degree of perfection that any advance in engineering design that will improve upon their performance must be revolutionary. The ideal has been brilliantly realized in the new sixteen-cylinder car.

It is natural and logical that this sixteen-cylinder Cadillac be of V-type design. In the past fifteen years Cadillac has demonstrated the unquestioned superiority of the V-type engine in the Eight. It is proved again most impressively in the "Cadillac V-16".

The "Cadillac V-16" will be custom-built—the very ultimate in luxury, comfort and security. It will be serviced with an intimacy and continuousness of contact of which the public has had a foretaste in Cadillac and La Salle.

Each car will be built in the matter of power and speed to meet the wishes of the owner.

Cadillac has the confident expectation that there will be nothing in America or the fashion centers abroad to compare with the "Cadillac V-16". We believe that it will take its place in every home enjoying the utmost which can be attained in exclusiveness and desirability.

Very truly yours,
L. P. Fisher
President

The New CADILLAC V-16 (Sixteen-Cylinders) will be exhibited during the week of Chicago's Annual Automobile Show—January 25th to February 1st—at the Coliseum and at the General Motors exhibit in the Stevens Hotel.

THE ROTTEN SPOT.

It is worth remembering that the greater part of the difficulties through which Chicago does not seem able to find a way is caused by a branch of government the personnel of which could not be reached by the voters when they succeeded in cleaning out other public offices. City government was only indirectly affected by the uprising. The state got the benefit of it and the sanitary district was greatly improved, but men and methods were not changed in the city hall. Nearly all the trouble has developed in this left-over government, which includes the schools within its control.

Where the voting corrective took effect the results have been in the main satisfactory. Even the sanitary district, which had been a riot, is a chastened branch of government and its fiscal reformation is observable. State government under Mr. Emmerson has ceased to be an open scandal and its affairs are apparently in good order. The county government can stand improvement, but the conditions which are driving responsible citizens distracted are in the city hall and schools. This political management had been disturbed by the elections and their apparent meaning, but it remained to continue in its ways. What now confronts the city is the accumulated consequences of spoliation extended over a number of years.

With this wrecking crew at work there was no chance that the structure would not come down about the city's ears. It has. It can be built up again, but if the wrecking crew remains in it it will come down again. Destruction is inherent in the thing. It also is the only attraction which makes office desirable to the present occupants of the city hall.

BATTLESHIPS.

It is proposed by the London Times that the naval conference first address itself to the reduction of battleships, on the theory that agreement can more easily be reached as to this category than in others and that the way would thus be cleared for agreement upon the latter.

The contrary is true, as is pointed out by the New York World, which can hardly be accused of big navy leanings even by the most passionate pacifist. The effect of the abolition of battleships or of their reduction in force and in cost would certainly be to give the powers unable or unwilling to maintain a strong battleship fleet a new reason for insisting upon their terms as to other categories. It would also release whatever money they are now spending or planning to spend on capital ships for building up their other tonnage.

THE TRIBUNE is opposed to the abolition of battleships and to their reduction in power. Battleships are well justified insurance. A strong battleship fleet has a strategic value for us which will insure respect for our rights and interests throughout the world and Utopian expectations of world peace and justice should not be permitted to obscure its importance. But also, in the shrewd negotiations which have begun in London, concessions as to the battleship fleet should be used to bring about proper concessions and limitations in the other categories. It is folly to throw away this advantage, and we do not think our delegation will make so obvious a blunder. When we failed at Washington to win an agreement of limitation on other types than the battleship we did precisely that, and we were rewarded for our altruism by a rapid acceleration of competitive building in the latter types. If we are capable of learning anything by experience we ought to be guided in the present negotiations by that sharp lesson.

A PERSECUTION OF COMPETENCE.

Three-quarters of a million families, more than three million individuals, have been condemned to ruin, starvation, and death by the deliberate act of the Russian government. Even a world accustomed to soviet humanitarianism is stirred by this latest of its manifestations. The condemned are the kulaks, the more prosperous peasants, their wives and children. By American standards they are anything but prosperous. Their farms are small and their capital in animals and tools would hardly arouse the envy of the poorest upland farmer in the Carolinas. Through generations of toil the kulaks have acquired the habit of industry and a tiny store of goods. The soviet régime wants the goods, and to get them has determined to sacrifice whatever values the Russian economy might expect from its abler and more successful farmers.

To characterize the soviet policy as cruel tells only half the story. In addition it is monumentally stupid. Nine-tenths of the Russian population is peasant. With all the stress that the soviet government has placed upon industrialization, urban industry is still a minor factor in the Russian economy and must remain so for long years. Indeed, the only hope of establishing industry on a sound footing in Russia lies in encouraging agricultural production, with the idea of obtaining exportable surpluses of grain with which to buy machinery. Instead of encouraging agriculture by encouraging the more successful farmers, the soviet leaders have settled upon a policy of driving the kulaks to despair and the grave. Instead of seeking to profit from the kulaks' industry and what skill they possess, the Russian government has determined to dispense with the proved character and ability of the individual and substitute for it an experiment in collective incompetence bossed by bolshevik jobholders and doctrinaires from the cities.

SECRECY AT THE CONFERENCE.

The naval conference, opening with ceremonial and, of course, inconsequential statements of good will and hope, closes its doors for the real negotiations. The important discussions will be in secret. The correspondents from the interested nations confess that they had not been prepared for exclusion to the extent that apparently is proposed and they are trying to obtain more liberal arrangements for reporting, without much chance of getting them.

Hugh R. Wilson, United States minister to Switzerland, has been told off to give out the news, Secretary Stimson saying that he will not be able to commit himself to daily meetings with the newspaper men. The delegates would justify their withdrawal from the public eye and ear with a number of reasons in particular and, in general, with the statement that full publicity would create an atmosphere in which candid interchange of ideas would be impossible, if not undesirable.

Some concessions may be made to this point of view. Delicate points of international relations will be on the table. They will probably involve discussions now and then which discretion would not send out in detail for the next day's news. But conceding as much as it is possible to concede, it is also true that the closed doors may conceal what ought to be known.

The American delegates are the trustees acting for the American people. Their decisions will not be final, but in some circumstances they could be given the effect of finality. If these delegates are doing their work they are guarding the interests of the United States. That is their particular obligation. The welfare of the world is of secondary importance to them, or should be in any proper definition of their duties. It is certain to be so in the case of the other delegations.

If secrecy should mean suppression or evasion of information which ought to be given out, it will be unpardonable. Suppression of information essential to a correct understanding of what is being proposed in the conference will be simply betrayal of trust. The delegates are not representing private enterprise, but public interest. If procedure requires some secret discussion, national interest requires full disclosures of the trend and direction of the meetings.

Secrecy cannot be permitted to conceal what is going on. The closed doors put upon the men responsible for the giving out of news an obligation to hide nothing material to the good of the country. The American newspaper men are responsible citizens of the United States and the service they are to give in London is service to the people of the country.

THE ROMANCE OF GEOGRAPHY.

Readers of THE TRIBUNE are vicariously enjoying the romance of distant and obscure places through the daily feature "The Contest of Interesting Letters." Accompanying the reproduction of the envelope with postmark, stamp, name, and address of recipient is a small map of the town and adjacent territory from which the letter was posted. This is necessarily inadequate. To follow the contest intelligently the reader should consult his atlas. If he doesn't own one, now is a good time to fill that vacancy in his library. Geography is too often dismissed on the theory that passing an examination in an elementary school course is a license to forget the subject. Adults, returning to geography, will find it fascinating. The map contest offers an interesting approach to geography for youngsters and an interesting reapproach for adults.

THE LEAGUERS IN DETROIT.

The Anti-Saloon league held its annual meeting in Detroit. It had ten years of constitutional prohibition to consider and probably, in selecting one of the largest rum running centers for the occasion, wished to give encouragement to the bootleggers who are dependent on the league's activities if they are to continue prosperous. It would have added to the authenticity of the proceedings if reports could have been made by representatives of the larger concerns which look upon the Volstead law as the source of their fortunes.

The runners and leggers in Detroit are busy men, but it would have been a pleasure for them to appear before the league and testify to the value, to them, of the good work. The leggers and the leaguers are necessary to each other and no doubt appreciate it. Each keeps the other side going.

The leggers did not report, but the league heard from the government. Dr. Doran represented the United States in the proceedings, taking a part of minor importance but endeavoring to satisfy the gathering that the vassal was willing and hoped to avoid giving just cause for complaint. He was permitted to do homage.

Editorial of the Day

THE REFORMERS DID IT.
[Dallas, Tex., News.]

Chicago is having to do with less than the requisite number of police, and may have to stop paying those she already has. Her street cleaning service, her fire fighting corps, her garbage department—all these have succumbed to Thompsonitis. And now the school system about which the doughty mayor made so much ado is about to close up for the want of funds to carry it on.

It is a curious circumstance that President H. Wallace Caldwell of Chicago's board of education, in announcing his despair of finding the money to go ahead with the school year, puts the blame on the "small group of reformers" who have disclosed to the world the financial and political bankruptcy of the city. Possibly Mr. Caldwell is himself a product of Thompsonism. We are not informed as to that. But he blames the diagnosticians for the disease.

Every town has thinkers in public place like Mr. Caldwell. If there is an epidemic in town, they blame those who tell of it rather than those whose neglect gave the malady headway. If there has been a defalcation in a public trust, they regret the disclosure rather than the theft. Some day there must be a reckoning. But of course that fact doesn't make the reckoning any the more pleasant.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

THE INDIANS WERE RIGHT.

MANY of the mineral springs acquired their reputation in the days of the Indians. In fact, many of them are living on the hangover reputation which has grown out of Indian tradition. In the case of baths the outstanding qualities in which reputation was grounded related to temperature and to sulphur content. There is considerable scientific proof that both qualities had therapeutic value.

Was it Oliver Wendell Holmes who said: "The art of living consists in drawing correct conclusions from incorrect data"? And who was it said, "We snatch information"? It is not the first time science has come tardily to the support of tradition and folklore. The first scientific support of the Indian use of sulphur baths was related to the ability of sulphur to kill vermin and other animal parasites. While lice are not known to spread disease in this part of the country they cause their host to scratch and thus set up a dermatitis. Itch is due to an animal parasite.

There is a fairly long list of skin diseases, especially if we include those of Indians and early settlers in the consideration, which are due to animal parasites. For all such, repeated sulphur bathing was a panacea. But now we are finding that the higher forms of vegetable micro-organisms—the yeasts and molds—are responsible for many skin disorders, and against these organisms sulphur has a considerable degree of efficacy. While it may not always kill the parasites hidden away in the tissues, sulphur lessens their capacity to cause trouble and restrains them, at least.

It might be a good idea to say, when in doubt about a skin trouble, try a round of sulphur baths or some form of sulphur ointments. Such a practice will often be useless, but that is about the worst that can be said for it, while at times it will cure, and at other times it will remove complication.

Dr. L. G. Blane and a group of associates advocate the use of sulphur as an aid in the treatment of syphilis and various disorders which grow out of it. Sulphur does not harm the kidneys and it helps other remedies to do their work. A person taking sulphur baths will get better effects from mercury and arsenical preparations.

ONE CAUSE OF NIGHTMARE.

B. H. writes: Some one wrote you recently about a dream of being unable to move and endeavoring to call for help. I have had exactly the same dream and if not able to cure it have found it can be avoided by sleeping lying on the side and not on the back.

NOT HABIT FORMING DRUG.

M. G. S. writes: 1. In a case of menopause are two tablets of ovary, three times a day, after meals, too large a dose to be given and for how long a time may it be given? 2. Is it harmful to give digitalis if the patient has angina?

REPLY.

1. Ovarian extract is given so long as it is needed. It is not a habit forming drug. It is much more effective when taken hypodermically. Given that way, daily dosing is not necessary.

2. Digitalis, properly given, acts like magic in that form of angina due to weakness of the muscle. Follow your physician's directions in taking it. Do not take it unless you are being controlled by your physician.

SLANDER OF BANK IS CRIMINAL OFFENSE.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is there any punishment under Illinois laws for persons who maliciously circulate statements which are derogatory to the financial condition of a banking institution? A. D. T.

The Illinois statutes under the criminal code provide that:

"Any person who shall willfully and maliciously make, circulate, or transmit to another or others, any statements, rumor or suggestion, written, printed or by word of mouth, which is directly or by inference derogatory to the financial condition, with intent to affect the solvency or financial standing of any corporation doing a banking or trust business in this state, or any building and loan association doing business in this state, or who shall counsel, aid, procure or induce another to start, transmit or circulate any such statement, rumor or suggestion, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or both: Provided, that the truth of said statement, established by the maker thereof, shall be a complete defense in any prosecution under the provisions of this act."

CHIMNEY EXTENDED.

Chicago, Jan. 8. — [Friend of the People.] — Two chimneys in the 2500 block of Augusta street continually belch smoke into our living room the moment we open our windows. Could you aid us? S. G.

An order to extend the chimney has been complied with and the engineer from this department reports that the nuisance is abated. The chimney will be kept under observation and if at any time evidence of further nuisance is secured the department will take prompt action to abate it.

LEASE BINDING UNDER NEW OWNER.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The building in which I have signed a lease for a year has been sold to a new owner. As I would like to move, 1. Is my lease binding with the new owner? 2. Please also state the hours and temperature required for heating. H. J. M.

1. Yes.

2. Section 2119 of the city code as amended Dec. 1, 1923, requires every person controlling the heating plant of any tenement house in which the heat is furnished from a plant used in common to furnish heat from Oct. 1 to June 1 so that the occupants may secure, without such restriction of ventilation as to interfere with sanitary conditions, a minimum temperature of 60 degrees at 6:30 a. m., 65 degrees at 7:30 a. m., 68 degrees at 8:30 a. m., and thereafter until 10:30 p. m., provided that notice by registered mail shall be given before any person shall be deemed to have violated this section. Since it may be difficult to prove sufficient facts to defend an action for rent in case you move out, we advise you first to report violations to the commissioner of health, city hall, and to exhaust the possibility of getting relief by formal notice to the landlord.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Schoosh! Schoosh! Schoosh!

The naval conference has put on the soft pedal. Reporters and the common people are barred. They're at work over there in London for the peace of the world, no more wars; but keep it dark! All the delegates are wearing soft soled shoes and carpet slippers and talk only in low whispers. When they have to refer to the most important subjects, such as battleships, they won't even trust to a whisper; too dangerous. When a delegate wants to mention the word "battleship" he rubs his right ear. When he refers to "war" a delegate holds his nose. All the delegates wear green whiskers and smoked goggles. The deliberations are being held in a cellar; the delegates reach it by going down the coal chute. The cellar is in an unknown part of London, and the only hope the correspondents have of finding it is by going up and down every street and sniffing, in the hopes of smelling Charley Dawes' upside down pipe. It looks as though we weren't going to know about it until the American delegates sign on the dotted line and come back home. As far as the rest of us are concerned, we might as well talk about something else. All right, do you think this cold snap will last long? Huh!

THE PHYSICIAN BEREFT.

After his own loved little one was gone,
Through patient, toiling years he carried on,
To many a stricken child, administering,
Whose life was such a fragile, precious thing,—
To many a blue-eyed little girl, whose hair
Was spun of gold, whose face was trustful, fair,
But not so fair, oh, not so fair and brave
As that of her—the one he could not save.

The other little sufferers who came
To him for succor, pallid, tortured, lame,
Healed by his skill, lisped thanks to him, and then,
Laughing adieu, turned to their own again,
And left his heart a bowed and broken host
To one wee, lingering, curly-headed ghost
That could not kiss the sadness from his cheek,
But only faintly smile and slip away
Into the shadows of a bygone day,—
Into the bleakness of a tiny grave—
The one he loved so much, and could not save.
EOLUS.

ZERO WEATHER for a week, says the old Weather Man. And that's why we threw the typewriter at the poet yesterday and kicked the desk over and jumped around and tried to bark like Tommy Atkins. We had just reached the office and were trying to break off our ears and throw them away; we didn't think they'd be any further use to us; and just then the door opened and a voice said: "I have a little poem here, 'Hail! Hail! Hail! Hail to ice and snow'—" "Get the hail out of here!" yelled we, and then we threw the typewriter.

R. H. L.: A history o' these United States of America in five hundred words? Why, hell, I can do it in twenty-eight:

THIS ENGLISH LANGUAGE! Tck! Tck! We were at our butcher's yesterday when a stern, classical appearing lady entered. "Ah," she said to the butcher, "a pound of calves liver, please!" "Hueh?" said the butcher. "A pound of calves liver," repeated the lady firmly. "Now, I get you!" said the butcher, "you mean kaffs liver." "I mean," said the lady sharply, "just what I said, calves liver." "Well," said the butcher, "that's same as kaffs liver, hain't it?" "One pound of calves liver, please," repeated the lady. The butcher said no more, but cut the pound of calves liver and handed it to the haughty lady and motioned her to the cashier's desk alongside the wall. Then he had the last word. "Eighty cents," shouted the butcher to the cashier, "fer one pound of kaffs liver." The classical lady swept severely out, but she gave the butcher a dirty look and slammed the door.

THREE ROUSING CHEERS! Hurrah for the Freedom of the Knees! The French dressmakers surrender. Overawed by the disregard of their long skirt edict by our brave young American gels, Paris says, "All right, wear 'em short." It's a great victory, but it will be more appreciated when the thermometer decides to be a little bit reasonable.

AND DO YOU REMEMBER Way Back When, as Harvey Woodruff would say, the great County of Cook, in which is our own City of Chicago, growled ominously and threatened to secede from the State of Illinois and form a state of its own. And now the experts say that the County of Cook and the City of Chicago are broke flat and the only hope is from the legislature of the State of Illinois. Oh, well, don't bring that up against us, State of Illinois. Good gracious, can't you take a joke?

FRED MITCHELL-HODGES, the explorer, tells New York that down in the unexplored jungles of Honduras he found a weird animal not yet scientifically classified which seemed to be a combination of alligator, turtle, bird, and snake. Now, class! All together! What is it? Hoover Democrat! Why, class! Shame at you!

BELIEVE IT or not, but the New York Times (and if you see it in the Times it's so-so) prints a most thrilling story. Marjorie N. H., nice girl, sends us the clipping. A man in Ringgold, Ga., went hunting, killed a rabbit, put it in his sack, and sat down to rest. The rabbit revived, jumped from the sack, ran over the hunter's gun, kicked the trigger, shot two toes off the hunter. Rabbit still at large. Very good; call the next case. All right; the *Chi. FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 23, 1865.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Gen. Grant arrived here from the Army of the Potomac and after a short interview with President Lincoln, Secretary Stanton and Gen. Sheridan returned to City Point. Gen. Sheridan has gone back to the Shenandoah valley.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is believed in the war department that Gen. Breckinridge's force, lately operating in southwestern Virginia and eastern Tennessee, is now concentrated at Lynchburg.

NEW YORK.—The Richmond Dispatch accounts for the great rise in the price of gold by the fact that citizens are selling their property to escape confiscation. The rebel currency is converted into gold at any price. The Negroes who have been hoarding up rebel currency are selling it preparatory to running off.

NEW YORK.—The Tribune's correspondent at Fort Fisher says: "The total Union losses during the siege are not known but they probably will not exceed 400, exclusive of those killed on Monday morning by the explosion of the magazine. The lowest estimated loss by this terrible catastrophe is 200 killed and wounded. Some estimate it at twice that number."

NEW YORK.—A dispatch announces that Gen. Lee is preparing for another invasion of Maryland and Pennsylvania as the last blow for the rebel cause. Persons recently out of the confederacy say that the most astonishing panic prevails generally throughout the south, among both citizens and soldiers.

CHICAGO.—C. M. Waterbury and Miss C. Mather, daughter of the late D. W. Mather, were married on Jan. 19 by the Rev. Dr. Z. M. Humphrey. Thomas B. Cooper and Miss Augusta Lawrence were married on Jan. 19 at the home of P. H. Miller by the Rev. N. D. Williamson. C. Shackelford of Chicago and Miss Nellie Tyrrell of Mishawaka, Ind., were married on Jan. 19 at the home of the bride's father by the Rev. Mr. Hemmenway.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 23, 1900.

LONDON.—In all probability the battle between the forces of Gen. Buller and the Boers in the vicinity of Ladysmith up to the present has not been decisive. Gen. Warren gained barely 1,000 yards. Only a few of the Boers' outposts have as yet been assaulted. A Daily Chronicle correspondent in a dispatch, dated Spearman's Farm, Jan. 22, says Gen. Warren is still pushing forward although making slow progress.

WASHINGTON. — Montagu White, who arrived here from New York, will be received as consular and diplomatic representative of the Transvaal. The state department has formally decided upon such action, thus reversing a policy heretofore maintained.

WASHINGTON.—Henry A. Hazen, professor of meteorology and one of the chief forecasters at the weather bureau here, was probably fatally injured by being thrown from his bicycle. His skull was cracked from over the nose to the back of his head.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 23, 1920.

THE HAGUE.—The Dutch government has refused the demands of the allied powers for the extradition of former Emperor William of Germany.

CHICAGO.—This city's public school teachers, represented by nearly forty speakers, delivered a plea for higher wages to meet higher living costs to the finance committee of the board of education. At the close of the meeting Chairman George P. Arnold and Supt. Mortenson declared the teachers had won the day and that a blanket increase of from $400 to $500 probably would be announced within ten days. A 60 per cent raise was the amount the teachers generally demanded.

CHICAGO.—Albert W. Bullard of Glencoe, vice president of the Northern Trust company, and head of Bullard, Hetherington & Co., died suddenly of pneumonia at the age of 51.

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

GALLI-CURCI LEAVES OPERA.

Laporte, Ind., Jan. 20.—Galli-Curci comes over to this country and gains fame and money from the "old fashioned" opera. Now, quitting opera for the concert stage, she berates opera as "old fashioned, slow, and pompous." But concerts are just as old fashioned as operas. More so in this country.

Even if concerts were more new fashioned than opera, why are all new fashioned things superior to old fashioned things? Galli-Curci seems to have relieved herself of a lot of silly gabble.
LUCY REECH.

SENTIMENTAL HYMNS.

Oak Park, Ill., Jan. 20.—I was shocked to read in THE TRIBUNE an article by Tom Pettey about attacks by New York preachers on such hymns as "Nearer, My God, to Thee," "Rock of Ages," "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," and "Onward, Christian Soldiers." Mr. Pettey quoted the Rev. Selden P. Delaney, rector of an Episcopal church. The remarks show a narrow and shallow consciousness of the folk songs of the Christian people. It was not within his province to stand in the pulpit of an Episcopal church in New York or any other city and bring scandal and criticism upon it by calling some of the best loved hymns in its accepted hymnal "sickly sentimentalism." I think a general verdict of the people of said church would be to keep our dear old hymns.
AN EPISCOPALIAN.

CAUSE FOR WAR.

Gary, Ind., Jan. 20.—An article, "Rector Decries Sentiment in Old Time Hymns," interested me. Like thousands of others, I positively do not agree with the preachers.

The four hymns mentioned have been and will be almost divine to many stanch Christians from Presidents to most humble people from now until the end of time. They are good old reliable hymns, and many of us will fight for them almost as quick as we would for the Stars and Stripes.
R. H. NEILL.

LOBBIES AND CONGRESSIONAL SELF-RESPECT.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 17.—It seems that any one can go buttonholing senators and congressmen and seek consideration for all measures from tariff to pacifism and prohibition.

Has it ever occurred to our lawmakers that by becoming subservient to these lobbyists they lose their self-respect? While the lobbyist himself smiles for the lawmaker who has fallen in with his plans, secretly he has only contempt for the lawmaker, as such lobbyists feel they are superior minded to have been able to dominate.

To listen to lobbyists and to permit lobbyists to operate as they do is the same as if I should attempt to buttonhole a juryman and attempt to influence him in behalf of a defendant or plaintiff. The wonder of it is that more sumptuary laws are not slipped into our constitution.

A lobbyist always represents a minority interest seeking privilege. The wants of all the people can easily be determined, so our senators and congressmen should not find that such a difficult task if they are sincere with themselves and all of their constituency.
G. M. YOUNGKRANTZ.

EXPLODING A LEGEND.

Maywood, Ill., Jan. 20.—Allow me to commend the articles on London by Philip Kinsley.

I had the notion that the island was a little heaven where people spent most of their time (when they weren't in their quaint little cottages watering their quaint little gardens) riding to the hounds, attending the Derby, being received at court, etc.

In my picture James, the butler, was always close by to "draw the bawth" or prepare the whisky and soda.

It had crept into my education that there were no gentlemen quite equal to an English gentleman nor any American who could ever equal an Englishman in the fine art of diplomacy.

I had studied and been taught a great deal more about Sir Walter Raleigh, Thackeray, Scott, and Bacon than about Edison, the Wright brothers, Alexander Graham Bell, Perry, Myrtle Reid, Cooper, and Emerson, so I had come to have a decided inferiority complex concerning America.

Since reading Mr. Kinsley I am convinced that America has nothing to apologize for; that we are the equals if not superiors of the English intellectually, morally and every other way, and I only hope our men will hold their own in this disarmament parley, and realize they are representing the most forward looking, up to the minute country on the face of the earth.
TERESA PETERSON.

EMPTY CHAIR.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—The broadcast of the opening of the naval conference was thrilling; to hear a king and other dignitaries all the way from London was something new and wonderful. I'm not a bit sorry that I got up so early and listened to the entire broadcast.

But I met with one disappointment. Where was our great exponent of America first? Why wasn't he present after chasing and fighting the king of England on the shelves of our libraries and our school books.

Why should such a great American stay at home and bother with such small stuff as more man power, financial difficulties of a small city, etc., when he ought to be in London solving the great problems of all the nations? O. A. FRANZ.

MEXICO'S BURDEN.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Your editorial, "Liberalism and Haiti," offers some good suggestions for the cure of the terrible conditions that exist today throughout the United States. You justify the presence of United States marines in Haiti and excuse their beastly conduct on the ground that evil conditions have been corrected and benefits conferred on the Haitians.

The same persistent corruption, incompetence, and sanguinary disorder which you contend the Haitians created for themselves have been created in America by prohibition, the merger of politics and crime, and the disrespect for some of the laws as laid down by the constitution.

By your own process of reasoning, then, our next door neighbor, Mexico, should step in, exercise imperialism, and thus set our disordered house in order. S O S, Mexico! H. H.

CUSTOM BUILT

By SIDNEY HERSCHEL SMALL

SYNOPSIS.

John Andrew Kellogg, heir to millions, asks Barbara Thornton to marry him. She agrees, but not very graciously. When she hears that he has just lost his job she scolds him and calls him a playboy. He calls on his attorney, David Craig, who tells him that he will never inherit the money his father left if he doesn't prove himself capable of managing his life in a sensible way. He tells him that since he has lost one job after another he will have to double five thousand dollars in thirty days or live on an income from a trust fund for the rest of his life. John Andrew telephones this to Barbara and she offers to give him five thousand to turn over to Craig. He refuses and tells her he is going out to Hollywood. She is furious with him and breaks the engagement. He decides to go to San Francisco and starts for California. On the train he meets Anne Ames, who is on her way to Hollywood with a letter of introduction to a movie producer. They become interested in each other. Before saying good-by in Utah, John Andrew tells Anne that he will see her in Los Angeles in a few days.

Arrived in San Francisco, John Andrew meets an old school friend, Peter Merriam, on the street. Pete is selling Mercury cars and tries to sell one to John Andrew. They go for a trial spin and, with John Andrew at the wheel, have a slight smashup. In order to keep Pete from losing his job, John Andrew buys the custom built roadster for $4,960. He also gives all but a hundred dollars of his expense money to an old man with an invention without asking what the machine is. He drives to Los Angeles in the Mercury and sees Anne at the Consolidated studio, where she is being tried out. He makes an engagement to take her to dinner. Before starting out he looks at the old man's plans and learns they are for a noiseless camera. He sells the patent rights to Consolidated for twenty-five thousand, the money to be turned over to him on the receipt of the signature of Blake, the inventor.

In the meantime the hotel people become suspicious of John Andrew and ask him to pay his bill. He decides to pawn some belongings. He receives a telgram from the inventor's attorney asking for five hundred additional or lose the contract. He tries to sell the Mercury and offers it for two thousand dollars. Before the deal is completed he is arrested by order of the Mercury Motors of San Francisco. Their attorney calls on John Andrew in jail and explains that it was all a mistake. John Andrew agrees not to sue them and they pay his hotel bill. Fitzgerald of Consolidated lends him the five hundred to send to Blake.

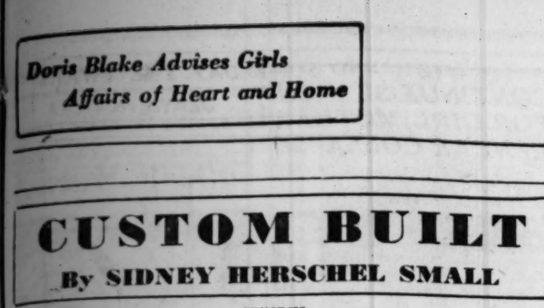
INSTALLMENT XI.

AN ARGUMENT.

John Andrew could almost see the old attorney carefully paring the telegram to ten words. THANK HEAVEN and GLAD showed how happy Craig was that John Andrew had completed the task satisfactorily. COME HOME meant almost the same thing; it was as if the old man said, "Let me tell you how pleased I am; let me pat you on the shoulder, John Andrew." DOBSON was certainly the banker's name, and CALIFORNIA SOUTHWESTERN his bank. But AVOID ACTRESSES! John Andrew wanted terribly to laugh. He would have laughed indeed if he had seen the words Craig had deleted from the wire: DESPITE YOUR SUCCESS THE WHISKY WAS DOUBTFUL. Not the cost had made the old lawyer omit this; he was afraid that Kellogg would have forgotten the toast drunk in New York; more, he hoped that John Andrew would never remember it. . . .

The reporter, when John Andrew stuffed the message into his pocket, said, "How long have you known Nora Paige?"

"Who's she?" John Andrew asked.



Then I'll go back to my room.

"The girl who came with Fitzgerald——"

"You lose," Kellogg said.

The reporter tried again: "We'll get the name when you apply for a marriage license."

"You lose again," said John Andrew; "she won't have me."

"Who?"

"What's this? A game?"

"I've got to get her name," the reporter pleaded. "My city editor told me not to come back without it——"

"You've got a cinch," John Andrew said, finishing his cup and standing up. "I could do a little job like that with one hand . . . now, old man, I'm sorry, but I'm pretty busy this morning. . . ."

Kellogg dressed rapidly. A few coins jingled in his pocket—the last he had; before the morning was over he'd drop in at the California Southwestern and get some money, but first he was determined to see Anne. It was, he knew, still early; the sun was slanting over the hills, and casting the shadows of the palms like elongated curious cacti on the grass outside. Get Anne before she was out of the house. Say, "Look here, Anne Ames, I want to know what the trouble is . . ."

The Mercury, docile for once, seemed willing to hurry toward the house in which the girl was stopping.

He jerked the emergency brake before the car had come to a full stop. "That's fine," he told the woman who answered the door. "I'll just wait here"—how well that had worked at Consolidated—"until she comes back . . . and if she doesn't come here for lunch, as you say, I'll send out and eat a sandwich on your doorstep . . ."

John Andrew was permitted to come inside, and the woman went upstairs; John Andrew realized (it was not yet half past eight) that Anne was here, and that a consultation was going on somewhere in the house. He did not realize that a battered machine was parked behind the gleaming custom built car, and that the reporter was sitting in it, having followed John Andrew from the hotel.

In no time at all Anne came downstairs, hat on. Instinct made Kellogg stand with his back to the door.

"I'm going out," Anne said, not looking at him.

"Mistake on your part," John Andrew said calmly. "That is, you aren't going anywhere unless you ride . . . with me."

The girl brought fiery eyes up to meet his: "Will you get out of the way?" she demanded fiercely.

John Andrew said, "I will not."

"Then I'll go back to my room——"

"Or out of another door. I think I'd better go with you. It isn't good for you to be alone, anyhow. What's Koto say? 'Solitude allures men alone; there are no women hermits'——"

"I'd like to see Koto," Anne snapped.

"Counting your millions!"

"Might be a good job for him; he's honest . . . Anne, what's the matter?"

The girl frone immediately, and, her face lifting defiantly, made John Andrew want to kiss her more than ever.

"I don't know what you're angry about," Kellogg said, "but I do know that why argue it here?"

"Or anywhere else."

John Andrew said soberly: "It's got to be argued somewhere, Anne. I'll hang around until I know what's wrong——"

"You know already."

Gently, "Will you believe me when I say I don't know? Anne . . . let me drive you around a bit, and we'll talk it over. I tell you I don't know. Won't you believe me?"

Her lips formed the word, "No," but, after a pause, she said, "It's unnecessary, but . . . I haven't anything else to do . . ."

"I'm sorry, Anne."

She looked at him scornfully, but said nothing; when John Andrew held the door open she walked rapidly past him, down the walk, and stepped into the Mercury; by the time Kellogg reached the car the reporter was taking off his hat.

". . . from the sheriff's office," John Andrew heard; "we need your name for our records——"

"This isn't the same lady who came to see me in jail," Kellogg said grimly. "I just came here to——"

"She answers the description . . . and now that I know what she really looks like I can tell 'em out at Consolidated, and they'll be glad to give me her name; it's good publicity——"

Anne asked helplessly, "Why must I have anything to do with it? I'm only a . . . a friend of Mr. Kellogg's, and went to the jail to see what the trouble was; hasn't it been all explained?"

"Surely, but you see Mr. Kellogg has always . . . well, you never've read anything about his doings in the papers, but now that he was arrested it makes a good story——"

John Andrew slipped into his seat, pressed the starter.

"Look out for your feet, old man," he said, and the Mercury shot away.

For a mile the Mercury hummed ahead; John Andrew, searching for words with which to commence his story, which he believed must preface all argument, and yet which he did not want to tell until Anne had explained why she was disturbed, drove without saying a word. Cars, thousands of them, big and small, shining and streaked, were on the streets now, as the city drove to work.

Anne broke the silence. "You've always managed to keep from being arrested before," she said. She might as well have said, "But you've done unusual things."

John Andrew nodded.

"What clever trick did you use to get the soundless camera?"

"Look here," Kellogg protested; "I'm supposed to be doing the questioning. The invention? If I hadn't happened along, and stumbled over it, the old man who made the camera would never have received a decent price for it." Fearful lest she thought he might be boasting, he added, "I was able to help him a bit. I——"

"I—I! Don't you ever think of other people, John Andrew?"

"That 'John Andrew' sounded very fine," was all Kellogg offered.

The Mercury, throttled down, moved silently forward, as if listening.

THE CAST:

Gloria	Mary Eaton

Barbara	Olive Shea
Miller	Dan Healy
Mooney	Kaye Renard

By Mae Tinée.

Here you have a mass of tinsel from which three diamonds sparkle. Diamonds—Mary Eaton, Eddie Cantor, and Helen Morgan. Rudy Vallee also is there, but I would just call him a moonstone. Mr. Ziegfeld is said to have supervised the production. If so, the less said about that the better.

The piece is a lengthy, cluttered up revue affair with the usual "backstage" story as its core. The heroine is one of those immensely gifted store clerks who is "discovered" and ends up in "The Follies," learning en route and after arrival that all is not gold which glitters. The film is a junkyard of used situations and effects.

Miss Eaton photographs, dances, and sings charmingly. Eddie Cantor is funny in his skit, which would be more comical if not so long. Helen Morgan pleases in one of her crooning specialties and Rudy et gang syncopate melodiously for a couple of minutes. Supporting cast is adequate. Photography and synchronization are O. K. But I can sure think of a lot of things I'd rather do than sit through "Glorifying the American Girl" again.

See you tomorrow.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For to day's question Miss Dorothy Ritchell, 1110 Cleveland street, Evanston, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Questions.

What was your most difficult subject when you were in high school?

The Answers.

Miss Zita Carroll, 217 South Lavergne avenue, stylist—I really think mine was shorthand. As I recall that one of my teachers, when asked if I had taken shorthand, replied "I had been exposed to it, but it didn't take." I suspect it was not my forte.

Ralph Schwartz, 2150 West George street, clerk—Physics. There are so many conflicting terms in it. I just couldn't understand them. We had to make so many experiments, and I didn't understand them either. In these experiments we followed the directions in the book. I cannot see that that subject did me any good so far.

Mrs. Beulah M. Conden, 1377 East 57th street, housewife—Geometry. I enjoyed arithmetic and even algebra, but geometry was worse than the hardest kind of work. Come to think of it I'm not surprised. Why should a girl have to spend time even on algebra anyhow? If a study of it helped in planning and cutting out a dress there would be an excuse for it.

I. J. Brown, 3649 Sunnyside avenue, general insurance — I didn't have an opportunity to go to high school. Geography was the most difficult subject for me when in grammar school. Mothers' Aid Celebrates 25 Years' Service

In Saving Lives of City's Children.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

The Mothers' Aid celebrated its silver jubilee yesterday with a big, brilliant afternoon party in the Bal Tabarin at the Hotel Sherman, and it had abundant cause for jubilation.

Twenty-five years ago the Mothers' Aid was eight women, some needles and thread, and a sense of duty.

Today it is seventeen hundred women who build $300,000 hospital pavilions with so little fuss and publicity in the way of drives and drum beating that to the sufferers it serves and not to the general public is it best known. Philanthropic organizations of which that can be said are not so numerous as to be commonplace.

The Mothers' Aid works with its hands as well as with its dollars. It employs no press agent. It does not pester newspapers for puffs. It specializes on the needs of the Chicago Lying-In hospital, and Dr. Joseph B. De Lee, founder of that hospital, said in his message to the jubilee meeting that there ought to be Mothers' Aids in every city in the land.

The slogan of this organization is "Better, obstetrics." It not only preaches better care for women in childbirth. It also provides it. When, seventeen years ago, the Chicago Lying-In hospital needed a septic pavilion, this society of Jewish women provided it at a cost of $85,000. When the new Lying-In hospital, now in course of construction on the University of Chicago campus, was projected, Mothers' Aid was told that $300,000 would be required for a septic pavilion in connection with it. The Aid provided the money so promptly that its pavilion will be practically finished next April—nearly a year before the rest of the hospital will be ready for dedication.

If the hospital wants anything so routine as a washing machine, Mothers' Aid provides it. If the hospital wants anything so costly as quartz lights for sunlight treatments, Mothers Aid sees what can be done and then does it.

But all its lavish giving is not a finer and in some ways not so significant a thing as its tireless personal service. The women make with their own hands half a million surgical bandages a year of a value of $12,000. They make more than two thousand articles a year ranging from baby linen to hot water bag covers. They publish a health magazine that is full of good counsel for mothers. They originated and they publish "The Mothers' Aid Baby Book," which is not merely richly bound pages for ecstatic record of baby's first tooth, but a book of guidance for mothers from the pens of such eminent medical authorities as Doctors De Lee, Isaac A. Abt, and Morris Fishbein. The book circulates all over this country.

The mothers of the Aid have brought up their daughters to share in the work, and now there is a junior Mothers' Aid which numbers four hundred members.

All this service and these achievements were reviewed and acclaimed at the jubilee. Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, tireless toiler in the cause of the new Lying-In hospital, brought the Aid greetings from the institution and epitomized the deeper significance of the anniversary and of the years gone by, when she said, "The personal service you give is more important than the money you give." Lifting high a superb silver vase, she closed with the words, "And now something from me personally to you." And immediately the Aiders had a vision of how many weary, suffering women in the hospital that vase, daily filled with flowers, would cheer.

The jubilee gift to the Aid by the board of directors of the hospital was a silver coffee urn.

At the high table in the Bal Tabarin there sat with Mrs. Mortimer H. Singer, president of the Aid, six members of the Ruth Sewing circle, from which the great organization grew. They were Mrs. E. Reinhold, Mrs. Max Sickle, Mrs. S. Yatter, Mrs. Hugo Hartman, Mrs. Benjamin J. Auerbach, and Mrs. Charles King Corsant.

In her jubilee address Mrs. Singer said something highly characteristic of the Aid's ideals and work—perhaps without knowing how deftly she put it. "The Aid's growth," she said, "is not so surprising because, after all, its work has been the kind of work that everybody loves."

In his message Dr. De Lee was not so much inclined to take the society's devoted quarter of a century as a matter of course, for he said, "There is no organization in the entire world of exactly the same kind and what it has done and given and built has saved the lives of thousands of mothers and babies."

Provident Hospital Fund Gets $59,000 More; Drive Opens

The formal campaign to complete the $3,000,000 fund for the new Provident hospital and training school, a medical center for Negroes, was opened yesterday. At a luncheon at the La Salle hotel attended by business leaders and campaign workers, report was made of an addition of $59,000 to the fund, which is now more than two-thirds raised. Of the $59,000, Negroes raised $54,000. The additional $5,000 was contributed in a telegram from Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick.

The total raised for the hospital now stands at $2,222,000. It is estimated that the entire fund will be complete within a short time. One of the Negro gifts announced at the meeting was $10,000 from the woman's auxiliary of the hospital.

Other large contributions from the race which the hospital is intended to serve have been $5,000 from Jesse Binga, banker, and $5,500 from the Negro nurses. Members of the $100,000 club, a Negro group working to support the campaign, gave $16,000.

WIDER SHOULDERS, NARROW WAISTS, EDICT FOR WOMEN

PARIS, Jan. 22.—(AP)—With lengthened hemlines firmly established, at least so far as Paris is concerned, couturiers are concentrating on tightening milady's waist a bit for spring styles and broadening her shoulder line.

The shrinkage in waistlines, accentuated by the tendency to widen shoulders with various cape and puff sleeve effects, is bringing corset makers once more into the fashion spotlight.

Apparently American club women's wails against longer skirts have fallen on deaf ears in the Rue de la Paix, for the edict of unchanged skirt length has penetrated wherever buyers foregather. Three or four inches below the knee for sports, fourteen inches from the ground for street wear, and barely clearing the floor for evening, with an occasional train, that's the edict.

Important Parisian dressmakers will announce their openings next week.

THEATER

SATURDAY NIGHT will be marked by, among other things, the final Chicago performance of "The Queen Was in the Parlor." A note from Miss Pauline Frederick's press-agent says that the star is to go back to California, where she will busy herself with a sound-film of the piece called "Courage." . . . Anyway, the Garrick will be shuttered for a fortnight: Harry Lauder is booked to appear there February 10.

Miss Jane Cowl, performing in "Jenny," is bulletined for February 17 in Chicago; but the theater wherein she will appear is not mentioned. . . . The Harris is loosely indicated; but I hate to think that Chicago would so soon permit the good fun called "Bird in Hand" to be taken away.

Both Miss Judith Anderson and Tom Powers are out of the Blackstone cast of "Strange Interlude." Miss Anderson, it is explained, is merely having a rest, and is to return week after next. Her rôle of Nina is in the keeping of Miss Gale Sondergaard, who had it as an understudy in the long New-York run of O'Neill's play. But Mr. Powers is gone: the Theater Guild has sent for him to take part in the impending production in New-York of Shaw's "The Apple-Cart." Mr. Powers' rôle of Chatty Charley has been taken over by Ralph Morgan.

That "The Apple-Cart" is a popular success in London is told to me by a number of persons recently come to Chicago from the British metropolis. Philip Möller will stage it for the Guild.

And Mr. Möller's own play, "Wretched Women," is again to be placed in rehearsal: it was taken out because, it was said, the cast was not right.

Miss Gladys Hanson, who was here last season in "The Queen's Husband," has taken over the principal feminine rôle of "Dear Old England," to be made known February 17 in the Princess as the final play in the Dramatic League's first subscription season. Edward Rigby,—who, also was here in "The Queen's Husband," wherein he acted as the butler who played chess with the King,—is in the principal masculine rôle of the new comedy.

Mr. Leiber, in taking on King Lear, takes on the mightiest of the set tasks in English drama. It is a cliché that no actor has ever been able adequately to portray Lear; and I have never believed that to be true. The rôle calls for brains in the actor—brains plus a vast temperamental resourcefulness: the physical exactions of the rôle are less than are those of Macbeth or of Othello. Such "tradition" as the rôle possesses for American playgoers of the present generation derives from the late Robert Mantell, who took up the part in 1905, and made of it one of his most effective conveyances. Mr. Leiber plays some aspects of Lear well: there are so many aspects to the character that it is difficult to think of any seasoned actor who might not register some of them. . . . But "King Lear" is not a piece to be tossed on in the unrolling of a weekly-change répertoire by a cast assembled for its general utility rather than for the especial requirements of any one of ten plays. The tragedy abounds in "good parts"—but "good parts" that are not actor-proof. Kent, Edmund, Edgar, the Fool, Goneril, and Regan ask for acting, and must have it if the tragedy is to be realized as Shakspere designed it. Cordelia, too, is something more than a mere "personality-rôle" for the average ingénue. . . . However, here is "King Lear," a great play, packed with the best of Shakspere; and opportunities to see it are all too few.

Bishop of Birmingham Calls 'Fundamental' Churchman Absurd

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Dr. Ernest William Barnes, bishop of Birmingham, tonight before the Modern Churchman's union, declared:

"It is generally agreed that God created man from apelike stock, and our apelike ancestors, in turn, were derived from lower forms of life. The story of Adam and Eve is incompatible with modern knowledge. Fundamentalism is an absurdity.

"We must combat the errors of Roman Catholicism. Modernists knows papal infallibility cannot possibly be true. The Roman Catholic doctrine of trans-substantiation we repudiate as forcibly as did our Elizabethan forefathers. The idea belongs to magic. There is no reason to fear that the next generation will be indifferent to religion because skepticism is on the increase. Modernism can prevent religious indifference."

Wistful Opera Wins for Vivid Mary Garden

"Pelleas et Melisande" Slowly Works Spell.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Every time this work comes out for another performance, as it does every two or three years, one begins to wonder all over again if there will ever be another like it. Up to the present it does not seem likely. Misty vagueness of theme seems not to be a practicable idea for most dramatists, and so far Debussy is the only composer able to use misty music and make it work as a stage piece. Possibly when that which is valid in Maeterlinck and Debussy becomes common knowledge and the inessentials have disappeared there will be some more like it, but that time is not yet.

But if it never has a successor, "Pelléas et Mélisande" alone has reached the heights. One must admit that measuring it by ordinary standards gets simply nowhere, that a vivid epsode suddenly comes up without preparation and fades away without explanation, that the song on the stage is not much closer to conventional song than is ordinary rhythmic speech, that the orchestra keeps up a continous comment in vague, dull colored dissonances.

Yet sooner or later the piece begins to work its spell. It is wistfulness made semi-articulate. Sooner or later you discover that you do not care whether the story and music are definite or not. A mood is being created, and that mood creeps over the footlights and into the house. And with everything repressed, restrained on all sides, the words of the drama speak out plainly through the haze of the music.

For a time it was thought that people had learned how to listen to "Pelléas et Melisande." For a time there was no applause between scenes and the orchestra was allowed to play its part in a silence broken only by a spoken inquiry as to what it was all about, or an opinion that some folks ought to learn to come to the opera on time. But this state of affairs did not last quite until the end of the performance.

But if the mood of the piece tended generally toward quiet appreciation, the performance of Miss Garden and her associates was something to be remembered with deep joy. I believe that this was one of the best balanced that can be found in the whole history of Chicago's opera. It should really be reviewed by a painter, because words are by no means sufficient to reproduce the startling grace of Miss Garden's postures as she took them in arrested flight. Nor can they tell more than an indication of Mr. Vanni-Marcoux's magnificent drama—there were times when ors actually felt that the piece ought to be renamed "Golaud"—nor the stately dignity that was Mr. Cotreuil's, nor the ecstatic youthfulness with which Mr. Mojica as Pelléas stood below Mélisande's window and poured out his heart. Those who were at the Civic Opera house last night saw a long succession of lovely pictures; they heard music that some of them would like to recall to memory, even though memory fails in the attempt.

And Mr. Polacco can credit himself with having conducted the finest performance, the most poetic and imaginative and persuasive, that has ever issued from the end of his baton in the several seasons of his service in Chicago. There are a number of reasons why the Chicago Opera company in its various corporate manifestations since 1910 should be honorably remembered. One of the most important is a performance like last night's of "Pelléas et Mélisande."

LABOR DEMANDS SAME AIR RIGHTS AS JAZZ TOOTER

Charges U. S. Stifles Serious Programs.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Radio, "the greatest cultural force of modern times," has been turned over to "a gang of saxophone tooters and cabaret warblers," the senate interstate commerce committee was told today by Hope Thompson, attorney for the Chicago Federation of Labor. He denounced the federal radio commission's refusal to give WCFL, the Chicago federation's broadcasting station, a cleared channel.

The commission's reason, as given by Thompson, was that WBBM, another Chicago station which applied for the same cleared channel, broadcasts "more popular programs" while a large part of WCFL'S programs are devoted to propaganda for organized labor.

"Isn't it better," he said, "to have a thousand people listening to a talk by a university professor than to have a million listening to 'Amos 'n' Andy?'"

"But," asked Senator Hamilton Kean [Rep., N. J.], "what's the use of broadcasting programs if they are not popular?"

"I suppose," retorted Thompson, "if there were only 90 printing presses in the country you would have all of them printing detective stories and sex novels. I am not asking jazz to get off the air. I am just asking it to move over and give a little room to something that interests intelligent people."

Elmer Happy Over Progress of Dance Tunes

Finds Pleasure in Newer Music Trend.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Loudspeakers were entertaining musically and instructive orally last evening.

One outstanding number was the Huckleberry Finn section of Ferdie Grofe's "Mississippi" suite, played by a studio orchestra during the New York orchestral and vocal program through W-G-N, 8:30 to 9:30. This program was of its usual high class and colorful character throughout.

The weekly talk by Floyd Gibbons, through W-G-N, 9:30 to 10, was given from the Chicago studios of the NBC chain, a new arrangement. Mr. Gibbons continued his description of the early days of the Yanks on French soil during the world war.

Dance programs figured prominently throughout the evening. I believe I have previously stated that dance programs have the quality of being easy to listen to, even if they are not danced to. And, as a matter of fact, dance music of today is not the thin, crazy stuff it was four or five years ago. The music itself is better, it is far more symphonically treated, and the dance orchestras of today have a greater number of players.

W-G-N's 11 o'clock Dream Ship orchestra concert was made up entirely of Tschaikowsky selections.

YARROW IS CITED FOR CONTEMPT IN BOOK CRUSADE

The Rev. Philip Yarrow, superintendent of the Illinois Vigilance association, was cited for contempt of court yesterday by Municipal Judge Herbert G. Immenhausen. The action was taken after Mr. Yarrow, in his campaign against alleged improper literature, issued a written statement declaring that "there's about as much chance of getting a square deal in Chicago Municipal courts as has a cake of ice in the mouth of Mount Pelee."

Judge Immenhausen continued action on the contempt charge until Feb. 4 upon request of Assistant State's Attorney Joseph Nagel, who insisted Mr. Yarrow should be given time to prepare a defense. But the court declined to grant a similar continuance in the case of John Youngman, clerk in a loop bookstore, charged by Mr. Yarrow with selling an indecent book, declaring that "even though Mr. Yarrow stands charged here with contempt, I will disregard that in any testimony he may give."

Then Assistant Prosecutor Nagel moved to nolle prosse the Youngman case, and the motion was granted.

Mr. Yarrow insisted he meant "nothing specific against your honor's court" in his statement, but Judge Immenhausen did not accept this defense.

Inspector J. E. A. Sullivan of Postal Service Dead

Boston, Mass., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—James E. A. Sullivan, known as "ace" of the United States postoffice inspectors' service, died today at Saranac Lake, N. Among his outstanding feats was work on the gigantic postal bond theft case at Chicago, and the Chicago black hand cases.

STEPHEN MATHER, EX-DIRECTOR OF U. S. PARKS, DIES

Stephen Tyng Mather of Chicago, former director of the national parks system, died yesterday at Brookline, Mass., at the age of 62. He had been in ill health for more than a year.

STEPHEN T. MATHER.

Born in San Francisco, Mr. Mather was graduated at the University of California in 1887. He then went to New York to engage in newspaper work. In 1894 he became Chicago manager of the Pacific Coast Borax company. At the time of his death he was president of the Sterling Box company, with offices at 111 West Monroe street.

In 1915 he was made assistant secretary of the interior, in charge of the national parks, and in 1917 he was appointed director of the newly created national parks service. He resigned in January, 1929, because of ill health.

Mr. Mather was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, the American Chemical society, the University club, the Flossmoor Country club, and the Chicago Athletic association. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jane T. Mather, and by a daughter, Miss Bertha Mather. The Mather home in Chicago is at 5638 Dorchester avenue. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

Mrs. Frances Sheridan, Wife of Attorney, Dies

Mrs. Frances Ager Sheridan, wife of Thomas F. Sheridan, Chicago patent attorney, died yesterday in a hospital at Meredith, N. H., following an emergency operation. Her husband, who has offices at 140 South Dearborn street, was preparing to leave for her bedside, when news of her death reached him. Mrs. Sheridan came to Chicago with her husband shortly after their marriage in 1885, but for several years had been living at the Sheridan estate at Center Harbor, N. H. She became ill on Saturday. Mr. Sheridan and their son, Thomas H. Sheridan, left yesterday for New Hampshire. Funeral services will be held in the east.

REID SENTENCED TO JOLIET AGAIN; FEARS CONVICTS

Arthur Reid, 43 years old, who was paroled from Joliet penitentiary in 1927 after he had informed the warden of a convict plot to dynamite the institution to permit a general escape, was sentenced to Joliet again yesterday by Circuit Judge Claire C. Edwards in Waukegan. His term was fixed from one year to life. Reid was convicted on a burglary charge.

"This is a death sentence, your Honor," exclaimed Reid in a hysterical manner. "I will be killed by the prisoners for giving out their plans to escape. For God's sake, send me to some other prison."

Judge Edwards informed Reid that he could do nothing else. The prisoner was promised, however, by Judge Edwards and State's Attorney Smith that they would advise Maj. Hill, warden at Joliet, to keep him separated from his former comrades.

Reid was captured in November while robbing box cars at Lake Villa. He will be taken to prison next Monday.

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR GIRL; MOTHER IS NEAR COLLAPSE

Police last night continued their search for a trace of Barbara Le Ban, 14 years old, freshman at the Englewood High school, who disappeared early Monday while on her way to school from her home at 3436 Wallace street. Barbara's mother, Mrs. Mary Le Ban, as the search wore along became almost prostrated with grief and anxiety.

During the day the mother sought an interview with her estranged husband and the father of Barbara, Adam Le Ban, a loop barber. Le Ban, the mother said, is also unable to account for the child's disappearance and is aiding in the search. One theory advanced to police by Mrs. Le Ban was that Barbara may have been kidnaped as an act of vengeance by friends of a bandit whom Le Ban is said to have shot to death during a holdup of Le Ban's poolhall at 37th street and Emerald avenue in 1926.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

Friends Recall Quiet Evanston Life of Dawes

BY THALIA

Those Chicagoans, acquainted with the inclinations of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Dawes toward the quiet life, are wondering whether they do not think with longing of the pleasantly calm days at their Evanston residence, before their precipitation into national and international affairs.

Mrs. Dawes, as the wife of the American ambassador, is one of the most important of the official hostesses. She will figure prominently in the state social functions. All the wives of the American delegates to the naval conference are to attend Mrs. Dawes' at home this afternoon, and she already has given an informal luncheon for her compatriots.

Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, wife of the secretary of state, and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams have given luncheons in their London hotel suites for the women attached to the American delegation. Mrs. Dawes is to give a formal reception soon.

The American Women's club recently gave a large and brilliant reception for Mr. and Mrs. Dawes. The club's domicile is an impressive one, and according to our London correspondent, one in which the American colony can be proud to entertain. Mrs. Curtis Brown received with the ambassador and Mrs. Dawes at the top of the grand staircase, and the guest list was long and imposing. In respect for the ambassador's love for music, there was a program of classical and modern music played by the London Chamber orchestra.

The London writer mentions also having seen Mrs. Hanbury Williams [Princess Ida Cantacuzene] garbed in black broadtail at the wedding of Baroness Margareta Palmstierna, daughter of the Swedish minister, to M. François de Seynes de Lariengue. The Hanbury-Williams twins are reported to be doing famously, and their grandmother, Princess Cantacuzene, has fled London's unpleasant winter weather.

The English-Speaking union will give a luncheon for Mrs. Mary Agnes Hamilton today at 12:15 o'clock at the Blackstone hotel. Mrs. Hamilton, who is a representative of the Labor party in the British parliament, will speak on "A British Election."

If the fair sex is as interested in looking glasses as they are supposed to be, there will be quite a crush at the next affair to be sponsored by the Antiquarian society. They are to open an exhibition of mirrors with a tea on Friday afternoon, Jan. 31, in the arts wing of the Antiquarian room of the Art institute. The collection will include English, French and Portuguese mirrors of all sizes and kinds, some of them exceptionally rare. The directors of the society are to preside at the tea tables and receive.

There will be many a purchaser for first edition copies of Mrs. David Adler's new novel, "The Crystal Icicle," promised by her publisher to put in its appearance in the book stores today. The book has been in the process of creation for the last two years, and is, we understand, laid in and about Chicago, with smart town and country folk as the characters.

Both Mrs. Adler's maiden name, Katherine Keith, and her married title, appear under the book's title. The Cordon is having the authoress and Alice Mock of the opera company as special guests at their tea tomorrow afternoon after the concert.

The Chicago Junior league, it seems, covered itself with glory at the regional conference held in Milwaukee last week. It won more first prizes than anybody else and received an etching by Kasimir, called "Durnstein in Fog." Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III. won a first prize for her stage model of the Silver Thread scene in "The Princess and the Goblins," now playing; Mrs. Earl McCarthy's needlework on a child's dress took a first; and also Mrs. Ethelwyn P. Mayo's oil painting.

Honorable mention was given Mrs. Page Thibodeaux for a charcoal drawing; Mrs. Philip B. Maher for the scenery and costume designs for the "Patchwork Girl of Oz," and to Mrs. J. B. Mullen for an oil painting.

Mrs. C. Louis Meyer of Omaha, a friend of Helen Bournique, was elected regional director. The main discussion of the conference was concerning the admittance of Mexico City into the Association of Junior Leagues of America.

The Ladies of the Consuls of Chicago are to give their annual dinner-dance at the Belden-Stratford hotel on Saturday evening, Feb. 8. Mrs. John Venneman, wife of the consul general of the Netherlands, is in charge. Mrs. Cyrille Vermeren, wife of the Belgian consul, is general chairman, and Mrs. Folkert Posthuma, chairman of publicity.

Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy Quincy Anderson of 1707 North Linder avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Irene Sybil, to John Joseph Puente of 5415 Magnolia avenue. Miss Anderson is a member of Omega chapter of Phi Delta Gamma sorority.

Hallberg's Paintings, One of Sea Battle, Are on Exhibition

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Charles E. Hallberg is a Swedish-American painter whose marines have received appreciation from critics and public alike for a great number of years. Several of them have been reproduced in the TRIBUNE'S Sunday color page. He is one of Chicago's oldest artists, having lived almost to the full his three score years and ten.

Just now there is an exhibition of his pictures at the Ardmore hotel. There you will find his magnificent sea battle, Yankee fighting ships at sea; and the sea itself, sometimes in calm and sometimes in storm, sometimes shielded by a soft blue sky, sometimes threatened by the gray menace of oncoming wind and rain.

Carl Milles is without a doubt one of the foremost contemporary sculptors. He has given Mr. Hallberg such a tribute as does not often cheer a painter on his way. Milles, as you know, is the creator of the superb fountain which several patriotic Chicagoans purchased last year for erection in Chicago. He is the sculptor whose work was so greatly appreciated in a recent Arts club exhibit and before that at a small exhibition in the Chester Johnson galleries. He is one of the dominating figures of the century. Therefore his appreciation of Charles Hallberg is important. He writes:

"As a brother in the craft, I beg to send you my hearty greeting. During my stay in Chicago, I have several times encountered your art and have learned to admire it. I received a proof of your seriousness when we met at the club, whose guests we both were, and you showed me your two paintings there, but wished that I should only examine one of them, namely, the latest, and I must concede that the distance between the two was great.

"This attitude on your part shows the serious-minded, progressive artist soul for which there is no resting, but eternally, day and night, a constant turning over of new problems, ultimately reaching the end of life with brush and colors in hand. But you are still a boy! Titian was still painting at the age of ninety-nine; Puvis de Chavannes at eighty; and both gave proof at those ages that their way was still toward the heights. May God be gracious toward you and send the light of inspiration to your eyes many times more. I wish you no peace, as peace is the end of the artist, but I do wish you a quieter battle for existence . . . and thank you for your work as an artist."

A vocational lecture by Miss Frances Harrington, head of the interior decorating department of the National Academy of Art, 230 East Ohio street, will be given next Saturday morning at 10:30 a. m. in Studio 3 of the academy. Miss Harrington spent the summer in Europe. An exhibition of designs by the members of her class are on view in the gallery.

Nurse Says Chicago Lags in Treating Victims of Cancer

When is Chicago going to fall in step with other cities in establishing cancer hospitals, clinics and institutes? That was the question asked yesterday by Miss Edna L. Foley, superintendent of the Visiting Nurse association, at the latter's fortieth annual meeting in the Blackstone hotel.

"We cannot excuse ourselves by quoting experts to the effect that nobody knows the cause of cancer," Miss Foley declared, "and that early diagnosis does not help all cases, that some patients will die in spite of the best of care. We are not offering our people—doctors, nurses or patients—half a chance to help each other until we put at their disposal institutions where early cases may be diagnosed and treated and opportunity given for learning how to care for such patients."

Miss Foley based her plea for immediate help in the cancer problem upon 1929's telltale statistics. An association (Visiting Nurse) that has made nearly 10,000 home nursing calls to over 450 patients suffering from cancer hopes devoutly, she declared, that something will be done.

Miss Margaret B. Conover, president, reported that many who had never before needed charitable aid had in 1929 turned to the Visiting Nurse association for help. She reported that the association's endowment was increased $97,254 during 1929, bringing the total to $1,774,454. The amount needed for the support of the work was $361,221. That provided for 322,910 visits to 44,714 patients, including 36,024 visits to 2,130 crippled children.

Besides Miss Conover officers of the association include Mrs. Bruce Borland and Mrs. Earl H. Reynolds, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. Uri B. Grannis, recording secretary; Miss Naomi Donnelley, corresponding secretary; Mrs. George E. Throop, treasurer; Mrs. John H. Blair, assistant treasurer.

New State Board Seeks Plans for the Lincoln Memorial

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22.—Logan Hay, local attorney, was elected yesterday as chairman of the Lincoln memorial commission, recently appointed by Gov. Emmerson. Paul Angel, also of Springfield, executive secretary of the Lincoln Centennial association, will be named secretary of the commission.

Mr. Hay announced that a committee of seven was selected to receive plans from each commissioner and also from the public.

"No plan, however, should exceed 500 words in length," Mr. Hay said.

The proposals will be studied at the commission's next meeting in Springfield on April 15. When it adopts a plan a report will be made for the guidance of the legislature. All but three of the twenty-one commissioners were present today and they were addressed briefly by Gov. Emmerson. Miss Florence Lowden of Oregon, daughter of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, is one of the commissioners.

"Wives---keep the TROUSSEAU HABIT!"

ELINOR GLYN
CHICAGO

HOW to hold a husband's love—keep romance in marriage—that is the problem put up to me constantly by innumerable wives.

Can it be done? Fortunately the answer is yes. How? By being always feminine—charmingly, colorfully, daintily feminine.

But first of all you yourself must feel your own daintiness, womanliness, before you can impress others.

Wonderful colors, soft, shimmering materials, lace-edged underthings! They just make a woman believe in herself—feel her inherent charm as a woman.

If a woman but keeps all this loveliness at its very best—as beautiful as when it came, new, from its tissued box, she is captain of her fate—irresistible.

Because she believes in herself she makes others believe in her. Confidence is contagious.

Keep Colors Charming

But, women tell me, it is so difficult to wear lovely underthings always and keep them looking as wonderful, as colorful, as when they were new. Frequent washing (and we must be dainty) takes some of the lovely color and charm out of the garment.

To this I reply, that is too often the case, but it need never be so if women faithfully use that invaluable product, Lux—which is made especially to cleanse without disturbing the vibrant loveliness of the colors. If a garment is safe in clear water alone, it is just as safe in Lux.

Some wives keep romance in marriage forever—isn't one secret the trousseau habit?

Your Home Reflects You

Not only should you express your femininity through the effect dainty underthings have on you—as well as directly through the magnetism of color in your frocks and accessories (gloves, scarfs, handkerchiefs) but by your very surroundings. Even the curtains, draperies, slip covers in your living room form part of the magic spell that reflects you. And here, too, Lux is invaluable.

If it's safe in water, . . . it's safe in LUX

Hoover Works to Better Conditions for Our Children

"Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans"

A "Sex Education Booklet," by Mrs. Bevans, will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

We talk, these days, about being "air-minded."

It is one of President Hoover's aims to make American parents health-minded before he has finished. If ever we had a President who was "for children," we assuredly have one now.

That our whole country realizes this is shown in the following incident. When it became certain that Hoover had been elected to the presidency, and before he took office, he began to receive hundreds of letters from all over the United States asking him to lend his keen mind and the support of his office to the matter of child health, each letter advocating a different measure or reform.

Many of these letters President Hoover read himself, but he had all of them gone over in detail and classified and answered immediately, signing each reply himself.

The result of the light these letters cast on the subject of child health was a survey by a small group of experts in Washington. Later, throughout the country other experts looked into local problems. All this work and machinery has led up to plans for the most extensive and intensive study of child betterment that has ever been made.

Hoover is called a lover of children. His is not the sentimental kind of love for them, but the kind that does something about it—something that will mean greater health and happiness for the children, themselves, and enlightment for their parents.

For those who are interested in a bird's-eye view of the great—and soon to be world-famous—survey, an outline will be given tomorrow.

Fresh, Clean Brush Greatly Promotes Healthy Teeth

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Do you know how to look after your toothbrush, or more properly speaking, your toothbrushes? No respectable toothbrush holder nowadays but boasts two brushes for every mouth.

It's an economical trend—not at all an attempt to increase the sale of toothbrushes nor to subscribe to a weakness for buying things in pairs. It's just one of the things that is being done in polite toothbrush circles. One in use—while the other idles, dries, and gets itself sterilized!

Washing the toothbrush thoroughly after using it is another little practice to be observed with fanatical zeal, for there's no use expecting a clean mouth unless you attack it each time with an immaculately clean brush. Salt, being one of the articles no household is without, furnishes an excellent tooth-brush sterilizer right at hand. After the brush is thoroughly well cleaned, sprinkle ordinary table salt on it and set it away to dry. The salt not only sterilizes but keeps the bristles stiff.

The size of the brush you use is important, too. Some brushes fit the front teeth quite well, but there is difficulty in reaching around the back teeth with them. A smaller size would be a better investment.

After the brushing comes the matter of mouth washes—and do you know that your salt will make a good mouth wash, too? In fact, salt has a good reputation in dental circles, some dentists advising the brushing of teeth and gums once a week with it. You may use it on the brush, and scrub just the way you use a paste or powder.

I believe that army men and men in other occupations when marooned from the ordinary advantages of teeth care are advised to rely on salt as a protective feature. It helps harden the gums.

On gum firmness the health of the teeth depends as well as on brushing and cleaning them properly. And now dental authorities are saying that mouth hygiene is not attended to unless the gums are brushed daily, along with the teeth.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

MARGARET K.: IT IS NOT claimed for depilatories that they give permanent relief from superfluous hair. They are merely a measure of relief and their use must be repeated from time to time. The hair on the chin may be bleached with peroxide.

J. O'C.: THE STRAY HAIRS growing down on the lids and those that come between the eyebrows, over the nose, may be tweezed. There is no danger in this method of removal if care is used.

Batteries for a Radio.

"I am writing for an ex-service man who is an invalid and a shut-in. He has a three tube radio set and the B batteries have burned out so that now he cannot use the set. Is there some one who will give him batteries, 245 volt, or an eliminator? MRS. N."

If you've recently invested in a new radio set of the electric type you will have no need for the batteries so necessary to your old set. May this veteran have them?

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

The season is at hand for colds or catarrh and roup in poultry. To avoid these do not overcrowd birds in the houses and secure adequate ventilation without drafts, suggests Dr. Charles Murray, veterinarian at Iowa State college.

The common cold or catarrh in poultry is not a serious disease in itself, Dr. Murray says. If it is allowed to run its course, however, it may develop into a more serious form known as roup. In addition to avoiding drafts and overcrowding, Dr. Murray advises good nutrition. Birds properly fed are far less susceptible to those troubles.

If colds break out in the flock, the sick birds should be isolated at once, put in warm, ventilated quarters and there they should be fed a diet containing warm, wet mash. If this is done the disease usually can be checked.

The drinking water of the flock at this season may be a source of spreading the disease and it is a good practice to treat it with potassium permanganate or sulpho-carbolate tablets. The tablets, with directions, may be obtained from the veterinarian or the druggist.

Watery discharge from the eyes or nostrils or from both are a warning to the poultryman that respiratory troubles are developing in the flock. If roup develops the discharge becomes thick and offensive in odor. The material often forms a cheesy mass in the eye cavity around the eyeball. Birds so affected may be helped by removal of the exudate and the use of a few drops of 10 per cent argyrol. However, if the case is severe the bird will not recover and should be killed to prevent spreading the disease to other members of the flock.

A day that might have meant so much—and she has to be excused. What a pity there's a woman left who does not know of Midol! One or two tablets in time, and not a twinge of pain throughout the natural process. Or an end to such suffering at any time, five to seven minutes after Midol is taken. Yet this merciful medicine is non-narcotic. Its wonderful results are due to the fact it acts directly on the organs affected; so it's utterly harmless, and it is only common sense to use it. Midol comes in a clever little metal case that you can slip in the smallest purse. And the cost of this comfort is fifty cents.*

* Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

Gay Young Blade Likes 'Em Wild, but Marries Tame One

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"C. Terry" offers this what I prefer to call questionable light upon man and his pursuit of women and song:

"I think that decency in women is preferred when a man begins to get serious about settling down. Before that I don't believe the average fellow is looking for the decent girl. The average fellow who makes dates hopes the girl isn't too respectable. In fact, he likes them a little wild, or at least sociable."

If that's the case, it looks as if the girls had better get together and help the boys to an earlier settling down, don't you think? If the wild ones [or the sociable, as "C. Terry" determines them] keep on being wild, they only succeed in prolonging the day of settling.

But what a treatise that is on the girls men marry! Even from so profligate a youth as Terry, girls may learn about men. In fact, it is from the wise boys one does learn about the kind of women men forget on their wedding days.

Getting back to Terry, himself, however. Settling down days are on his mind, he discloses in a P. S. But where to find the right one? This is a confusion common to men who seek their companionship outside the decent realms. And in the light of a fine, healthy point of view on eligible matrimonial material held by our young modern women, Terry's glory may be sadly dimmed in the ranks to which he now aspires.

We heard, the other day, of a girl, 22, turning down a boy because his reputation did not seem to justify the marriage chance. He had money. He had family. He had looks, but the girl said: "I want a healthy, decent, respectable parent for my children. He has played around too much with women."

So, this preference for decency when one gets serious about settling down is no longer a one-sex-sided one. It is not any more wholesome a temptation for a girl to marry a man whose affiliations with girls have been of questionable character than it is for a man to be tempted by over handled or damaged goods of female suasion.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This frock, made of red flat silk crêpe, is typically Spanish with its scarf thrown around the neck and falling over the left shoulder. The scarf is part of a side panel arrangement of the bodice and combines with the flaring, loose panel of the skirt to carry out the vertical line—so important for a slender appearance. The circular flaring skirt is stitched to a yoke that tapers towards the left hip, where it is finished with a decorative buckle.

The pattern, 3198, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Looks Unimportant.

"Dear Miss Blake: A nice but homely boy calls me up for dates. The girls would make fun of me if I went with him, because he is so homely. I don't want to hurt his feelings. Please advise. PERPLEXED."

He may prove a more desirable companion than some of your better looking friends.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Cold Bean Porridge.

We have never mentioned Mrs. Lincoln's pound cake, and we do it once a year, without getting a good many returns of one sort or another. Now they want to know how they can secure "Mrs. Lincoln's Boston Cook Book." This book, finished in 1884 and revised in 1900, is out of print, but it can be more or less readily picked up in second hand book stores that have collections of cook books.

Mrs. Lincoln's recipes often have interesting and attractive additions, showing us something of old American customs. The methods she uses are not always what we could indorse today, as for instance the one that she uses in making a bean porridge of five pounds of corned beef not too salt, or four pounds of beef and one of salt pork, one pint of dried white beans, four tablespoons of corn meal, pepper and salt to taste, one pint of hulled corn.

This, when hot, was served with brown bread. The meat and beans were cooked separately, the meat finely cut in pieces and put into its liquor and then the cooked beans added to this with the corn meal and cooked until this was done. The meat was cooked until it would fall apart and the hulled corn was added the last thing. And then this:

"This old fashioned and very nutritious dish was one of the chief articles of winter food at my grandmother's farm in northern New Hampshire eighty years ago. When cooked, it was poured into bowls or basins holding from a pint to two quarts. A nice tow string was laid in a loop over the edge, and the porridge was placed where it would freeze. By holding the dish in hot water it would cause the porridge to slip out, then it was hung by the loops in the 'buttery' and was considered 'best when nine days old.' At early dawn the 'men folks' who went into the forest 'chopping' would take the skillet, or a little three legged iron kettle, some large slices of 'rye and Indian' bread in their pockets to keep it from freezing. The porridge was hung, wrapped in a clean towel, upon the sled stakes. Their spoons were made of wood. The hay that lay on the floor of the ox sled was of use to keep their feet warm and given to the oxen for 'bait' at noon. When it was 12 o'clock 'by the sun' they kindled a fire by the aid of a 'tinder box,' warmed their porridge and with their brown bread enjoyed this strong food as no modern epicure can his costly French dishes."

Evening Frocks for Older Women

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris is taking special interest in the beauty that is peculiar to older women this winter, and some of the best sartorial efforts of the great dressmakers here go into the making and adapting of the new mode to these ladies. The great Chanel has an expert in her house whose sole business is adapting fashions to those women who, though no longer young, deserve a place in the sun of chic.

Styles were never more attractive for the mature, but at the same time, in their original state, they take a lot of wearing. The graciousness of the long, long line is at its most attractive when worn by older women. However, with the waistline under the armpits and princess fitting, it's another story. A figureless adolescent and an ample curved matron are both in hard luck if they try to wear such lines as is. Something has to be done to such clothes to make 'em bearable and wearable, and this something is what great Paris couturiers are doing.

Filmy wings of chiffon sprouting from the shoulders of French evening gowns, and falling below the hipline in back, cascading drapery beautiful as a waterfall, sleeveless jackets, and transparent capes and berthas are all smart devices that make the high waistline and fitted dress body not only passable but charming for the older figure.

Mme. Jenny is one of the few Paris couturiers to present in her mid-season collection a perfect evening gown for women no longer young. It requires no adaptation, and for this reason I have chosen it for our sketch.

This dress is made of white chiffon and trimmed with black alençon lace. This is the smartest color combination in Paris, and the one that women (not girls) endow with the supreme charm it merits. The high waistline and fitted skirt yoke of this frock are made heritors of grace by the cascading lace edged ruffle that falls from the original decolletage in back, just to the floor. Placed at the right side, this drapery is visible both in front and back. The skirt is flared by a wide, circular ruffle and reaches to the ankles in front, trailing in back.

Congregationalists Add $600,000 to Mission Fund

An advance in Congregational missions for 1930, expressed in plans as an increase of $600,000 in the previous $3,000,000 budget devoted to mission work, was decided on yesterday.

Force of Habit.

One morning I was deep in a book when some one behind me sang out, "Adams!" That being my station, I leaped up and scurried for the door, making it just in time. As the car moved slowly past me a young fellow from my office put his head out of the window and laughed.

"Happy daze," he called, and to my chagrin I realized that he had fooled me into getting off two stations before my destination.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

I gave the waitress an order for eggs for my little son's lunch.

"How will you have them cooked," she asked him.

"Cook 'em with a lot of bacon, please," replied son. D. A. K.

Auntie said, "Won't it be nice when baby brother talks?"

Little Joyce replied, rather jealously: "What does he want to talk for? He gets everything he wants by just yelling." R. H. H.

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion, as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.

LIKE TWO PENS for the Price of One

—a Pocket Pen on Going Out, and a Desk Pen on Arriving—

GUARANTEED FOR LIFE

If you buy a Parker Pocket Duofold you now can have a Desk Set without buying a second pen. Or if you buy a Parker Duofold Desk Set you also now receive a Duofold Pocket Pen guaranteed for life. Either way, you save the price of a second pen—$5, $7 or $10, according to the model.

This epoch-making development is another achievement of Geo. S. Parker, who has introduced more important writing improvements than any other maker.

By adding a tapered end, you convert your Duofold Pocket Pen to a Desk Pen in 10 seconds. By removing the taper and putting on the Pocket Cap you restore it to a Pocket Duofold on leaving office or home.

Thus every owner of a Parker Pocket Pen owns half a Desk Set. Getting a Desk Base completes it. We now include pen taper free with that.

And to every buyer of a Parker Desk Set, we now give a Pocket Cap with Clip. Thus his Desk Pen is also a Pocket Pen—like 2 Pens for the price of one Set. So be sure to ask for the Pocket Cap with your Desk Set.

Parker's new streamlined Duofold Pens (and Pencils to match) set lower in the pocket than others because the clip starts at the top—not halfway down the cap. This smart balanced shape feels "at home" in the hand, and the heavy, hand-ground point writes with our famous 47th improvement—Pressureless Touch.

Go see this revolutionary Convertible Duofold at any nearby pen counter. And look on the barrel for the imprint, "Geo. S. Parker—DUOFOLD," that guarantees it for your life. If you mail us the name of the store that showed it, we'll send you De Witt B. Lucas' booklet—"Reading Character from Handwriting." It is sold by the author for 50c—but sent to you free by us.

HORTON SMITH, ESPINOSA TIE FOR GOLF LEAD

Turn in 224s; Gale Sweeps Course.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico Jan. 22.—(AP)—Like a staunch ship weathering a storm, Horton Smith, young Joplin, Mo., professional, rode a gale today into a dual leadership of the Agua Caliente $25,000 open golf tournament. The close of the third round found this consistent money winner in tournament golf sharing honors with Al Espinosa, Chicago veteran, with cards aggregating 224 for the 54 holes. Eighteen holes will be played tomorrow.

Mariners in quest of gold in early days prayed for such a gale as blew here today, but golfers in search of the greatest purse of money ever offered to them—$10,000 to the winner—did not relish it. It blew away all hopes of par golf. Five over par was the best card today, this honor being shared by Al Espinosa and Johnny Dawson of Chicago, one of the high ranking amateurs.

Farrell Alone with 226.

Places in the second bracket, with cards aggregating 225 for the 54 holes, were shared by Al Watrous, Detroit; Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, Cal., and Charles Guest, Los Angeles. Johnny Farrell of St. Augustine, Fla., with a 77, was alone in the 226 division.

The Dutra brothers, who threatened yesterday with the low cards of 72 each, placing Olin Dutra in the lead and Mortie not far behind, today were blown back to cards of 79 each.

The fifty-two professionals and six amateurs look forward to the final spurt tomorrow with zeal. The twenty-two prizes aggregating $25,000 remain anybody's money, and the tide of the tournament in the last three days would make it a sheer gamble to undertake selection of the winner.

Espinosa in Remarkable Round.

Par—Out	445	444	453—35
Par—In	435	443	454—36—71
Espinosa—Out	444	444	463—38
Espinosa—In	445	444	445—38—76

Johnny Dawson's card was:

Out	443	454	464—38
In	444	444	455—38—76

Out	533	445	474—39
In	436	463	445—38—77

Smith's seven on the eighth, a par five 550 yard hole, would irritate even the calmest golfer. He sailed with the wind into trouble on the treacherous fairways and approached into traps for loss of two strokes.

Al Watrous had brilliant going with promise of the low card of the day until the eighteenth. Seven strokes on this par four hole deprived Watrous of the leadership at 54 holes. His card:

Out	543	555	453—39
In	434	344	457—38—77

Out	542	445	563—38
In	535	444	464—39—77

OPEN GOLF TOURNEY.

TWENTY-FIVE thousand dollars is a record sum to be offered in prize money for an open golf tourney. It probably is worth that amount in indirect publicity to Agua Caliente, where a new race track has been added to the hotel and casino equipment. Certainly such a sum cannot be recovered in admission fees to see the pros in action. The same is true of most other open tourneys held during the winter in California, Florida, and the south.

To The Wake, nothing is more dreary than following a title round of golf with a large gallery in attendance. It is hurry, hurry, for a position to watch the next shot, and usually the vantage point does not afford a good view. We're willing to stand at the first tee and watch them go off on their rounds. Does one learn anything? We've watched the best pros and the best amateurs for years and we still shoot 110—except when it's 115 or 120.

To the pros, these tourneys afford a winter vacation. To most of them that's all except an expense. There can be few prize winners. We venture the aggregate expenses of the troupe is greater than the aggregate prize money. For them, it's a sporting venture with a vengeance. For the winners, however, there is reputation aside from the prizes offered, and consequently greater earning power.

On the part of promoting organizations, winter tourneys are conducted with a view to their advertising value to the community. Golfers read the scores. So do we, but we'd rather play eighteen holes than tramp eighteen holes to see a pair in action.

She was just the age and size,
Had the proper mouth and eyes,
And her love for me she often expressed;
She enjoyed my company,
Sparkling wit and repartee,
BUT he owned a thousand acres in the west.

She swore that she'd be true,
Just as all the others do,
And said the things that lovers always say;
She vowed she loved me best,
That I far excelled the rest,
BUT she changed her mind and married him next day

GAMBLING FEVER WRECKS ANY BUT STOUT HEARTS

If Col. Bradley Quakes He Doesn't Show It.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 22.—Col. E. R. Bradley reclines on his four poster in his white clapboard manse in Palm Beach. It is a chaste, prim house, suggesting the rectory of the First Congregational church of Carver's Corners, Vt., and very conspicuous among the Florida stucco mansions of the resort country where the house builder works in a curious kind of mud, flavored with strawberry extract or lemon or peach, according to the fancy of the architect.

Addison Mizner, the architect and promoter, who designed and built much of the made to order quaintness of old Spain along that voluptuous coast, contends that Bradley's place is an offense against artistic propriety in the tropical setting of Palm Beach, but however that may be, there the house stands, demure and gleaming white among the surrounding architecture like a pearl in a batik necktie, and there, just now, Col. Bradley, a man of rising 70 years, is resting against the rigors of another season in his business, which is an old business and very picturesque by comparison with the other businesses in the drab community of commerce.

His Wagers Total Millions.

I read that he is suffering from high blood pressure, and this surprises me somewhat, because I never would have thought that his pulses could vary by as much as one beat in a year's time. On the day of the Belmont Futurity last fall, as the horses came down the stretch in one of the preliminary races, I turned away, saying: "I can't look at this finish. I have ten bucks on that horse down in front and my hat is jumping six inches at every heart beat."

"If it affects you that way, you shouldn't bet," said he whose wagerings against the cash surplus of the greatest fortunes in America in the course of his business season amounts to millions of dollars, not in paper profits nor stock certificates, but in familiar grocery store cash.

Still, I suspect that Mr. Bradley must take on inwardly when his money is riding in units of individual fortunes against the aristocracy's loose change in the season at Palm Beach. Tex Rickard, who was an erratic piker compared to Bradley, once said it was impossible to stifle innate human cupidity on either side of the table. That may be partly accountable for Col. Bradley's decision to take a rest at this time.

One Chap Lost $900,000.

If he has the regular appointment of human emotions, and he seems quite normal, if not more so on the sentimental side, his ribs must have withstood some terrific hammering up to now, containing his reactions in the business seasons of succeeding years.

I have a tale which would seem quite fabulous, if the other party to the transaction were not so revoltingly rich by marriage, of a man who lost $900,000 to the colonel in one season's trading and, for contrast, another story of a moving picture magnate who lost $90,000 in one evening, refused to pay off at the closing time, agreed to cut a card deck for the high spade, double or nothing, again lost and refused to pay the $180,000 but the market traders got him over a barrel in the recent disturbances in Wall street and paddled him good, which may have been retributive justice or just an insignificant incident in the debacle as the financial writers have been calling it.

The minor gamblers around the country have been jubilating over the picture magnate's misfortune, quite certain that this was a godsend, but, then, gambling men, for all their guile and inscrutability, are people of naïve superstitions and they look up to the old colonel with something of a country banker's awe of J. P. Morgan. That awe is mixed with a soft sensation akin to devotion, for his character is enshrouded in a mist of gentle

SPEAKING OF SPORT

BY DON MAXWELL.

Beg Your Pardon.

"Dear sir:

"In your 'Speaking of Sports' column you make a crack about an office boy refraining from smoking to help his wind. This reference to the smoking is correct but what I don't like about your article is that you call me an office boy. Now I was an office boy around the South Bend News-Times for a year and one-half and was then promoted to the obituary column and from that work to the reporter for the Y. M. C. A., aviation news, marriage licenses, army recruiting offices, postoffice, Y. W. C. A., Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, hotels, time copy editor, and I am now one of the assistants to Mr. Walt Willey, sports editor of the News-Times. That 'office boy stuff' is history now and when you learn of the achievements I have made in news reporting I know you will understand why I am correcting you on this detail.

"We fellows have enough trouble trying to make good around these newspaper offices without some sporting editor up in the Windy City calling us copy boys or office boys when we have received a diploma in that department many months ago. And what is more, I am entering your Golden Gloves tournament as the 'fighting journalist' and I want all the dignity that goes with the profession.

"If there is any doubt in your mind that I look like an office boy I'll send you my picture. And I want you to know that that crack you made about me was read by my girl and she doesn't appreciate it, either.

"I remain, yours hurt and embarrassed,

"ROBERT W. HOENIG."

Another Slant on Shires.

A good deal has been written about Shires' side of the recent controversy over the ethics of a ball player becoming a boxing comedian in his holiday time.

Harry Grabiner, secretary of the White Sox, talked frankly [before Tuesday's conference with Shires] of the Sox viewpoint. Mr. Grabiner may since have become reconciled to Mr. Shires, but that will be another story. Several days ago, or before the conference, the White Sox viewpoint was as follows:

"Baseball owners for years have been trying to convince the fans that ball games are high class entertainment and ball players are neither rowdies, barroom loafers, nor water front bums. The magnates would have the public believe ball players are high type fellows, skillful athletes, deserving of respect if not admiration.

"Along comes Shires glorying in an ability to chew more tobacco than any professional tobacco chewer; boasting of a penchant for rough and tumble fighting; proud of a capacity for gin and two decisions over his manager.

"What's the use?" asks Mr. Grabiner, "of trying to kid the fans about the class of a ball player who behaves like that?"

"If Shires had done his best last year the White Sox could have had him on first base from the beginning of the season; the Sox might have been a better ball club and the fans been rewarded with more victories, Lena Blackburne probably wouldn't have lost his job. What assurance does Mr. Comiskey now have that Shires won't wreck the morale of this year's ball club?"

The odds are 10 to 1 that before long loquacious and colorful Arthur will come to terms with Mr. Comiskey. But if the unexpected should transpire and the Sox and Shires agree to disagree it will be only fair to weigh Mr. Grabiner's arguments before launching an attack on White Sox policy. Whatever Comiskey says to Shires, it will be mild to what Mr. Wrigley would have said to one of his ball players in a similar situation.

Judge Not Lest—

While admiration for Michigan and its fine athletic record, and the findings of an independent investigation, incline one to sympathize with Prof. Aigler's characterization of the Carnegie report as unfair, an ironical commentator will find it full of possibilities.

Prof. Aigler complains that the Carnegie probers mistook isolated incidents for matters of policy; magnified misdemeanors into malpractice; and exhumed wrongs of the long forgotten past.

Wasn't that [at least until its recent flip flop] Iowa's answer to the indictment of the Big Ten?

The suggestion was made when the Big Ten faculty men charged Iowa with recruiting and subsidizing athletes that although two wrongs never make a right, prosecutors should come into court with clear consciences.

The investigation Michigan now scorns was conducted by leaders just as famous as those who conducted the investigation and hearing on Iowa. If, as Michigan charges, the Carnegie professors were misinformed and biased, isn't it possible that the Big Nine faculty committee was biased too?

Iowa of late has made it extremely difficult for any one to serve as counsel for defense. Its recent abject attitude chills one's enthusiasm to enlist as a defender. But aside from the justice or injustice of Iowa's plight it seems natural to contrast Michigan's umbrage at the Carnegie report with Michigan's intolerance of Iowa's errors.

ALL'S READY FOR TRIBUNE SILVER SKATES DERBIES

Rules to Govern Entries and Spectators.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Final arrangements for holding THE TRIBUNE'S fourteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies at Garfield park Saturday and Sunday were completed yesterday. To handle the large number of contestants and conduct the races with dispatch, skaters and officials only will be allowed in that part of the pavilion reserved for racers. Spectators will be confined to the new pavilion at the east end of the pond.

The pavilion will be marked off in divisions. Girls will receive their numbers and instructions at the east end. Senior boys and intermediates will call for numerals at the west end and all other contestants at the center section. Enough benches will be installed to care for the small army of skaters.

Police Decorate Course.

No spectators will be permitted to stand on the ice at south and west sections of the lagoon. Spectators will be allowed at the north and east sections outside of the course. Should warm weather prevail none except officials will be allowed on the ice.

The pavilion and adjacent trees will be fittingly decorated by the west parks commission. THE TRIBUNE will install amplifiers to keep the throng informed as to progress of races, the qualifiers and winners.

Police on foot and mounted on motorcycles will keep the spectators at a distance. Upon completion of a heat or final, skaters must get off the ice. An emergency hospital has been erected in one section of the pavilion to care for skaters or spectators, victims of accidents. Four physicians in charge of Dr. Louis K. Eastman will be on hand for emergencies.

Lagoon Frozen 16 Inches.

The Garfield park lagoon now is frozen to a depth of 16 inches. Laborers are scraping the surface and making smooth uneven spots.

Trials in the boys' juvenile and boys' junior will be held Saturday starting at 2 o'clock. Contestants must report for numbers at 1:30 o'clock. Finals in both races take place Sunday.

Sunday's program will begin at 1 o'clock with trial heats in the boys' intermediate Derby. No numbers will be issued after 12:30 o'clock. If the ice remains firm, all races will be decided over a six lap course.

Referee—Sugarman.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Several hundred spectators rushed onto the basketball floor at the Chicago Stadium last night to join a fight between Nat Holman, new $12,000 a year star of the Bruins, and John Cooney, captain of the Brooklyn Visitations.

The crowd jammed around the players, pushing and shoving. Here and there in a bit of open space flying fists found a target. One of the Brooklyn men was tripped in the rush and sprawled under foot. For a moment a free for all fight raged. It was quickly brought under control by policemen and officials of the Bruins, who bored into the mass and hustled the spectators back toward the side lines.

During the riot Holman and Cooney had, by their wrestling tactics, protected each other from injury. Willie Scrill, Cooney's teammate, before the crowd closed in, had swung a series of right uppercuts at Holman, but the Bruin star had ducked safely from each wild blow.

New Basketball Stolen.

Holman's jersey was ripped down the back. Referee Lou Sugarman declared a general amnesty and prepared to continue the game without awarding fouls. Then it was discovered that the new $18 basketball had disappeared during the excitement. A practice ball was requisitioned and the remaining seconds of the game were completed.

Chicago won, 18 to 12, that being the score at the time of the disturbance. It was Holman's first league game with the Bruins, and he failed to contribute a point to the Chicago total.

The former Celtic player played Tuesday night with the Bruins in a charity game against the Ravenswood K. of C. team and injured his knee. This kept him from joining the offense last night save to pass to his mates. He also was handicapped on defense.

Four Go Out on Fouls.

Holman played during the first half and then retired in favor of Capt. Kennedy. The Bruins led, 8 to 7, at the time, Kennedy, Kellett and Ely connected for field goals to give Chicago a 14 to 7 advantage and the ball game was decided.

The peculiar system of calling fouls introduced by Sugarman brought results although both team objected to his decisions. Four players, one from Brooklyn, left the game by the five foul route. Kellett and Herlihy, opposing centers, were ejected and each had a pair of fouls assessed for talking back to the official.

Then Ray Kennedy went to the bench, which brought Holman back into the game. Nat Hickey was replaced by Bramhall, Hickey going to the showers just in time to escape the rush of the fans. It was the first time Hickey has been ejected since he joined the Chicago team.

Lead by Eight Points.

With Chicago leading, 18 to 10, in the closing minutes, the short tempered Brooklyn players resented the stalling tactics of the Bruins. Sugarman stopped the game twice to lecture the boys after Holman and Cooney had locked arms. The third time brought the rush.

In the preliminary game the Taylor Trunks girls team defeated the Wishbone A. C., 24 to 21, stalling the final quarter, protecting a nine point lead.

CARROLL MAY MANAGE HAWKS NEXT SEASON

Rumors from Guelph, Ont., that Dick Carroll, manager of the Tulsa hockey team of the American association, would become manager of the Chicago Black Hawks drew denials from both sides yesterday. Guelph is the home town of Carroll. The most likely explanation of the reports was that Carroll might manage the Hawks next year.

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, president of the Hawks, who had a conference with Carroll in Minneapolis when he was on a player buying trip, said he contemplated no change this season. Bill Tobin will continue as business manager and general supervisor, with Dick Irvin in immediate charge of the players in games.

Another denial came from Carroll at Tulsa who said he would not leave the Oilers this season. He refused to talk about next season's possibilities. Carroll, who managed the Oilers in a victorious cup race last year with 54 points scored in 40 games, has been successful in developing young players, such as Tommy Cook and Teddy Graham, now with the Black Hawks.

THREE POLICEMEN ENTER GOLDEN GLOVES TRIALS

St. Paul Middleweight Star to Compete.

Three policemen from the Town Hall station will take part in the north section Golden Gloves tryouts at the Fronton, Feb. 14. Oscar T. Hanson and Harr Schmidt will compete in the heavyweight class and Louis Allman in the lightweight. Sergt. Fred Meers, who made the entry, declares these officers are in training and will crawl through the ropes with the support of all policemen living on the north side.

If one of these guardians of the law reaches the finals it will not be the first appearance of a policeman in the Golden Gloves tournament. Last year Ralph Murcia of the New York police department represented New York in the heavweight division of the inter-city matches, and every officer on duty in Madison Square Garden welcomed their color bearer with shrill blasts of their whistles. Murcia was defeated by George Meyer of Quincy, Ill., in a four round battle.

St. Paul Star Entered.

Robert W. Krieger, a follower of amateur athletics in St. Paul, Minn., has sent the entry of Jerry Gates, an outstanding amateur of that city. Gates is a hard hitting middleweight and has won more than thirty fights. He will be placed in one of the Chicago sectional trials.

Fred Greybar, a heavyweight who has had several fights, has turned in his entry blank, with the information that he is training at a south side gymnasium. Entries from several other heavies also were received and indications are competition in this class will uncover capable fighters.

Entries in Every Mail.

Entries are being received in every mail. The Joliet Steel Works club will send half a dozen fighters to the south sectional tests. Tourneys to be conducted by out of town papers are certain to produce stars for the finals at the Coliseum, Feb. 25, 26, 27, and 28.

Winners and runners-up in each of the eight classes will compose the Chicago team to meet New York at the Chicago stadium, March 19. Tickets for both shows will be placed on sale Monday at THE TRIBUNE Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street.

SNOWY OWL, BANDIT OF AIR, SWOOPS SOUTH

Killer Strikes Terror to Small Game.

BY BOB BECKER.

At this time of the year a husky silent winged bird of prey comes down from the frozen north country. He is bad medicine as far as rabbits and birds are concerned. This killer is the snowy owl, the bird that lives in the land of hush and has a flight quite in keeping with its home country.

Few birds of prey can fly as quietly as this strong northern owl whose wings seem to be "padded" in order to produce absolutely soundless flight.

Seeks Food in South.

When food gets scarce in the far north a wave of these owls flows into the northern tier of states. Last winter large numbers came into the country and kept game keepers busy. Voracious eaters and expert killers the snowy owls raise havoc with rabbits, grouse, quail, and small birds.

No bird better typifies "deceptive" coloration than this winter visitor from the north. When he comes down to raid our supply of birds and mammals he is white and more or less heavily spotted with black. Therefore he is ideally fitted out for winter hunting, his plumage blending into expanses of snow. The ptarmigan [that member of the grouse family which lives in the north and whose plumage turns white in the winter] is preyed upon by the snowy owl. The former changes brown feathers for white in order to get protective coloration whereas the bird of prey sports a white dress in winter as deceptive coloration.

Scares Small Game.

In Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan the snowy owl is not uncommon during the winter, if lack of food forces the birds southward. In fact, some of the owls come into Illinois to strike terror into the hearts of rabbits, quail, grouse and other birds.

Stout Heart's Necessary for One to Gamble

anecdotes of the trade all recounting acts of generosity, quite aside from his church giving and his annual horse meet in Kentucky for the benefit of the public orphans.

Tex Lacked Continuity.

He never has said as much to me, but I sometimes hear that he is not pleased to be known in any other character than that of a horseman. But that side of him is relatively commonplace, for there are hundreds of horse people, whereas in his other phase he has been to America what the society of baths and shower baths is to Europe, this being the literal name, as I understand it, of the syndicate which runs the casino at Monte Carlo. They deal in francs at Monte Carlo and they still think in terms of francs and permit their thoughts to dwell on very little else, but a million there is only $50,000, and you would rate no wound stripe for losing that much in Florida nor any chevrons for winning $50,000.

Rickard was an ambitious operator and he died in the midst of his arrangements to open a mansion a few miles up Miami Beach, where, for his first season last year, with all that stock market money dribbling through the fingers of unaccustomed and slightly fuddled commoners, he might have outgrossed the colonel. But Tex had no continuity. There was the cunning manner of a conspirator about him that set people on guard. He always was having fallings out with this one or that one, and even if he had managed to rock along with his colleagues he would have come upon a season this year when only the authentic aristocracy; whose fortunes rest on the bed rock of famous old breakfast food trademarks and railroad systems, can still afford to punt for mature sums with unaffected nonchalance.

Abide By H' Rules.

In America these people go to Palm Beach in winter, Saratoga and Newport in summer, and in good times or bad they have millions to spend or frivol away.

Palm Beach is their utopia, a mangrove bar lying slightly off shore which they and their forbears and the railroad company cleared and reclaimed and adorned with mansions and hotels, and they run it by an aristocratic communism. The Colonel caters to their speculative instincts under a warrant tantamount to an exclusive appointment from this isolated realm, and they abide by his inflexible rules of dress and deportment with the polite submission of well mannered children in a kindergarten. One hears of the time he barred Harold Vanderbilt at the door because evening dress is obligatory at 6 p. m. and this was five minutes after.

A dishpan miner in New Mexico, he was, and he once ran a clothing store in Chicago and now behind the modest chastity of this New England meeting house he provides the action to which his guests or members have been accustomed in their margin accounts downtown. But most interesting to me is that in all this he commands the same respect that he gives and truckles to no man nor name nor reputation, although there are some down there who could strike awe into the heart of a night city editor and set him to stammering "yes, sir."

Fields' Backers Offer 8-5; And Money Goes Begging

Vince Dundee of Baltimore has a great following in Chicago, but his admirers failed to come up with enough money yesterday to make him the favorite to whip Jackie Fields at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

JACKIE FIELDS.

Fields money at 8 to 5 went begging, and when some of Jackie's more ardent backers offered 2 to 1 on him to beat Dundee there were few takers. If the betting odds are an indication, Fields is already home. But the boxing fans were of the same opinion several weeks ago when Dundee fought Fields. Jackie staggered out of that encounter lucky to get a draw.

Fields wound up his training at Barry's gym yesterday with the announcement that his battle with Dundee tomorrow night will be the last in Chicago for many months. Win or lose with Dundee, Fields will go to the west coast for a combat with Young Corbett III. He expects to invade Europe for a series of bouts after meeting Corbett.

Zero weather held no terrors for Irish Jack Pilkington, the New Yorker, yesteray. Jack is here to meet Tony Herrera of Fort Worth in the eight round semi-windup of the Fields-Dundee struggle. He engaged in road work in Lincoln park during the morning, but frost bites apparently do not affect cauliflower ears.

Jim Mullen, the pioneer of naturals, offers a card at the Jai-Alai fronton tonight which he believes will provide all the hard punching and knockout thrills any fight crowd could desire.

Chuck Heffner of Denver meets Chip Freeman of Buffalo in the eight round feature at 156 pounds. There are two other eight rounders on the card bringing together King Levinsky and Johnny Freeman, and Danny Delmont of Chicago against Ted Henry of Chicago. Levinsky and Freeman will scale 175 pounds, while Delmont and Henry will enter the ring at 136.

There are three other bouts on the program, and action will begin at 8:15 o'clock.

County Cage Meet Starts at Bloomington Jan. 30

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—The annual McLean county basketball tournament will be held at Illinois Wesleyan gymnasium Jan. 30, 31 and Feb. 1, according to Fred L. Muhl, the manager.

Indiana and Badgers Play for 2nd Place

One of those Big Nine basketball games in which mutual respect is well founded and second place in the standings goes to the victor will be played at Bloomington tonight, when Indiana clashes with Wisconsin. Each has lost one game, while the Badgers have won three and the Hoosiers two.

Indiana, which rolled up easy victories over Chicago and Northwestern ran into an unexpected set-back at the hands of Michigan. Smarting under that defeat, the Hoosiers hope to take revenge on the other co-champion of last year.

Nor are the Badgers less ambitious, for after their defeat by Northwestern in the opening game they've downed Ohio, Illinois and Chicago in succession. Both teams, however, have scored their victories over quintets which do not rate as powerful as their opponents tonight.

In condition they should be alike as it will be the third game in six days for both squads. Indiana might have an edge in that it is playing on its home floor.

The game will in one sense be a duel between the captains, Bud Foster and Branch McCracken. Both rank among the best centers in the conference and both are near the top in individual scoring. Indiana will have some advantage in height and perhaps in reserves, as the Badger reserves haven't worked into Wisconsin's intricate passing attack as well as they might.

Both teams will start the lineups they have been using since the start of the season.

Amateur Skaters Warned Against Ad Indorsements

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Vigorous action to curb the practice of having amateur skaters indorse the products of skate manufacturers has been taken by the Amateur Skating Union of the United States it was announced today in the American Olympic committee's official publication, Olympic News.

The union has requested all makers of skates to refrain from using this type of advertising. A warning was issued to all skaters stating that a violation will result in suspension.

NILES CENTER BUYS 62 ACRE TRACT FOR PARK

Acquires Property from Forest Preserve.

BY AL CHASE.

Niles Center is to have its first large municipal park as a result of a deal closed yesterday between the Niles Center Park district trustees and the Forest Preserve district whereby the latter turned over sixty-two acres of forest preserve in the heart of the town to the park board. The price paid was $62,148.

The property is made up of three parcels divided by the Chicago and North Western railroad right of way and also by the tracks of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee interurban. It is bounded on the north by Oakton street, on the east by North Kenton avenue, on the south by Jonquil terrace and Dodson street and on the west by Niles avenue and Lincoln avenue.

Not Yet Christened.

The newly acquired park has not yet been named. It will be developed as a playground and athletic field. There will be a baseball diamond, tennis courts, probably outdoor basketball courts and other games for old and young. Emil C. Blameuser is head of the Niles Center park district. Charles C. Wooster of Maloney, Wooster & Whiteside was attorney in yesterday's transaction.

In addition to this new park Niles Center has two other small breathing places, each five acres in extent, under the supervision of the village park board.

Twenty-seven Flats Sold.

The twenty-seven flats at the southeast corner of 78th and Kingston, lot 124x124 feet, have been transferred by Edgar Troyer to William B. Austin.

Harry Yawitt has purchased the one story automobile sales and service building at 824-26 Diversey boulevard, lot 50x126 feet, from Carl F. W. Ebert for a reported $75,000.

Clothing Chain Store in West Madison St. Lease

The Richman Brothers company, clothiers, has leased the two story building at 4011 West Madison street from James W. Sixeas from March 1, 1930, to June 30, 1942, at an annual rental of $10,000. BIG FINANCING WILL FOLLOW STEEL MERGER

Republic Co. Plans $55,000,000 Issue.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Formation of the big Republic Steel company through the merger of the Republic Iron and Steel, Central Alloy Steel, Donner Steel, and Bourne Fuller companies will be followed by a big piece of financing, according to reports in La Salle street yesterday.

It is understood that an offering of $55,000,000 of 6 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock will be made to Republic Steel stockholders as a part of the new financial setup. The issue will be underwritten by a syndicate headed by Otis & Co., and no public offering is planned for the immediate future, although some of the stock may be sold later if all stockholders do not avail themselves of the offer.

The present merger was arranged by Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland, O., capitalist and a partner in Otis & Co. Later on it is expected to take in the Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Inland Steel companies, according to report.

Most Active Center.

Chicago now is the most active steel making center in the country, according to the midweek steel trade reviews. However, all districts have shown a further gain in both demand and production.

"Steel ingot production in the Chicago district now ranges from 70 to 75 per cent, compared with 65 per cent a week ago," the Iron Age says. "Releases from the railroads are increasing and Chicago rail mills have raised output to 87 per cent of capacity. Railroad car builders are taking more steel, while requirements of farm implement plants are well sustained.

"Steel specifications in the New York district thus far in January are double those for the corresponding period in December. At Cleveland, where heavier automotive business is a factor, the January bookings of several mills show a gain of 40 per cent over those of the previous month. Independent mills at Cleveland have reached a 70 per cent rate and Youngstown production has shown an impressive recovery, now being between 60 and 65 per cent, compared with 50 to 55 per cent a fortnight ago. The average rate for the country at large is estimated at 67 per cent.

"Pressure on prices is still severe, particularly in the Detroit district, where the operations of the automotive industry are slowly gathering momentum. Cold finished bars have declined $2 a ton and black sheets are commonly quoted at a recession of $1 a ton, following the $2 drop of a week ago.

Composite Price Recedes.

"The composite price for finished steel has receded from 2.319 to 2.312 cents a pound, its lowest since December, 1927; while the composite price for pig iron has declined from $18.21 to $18.17 a gross ton, the lowest level since October, 1928."

The Commonwealth Edison company's Crawford avenue plant in Chicago last month set a world record for output of a single electrical station, according to the company's engineers. The total output of the plant was 206,452,440 kilowatt hours. The Commonwealth Edison total output for 1929 was 4,276,181,000 hours, of which 45 per cent came from the Crawford avenue plant and whose production was nearly equal to the entire output of the company in 1922.

The Franklin Automobile company reported that its shipments last year were nearly double those of 1928 and that profits were more than double. Sales totaled 14,432 cars, compared with 7,770 in 1928, and net profits of $1,123,112, compared with $555,020. After paying preferred and common dividends, the surplus was increased by $139,781, whereas in 1928 a charge of $110,304 was made against surplus.

Says Holding Firms Owe - Protection to Investors

BY SCRUTATOR.

In the fickle swings of public interest, measured by governmental investigations of one sort or another, the holding company as applied in the public utility field quite frequently occupies a central place.

The holding company has been going along for a number of years and has developed as greatly as could have been expected. Its supporters have been able to meet criticisms and to carry on. But the critics have not all died and there seems to be at present a comeback on their part. Public service commissions of states and the federal trade commission are looking into the workings of the big concerns in the electric light and power field.

Defenders Become Vocal.

As a result, the defenders of the present setups have become vocal or turned to their pens again. Among these is H. C. Hopson, vice president of the Associated Gas and Electric company. Testifying before a legislative committee of the state of New York recently, he said:

"The chief criticism of the holding company as a financial device is that it permits concentration of control without any corresponding investment. The men who are responsible for the disposition of the huge masses of capital that holding companies, backed by steadily increasing earnings of light and power properties, have been able to accumulate are not, it is charged, necessarily or even usually men who have themselves any substantial investment at stake. Moreover, through issuing of preferred shares without voting rights and the increasing use of nonvoting common shares, the actual control of the entire system lies frequently in a comparatively small amount of closely held voting stock."

Mr. Hopson admits that the facts are facts, but advances the opinion that it is merely academic to insist that democratic control of such companies is advisable. The public, both consumers and investors, find more safeguards in the law and public opinion than they would have with diffusion of voting control to a vast number of small stockholders.

Help Improve Service.

This probably is true. There are few large corporations in which the will of the majority of the share owners ever is expressed directly. Management must have at least freedom to make decisions. The holding company has been a potent weapon in improving service. Without such organizations inter-connections would have been more difficult and many small plants making electricity would still be struggling along inefficiently.

The machinery for rate regulation in most states is adequate to prevent extortion being applied to the consumer. Probably the stockholder who has an interest in a holding company with able management gets what is due him, once he is in. Perhaps the most serious complaint that can be leveled at holding companies is in connection with getting new stockholders. Sales of stocks at inflated prices have evidently been made in the recent past, and through house to house canvasses or other forms of direct solicitation.

More protection is due the little investor, who parts with his money, by the holding company in so far as it is responsible.

PRODUCTION FIGURES INDICATE RECORD YEAR FOR LIFE INSURANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 22.—Life insurance production figures for 1929 from 44 members of the association of life insurance presidents confirm last month's forecast that 1929 would be a record breaking life insurance year.

New paid business, exclusive of revivals, increases, and dividend additions were forwarded to the department of commerce today, showing that the companies which represent 74 per cent of the new business reported a total of $12,885,000,000, which is 5.4 per cent greater than the 1928 volume.

Beginning the year with an unusual increase of 18.6 per cent in January, 1929, over the same month of the previous year, new life insurance increased in every month of the year over the corresponding 1928 month except in May, September, and December. The 1929 production was more than double the $5,949,000,000 in 1921, and more than four times the $2,959,000,000 in 1916.

Industrial insurance made an increase in every month of the year except in April and December and completed the year with the largest increase of 7.6 per cent for any of the three classes. While group insurance shows a decrease of 11.3 per cent for the year, this is compared with the abnormal increase of 62 per cent in 1928 over 1927. The 1929 volume of group insurance, as compared with 1927, increased 43.8 per cent.

Management Company Wins Cities Service Test Case

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 22.—A test suit involving millions of dollars and affecting thousands of small investors throughout the country as an aftermath of the October and November stock break was won today by Henry L. Doherty & Co., holding and management company, in City court.

Judge Louis Wendell sustained the contention of Doherty & Co. against Augusta Levy which will influence subsequent legal action by partial payment purchasers of Cities Service company stock.

Mrs. Levy contended that under the wording of her contract her stock should be settled on the basis of Oct. 15 prices, while Doherty & Co. declared that Nov. 15 was the settlement date. On Oct. 15 Cities Service common was selling around 67, about the high price of the year, while on Nov. 15, following the break to 20, the stock was selling around 30.

Investors Bear Losses.

Settlement on the date of Oct. 15 would have meant a loss of 37 points to Doherty & Co. Had Mrs. Levy's suit been successful it would have meant that the company would have had to sustain the losses due to the stock market break which will now be taken by the thousands of small investors.

Mrs. Levy entered into a partial payment contract along with thousands of others attracted by the Cities Service plan because of its installment features. After the market break she defaulted in her installment payments and sued to recover an amount based on the market price of 67 as of Oct. 15, prior to the stock market break.

Was Widely Sold.

Her contention was that the language of the contract might be so construed. Doherty & Co. contended that the contract stated that settlement was precise and clear as to its terms and stipulated that liquidation should be on the basis of the market price of Nov. 15, which was following the market break.

The Cities Service stock was widely sold throughout the country by an efficient corps of salesmen to investors who were able to absorb a few shares only and pay for them on installments.

According to the plan, 25 per cent of the market price was paid down. Then the purchaser had from four to ten months to pay for the remainder of the stock.

New York, Jan. 22.—What honors there were fell to the bull contingent in today's trading on the stock exchange. The bears got a break in the early dealings with a drive against alcohol and chemical shares and were gladdened again toward the last by a rather widespread wave of profit taking, but on the other hand the general tendency of the list was toward slightly higher levels. Gains in some of the more highly favored issues ran as high as 5 points.

Pools Help Improvement.

Pool activities in various quarters of the field contributed as much as anything to the further improvement of the list. News again was more or less favorable, including a weekly report on car loadings which showed an encouraging upturn over the pre-

K. C. GRAIN MEN PROTEST FARM MARKETING ACT

Grain exchange members are uneasy as the result of increasing activity on the part of cooperative associations. Minneapolis recently sent in a protest and yesterday Kansas City took action.

A resolution condemning the agricultural marketing act as "unfair and of socialistic character" and acts of the federal farm board as "arbitrary and inconsistent" was sent by directors of the Kansas City board of trade to the agricultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington.

"The farm board," the resolution asserted, "is using government and public funds to interfere with prices and legitimate business, to force unfair competition, to build uneconomic facilities, and to endanger honest business enterprise and investment. Business men everywhere should take notice of these things. If they can be done in one line of business they can be done in others. Business should set its face against such extreme measures."

Life Insurance Co. Gets Injunction in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The Confederation Life Insurance company of Canada today was granted a permanent "amparo" or injunction by the Fourth District court against an order of the department of industry, commerce, and labor prohibiting it from continuing to sell policies in Mexico. A similar petition by the Sun Life Insurance company of Canada is awaiting decision. The department order included also the Hispano-American alliance on the ground that all had failed to comply with regulations obliging them to invest half of their reserves on deposit in Mexico in Mexican bonds. Representatives of the companies have denied this interpretation of the law.

WALL ST. HEARS OF POSSIBLE CUT IN COPPER PRICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 22.—Reports in Wall street today were that copper producers are contemplating reducing the price of the metal to 15 cents. It was said a conference will soon be held at which the course of action will be decided.

At the offices of leading copper companies, however, it was said nothing was known of such a conference and there has been no change in prices of the metal.

The report attracted attention by reason of its suggestion of a reduction of 2 cents or possibly 3 cents in the price, since reports of general reductions in copper have been common in the financial district ever since the price was stabilized at 18 cents.

CHICAGO CORP. SHARES ACTIVE IN TRADING HERE

Recovers from Selling on Annual Report.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chicago stocks were firm yesterday and a few issues showed more than average strength but the list as a whole did not advance. On the other hand stocks which were under pressure held up well, notably Chicago corporation common which encountered some heavy selling following publication of the annual report.

On sales of approximately 26,000 shares the stock retreated to 12½, rallied with buying support and closed with a net loss of less than a point. The preferred on sales of about 9,000 shares lost ⅝.

With the exception of Corporation Securities, other investment stocks showed no important price changes. Corporation Securities advanced three points to 61 and held 2 points of its gain.

Approve Listing.

Listing of 274,500 common shares of the Missouri Kansas Pipe Line company was approved yesterday by exchange governors. The stock which has been comparatively active recently closed off a minor fraction on a turnover of about 3,500 shares.

In its application for listing the company stated that 254,448 shares are to be sold to an underwriting syndicate, 10,501 shares will be used by the company to pay stock dividends and the remainder will go to the firm's subsidiary, the Kentucky Natural Gas company. The latter firm will sell the stock to meet rights offered with its $1,500,000 bond issue. Missouri Kansas will realize $4,638,000 from the sale to the underwriting syndicate.

The radio stocks were heavy with Grigsby able to hold its own on fairly active trade. Atlas, however, was down a fraction. The company is planning to apply for listing on the New York exchange. Wextark dropped another point following its sharp break on the previous day.

Automotives were slightly lower with Bendix and Borg each off a fraction. In the general group John R. Thompson spurted 3½ while Nachman Springfilled dropped a like amount. Butler Brothers closed at 14⅝, down a major fraction.

Other Listings.

Additional listings which were approved yesterday besides the Missouri Kansas Pipe Line were: Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, 56,640 common shares; United Gas company, 75,000 common; Federal Public Service corporation, $936,700 first lien 6 per cent bonds, series of 1927; Middle West Utilities company, 273,950 common.

The Minneapolis Honeywell Regulator company has notified the exchange that it is planning to increase its capital stock from 250,000 to 500,000 shares. Stockholders will meet Feb. 18 to vote on the proposal.

Transfer of seats to Emil Stern and Walter N. Matthews and John M. Hancock was approved by the governors.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

No Mystery Here.

No mystery can be found in the rising market which the majority of the "amusement" shares are experiencing in spite of the Fox situation. Difficulties of Fox are well known to be due to management and not to conditions in the industry. The feeling that, for a while at least, Fox may be a less formidable competitor in a highly profitable field is giving a fillip to other theater and talkie picture stocks.

Traction Sentiment.

Improving sentiment toward the traction issues, which comprise one of the smallest groups on the exchange, is largely attributed to two recent decisions handed down by the United States Supreme court. These held without equivocation that a street railroad is entitled to earn in the neighborhood of 8 per cent on its capital investment and to fix such a return the passenger fare must be computed on a valuation of present day costs.

Short Interest Heavy.

The short interest in the department store issues is supposed to be the heaviest in some time. This probably accounts for the ease with which they are being marked up. Heavy professional selling of these stocks has taken place since last December on account of reports of falling off in business.

In Spotlight Again.

The most famous little railroad in the country, the St. Louis and O'Fallon, moves into the spotlight again today when the interstate commerce commission makes another attempt to determine how much the road owes the government for "excess" earnings. The commission's interpretation of the Supreme Court's dictum that current reproduction cost must be given consideration in the fixing of values for rate making and recapture will be enlightening to watch, it is asserted.

Chicago Board of Trade Stocks

More interest was taken in the Board of Trade's stock department, with 13 different stocks handled and 3,350 shares sold. Prices were irregular, with small gains in Allied Mills, Armour issues, Mid-City, and Wrigley, while National Recording Pump was lower. New additions to the trading list are 15,000 shares of Selected American Shares, making 85,000 available for trading commencing today.

SEEKS TO BLOCK CEMENT CO. SALE TO U. S. STEEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Jan. 22.—A petition for a temporary injunction to restrain the Atlas Portland Cement company, its officers and directors, from selling or conveying the assets of the company to the United States Steel corporation under specifications of an agreement for such a transfer, has been filed here in the court of common pleas by Ida L. Ringler, owner of 100 shares of Atlas Cement common stock. The action is preliminary to a request for a permanent injunction.

The petition sets forth that the assets of the cement company, which were 900,000 shares of stock, are to be transferred to the steel corporation for 180,000 shares of the stock of the steel corporation.

Taking into account the present value of the stock of the steel corporation, about $170 a share, the plaintiff asserts she would receive per share for her cement stock about $34 in value. This, it is contended, is an unfair and inadequate price.

WHEAT PRICES REACT FROM TOP; CLOSE ERRATIC

Better Foreign Demand Is Felt in Trading.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A material broadening in the foreign demand for cash wheat with export sales of around 2,250,000 bu, including hard winters and Manitobas in all positions, and expectations that Europe would buy rather steadily from now on resulted yesterday in some change in sentiment. With buying of futures credited to removing hedges against sales aboard prices advanced 1@1⅛c over Tuesday's close.

Profit taking and selling on resting orders caused a reaction from the top with the close ⅝c higher to ⅝c lower, the latter on July. March finished at $1.24¾; May, $1.28⅞@1.29, and July $1.29¾@1.29¾.

Bulk of the export business was in Manitobas, the Pool alone selling 1,000,000 bu, and this was reflected in independent strength in Winnipeg which gained 1c for the day. Millers were credited with buying March wheat at Liverpool with the intention of taking delivery, and that market finished 1⅛@2⅛d higher, with May gaining around 1c on Chicago overnight. Argentine markets were strong on short covering, Buenos Aires closing 1@1⅛c higher and Rosario, 1c higher.

Expect Better Demand.

Expectations of better buying of cash wheat by Europe is based on the belief that reserves there have been materially cut down as the result of light world's shipments for a number of weeks, and the small quantities secured from on passage stocks. However, Canadian prices are about in line with those prevailing for hard winter, and in connection with the former is receiving the preference.

Including in the export sales during the day were a cargo of hard winters to Greece, and Portugal took a cargo on Tuesday, and the basis at the Gulf was distinctly firmer, with some wheat said to have been worked from Hutchinson, Kas., to the Gulf.

Selling of July and buying of May wheat to close spreads narrowed the difference to ⅞c at the last compared with 1⅝c at the finish on Tuesday. Cold weather is forecasted for the winter wheat belt the balance of the week and lack of snow covering is mentioned in western Kansas. Houses with northwestern connections were fair sellers of futures on the bulge to above $1.29 for May.

Corn Market Dull.

Corn prices held within a range of ⅛@¼c, with a limited state. Market was affected to some extent by the action of wheat, with the March showing less resistance to pressure than the deferred months, and the finish was ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher, with March, 46⅝@46¾c, and May, 47¼c. Country offerings to arrive were decidedly small, with grain testing 52 lbs and heavier bringing a premium over lighter weights. Eastern demand was slow with sales of 75,000 bu reported. Buenos Aires futures closed ½@2c higher.

Outside interest in oats is limited, but there was no material pressure and scattered commission house buying lifted prices ⅛@⅜c and with March closing at 46⅝@46¾c, and May, 47¼c. Shipping sales were fair at 300,000 bu.

Scattered liquidation was on in March rye, but the aggregate trade was light, with the finish ⅝c lower to ⅛c higher, March being 96½c; May, 95¼c, and July, 94⅜c.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today, but there was a better inquiry and offerings were lighter. The only sale reported were 10,000 bags of Porto Rican about and 30,000 bags of Philippines in nearby positions at 3.58c delivered. A decidedly better tone developed in raw futures, influenced by rumors that the Cuban crop would be restricted, and by reports that the delegation committee would advise against new cane planting next year. Offerings increased in the late trading and there were partial cessions near the close with the market finally 4 to 8 points above the previous close. The day's business approximated 88,000 tons. Bond Salesmen

A large conservative bond house participating in all leading syndicates, with offices in Chicago, New York and other large cities of the Middle West, is looking for salesmen to represent them in Chicago and outside territory. Replies to receive attention should give experience, present earnings and class of securities sold. A satisfactory drawing account to apply against an unusually liberal commission system will make this proposition exceedingly attractive to producers.

COTTON TRADE NARROW

Narrowness in the cotton trade failed to depress prices yesterday, although net gains were only 3 to 7 points in Chicago and 4 to 10 points in outside markets. There were few outside orders and professionals gave the market indifferent attention, awaiting the census bureau's ginning report due today. Liverpool closed unchanged to 1 point higher, with spot sales 5,000 bales. American spot prices were 5 points higher. New York was 17.45c, sales 600 bales of middlings, New Orleans 17.10c, sales 1,401 bags; Galveston was 17.45c and Houston 17.35c. Prices follow:

An Outstanding Investment Purchase

We recommend to investment purchasers the common stock of a corporation which owns and controls the largest business of its kind in the world. It serves one of the most prosperous areas in the U. S. with a population of about 10,000,000.

An Important Industry

This corporation is dealing in a major necessity which in the U. S. totals between $7,000,000,000 and $8,000,000,000 per year in labor materials. This means that the nation expends more than three times as much for this one necessity as it does in producing all the power and light consumed and twice as much as it expends in manufacturing and distributing automobiles.

Current Earnings Large

The present market price of this stock is about six times the current earnings, thus making earnings on the present market value approximately 16%. We consider that good stocks in this industry should sell for fifteen times the current earnings. Coming consolidation should constitute a further speculative attraction. The investment public is now becoming aware of the strong investment features of this industry for the following reasons:

(a) It supplies an essential service not influenced by times of depression.
(b) It is a cash business.
(c) It is not subject to inventory fluctuations.
(d) It has a localization of risks through chain operation.
(e) It has a constant improvement in the value of real estate holdings, as in chain store companies.

Business Protests against the LIGHTLESS window

500 Firms Moved Offices Into New Daylight Locations Where Parking Space Saves Hours Daily

Even New buildings in the loop that cannot meet these modern-day requirements are being abandoned for a cleaner, lighter, more convenient business district growing just north of the river.

Here are the reasons: Lack of parking space in the loop wastes ½ hour daily for executives who drive. Customers as well as employees are inconvenienced.

Figure out the loss to your firm resulting from congestion. If your salesmen use your downtown office as headquarters the cost of parking delays may equal your rent for the year.

Absence of daylight in the congested district costs an average of $12.00 per year per employee for artificial light, and lowers working efficiency.

So over 500 firms have moved out of the lightless crowded loop. They have moved into the daylight—in the new North Michigan Avenue section.

Before you sign another office lease, investigate the new American Bankers Insurance Building at Wabash and Ohio, illustrated here. In this building your office will enjoy the finest, most modern interior appointments. Its beautiful and dignified lobby and entrance show at a glance the high quality that prevails throughout the building.

A low rate permits substantial savings in rent plus the advantage of important savings in your time due to parking facilities, and the added efficiency of daylight quarters undisturbed by the noises of street car and elevated traffic.

You owe it to your business to investigate these advantages and this new tendency in the location of fine offices. Ready for occupancy immediately.

Send for floor plans, photographs and descriptive literature.

HIGH CALIBER MEN.

HARD WORK—BIG MONEY.

$100 to $200 Weekly Immediately.

$10,000-$25,000 Per Year Opportunity.

We have a brand new method of marketing the most saleable and attractive piece of specialty merchandise in America.

Salesmen have made $200 per week, $800 per month from the start. Many others have made over $100 per week during the experimental period; they are making far greater earnings now.

A dozen men—mechanical, sales and executive experts, have spent a year of time and approximately $50,000 in experimenting and research, developing this new sales plan and merchandising method. Approximately $100,000 is now invested in our merchandise and equipment. We plan to invest $150,000 more during the next few months.

We spend an average of $2,000 for every salesman we work here. In addition, we furnish more service to make each sale than your work amounts to. We usually get more cash expense than your time is worth for each sale produced. We give a salesman a real break. Our listing in Dun's is over million high. We are the biggest and most successful operators in America in another line of business in which we have been engaged for years.

We now have positions for salesmen only—men who will follow the methods we have perfected and proven with a great expenditure of time and money, but we will expand into a national organization as rapidly as men are trained and seasoned, so as to become capable and successful branch and district managers and sales executives. The successful development of our business will create scores of sales executive positions in the near future—some within thirty days—which will pay $10,000 and up to $25,000 per year, or more.

We have immediate openings for ten high calibre clean cut men. We will give each of them training by experts and then put each of them in the field with an individual salesman now making well over $100 per week. $200 per week or more. Applicants must be workers, steady, reliable men who are seeking a permanent connection. The man we are coming here will never need another job—and he can make all the money he will ever need.

If you are seeking that kind of an opportunity, it is well worth your while to come to the address given below. You will not be kept waiting for an interview. In a few days we will have a south side office and in a short time an office on the west side and an office in the Loop, but call at once at

SALES MANAGERS

Thoroughly experienced, to take charge and build sales force. We have the most saleable and attractive proposition in Chicago. Leads are created through the appeal of sports. A real opportunity for a man who understands country club atmosphere. A beautiful home site on the lake with every convenience.

Call between 10 a. m. and 3 p. m.
